Ford Steel Body $490

Why Commercial Users Prefer the Ford

There is much significance in the fact that more than 75% of all commercial cars of one-ton capacity or less in the United States are Fords.

This overwhelming preference for Ford haulage units has its basis in the low cost of Ford transportation, the rugged construction of the truck itself, and its unusual adaptability to every line of industry. Mechanical excellence, simplicity of design and ample power are further factors that have contributed to the popularity of the Ford One-Ton Worm Drive Truck.

The Ford One-Ton Truck equipped with an all-steel body and cab is now available as a complete unit, priced at $490 L.o.b. Detroit. Screen sides and canopy roof that may be easily fitted to this unit are supplied at small additional cost.

ASK THE ENVELOPE AND KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT

The fishing season is on. No need to kiss the wife and kids goodbye—climb aboard a train for some over-crowded fishing grounds. Give the whole family a trip in a car—pack the tent—sleep where you stop—stop where you want—alongside some swirling pool, where fighting trout will give you the taste of your life—where the kids can romp the hills and absorb the life-giving freshness of the woods. In other words, get acquainted with your family during your hours of play—the automobile will do it. "ASK THE ENVELOPE" WILL START YOU RIGHT!

PARK GRANGE PLAYERS SCORE BIG HIT

The play "Clarence" by Booth Tarkenton, presented April 4 by the Park Grange dramatic committee at the Park Grange hall, was a very decided success.

The capacity crowd which filled the hall was kept racking with laughter at the humorous lines of the play. The distracted efforts to bring peace into the family, at his wife, who was jealous of the governor, at the terrible frankness with which his son and daughter addressed each other and at Clarence, who was consulted on every occasion, because he had been in the army.

Everyone agreed that the play was well cast and that the acting was splendidly considering that the actors were all amateurs.

John Amman as Clarence, the leading man, did some splendid acting. At first a sickly soldier looking for employment, then a handy man at Mr. Wheeler's country home, doing anything from typewriting letters to playing the saxophone. Finally, he came into his own as Dr. Smith, the world's greatest authority on the colicoptra, and won the love of the governor.

Miss Renia Plinney as the young governess, with whom every man in the cast was in love, had a difficult role which she handled very charmingly. Robert Frey as Mr. Wheeler, the distracted father, who could not do his business better than his home, and whose daughter was most difficult to handle; whose son was expelled from each school in turn, and whose wife was jealous, did some very good acting.

Miss Marian Miller as the young and beautiful wife, the incompetent step-mother, was jealous of her husband and thought that Miss Plinney was certainly too young and pretty to be a governess.

Margaret Johnson and Elna Annala as Cora and Bobby Wheeler, quarreled and called names and acted their parts so naturally that they kept the audience in a state of laughter.

John Gulgaard as good Dinwiddie, the butler, who was in love with Della, the housemaid. His pride was hurt in seeing Bobby kiss her that he reminded her of her smirched reputation at every turn.

Mamie Samuelson as Della, the little Irish housemaid, was desperate at Dinwiddie's anger, threatened Bobby with a broom of promise, had her inquisitive little nose in every affair.

Mrs. C. King Benton and Mrs. E. R. Muller, who directed the play, deserve praise for the production. Evt. Amman, chairman of the dramatic committee; Arne Hukari, advertising manager and Ed. Lape as property man, earned sincere commendation. Properties were loaned by Kelly Bros.

Hans Hoeferlin and W. Nurrenberg provided music during the evening which was enjoyed by everyone.

ALTHOUGH INJURED YOUTH STOPS TRUCK

Donald Joyce, of Ellensburg, driver of a motor truck being operated by the Washington Automobile Club in posting official road signs, received painful bruises Monday when pinned between his truck and an automobile. Young Joyce, ready to leave a service station, cranked his car, which had been left in gear. The machine shot ahead, pinning the youth between the truck and a sedan driven by C. N. Clark, of White Salmon, Wash., in charge of the road sign task. As soon as the Clark car was pushed sideways, leaving sufficient opening for Joyce to escape, he ran to the cab of his truck. He was able to stop the heavy vehicle only after it had rammed a machine owned by M. L. Osgood and ploughed through the front of B. B. Powell's plumbing shop. The young man then immediately collapsed, and it was feared that he had been seriously injured. He was removed to the office of local physicians, where examination revealed that no bones were broken. He was able to drive his car Monday afternoon, leaving for Walla Walla, where highways leading into the Idaho country will be signed.

Bystanders who witnessed the accident praised young Joyce for his presence of mind and grit in mounting his car and bringing the runaway car under control.

MOSIER CHILDREN SCORE BIG IN SHOW

The children of the Mosier school, who last Thursday night presented their junior vaudeville show at the Rialto theatre, scored big with Hood River folk. It was declared that no production of school children has ever been better. Each little actor showed the result of patient training and practice. And each little boy and girl was an individual star. The children gave songs, drills and dances. They even had a diminutive toe dancer, who won the love of the audience. In one of the scenes, where the children appeared in Japanese costumes, two little Japanese children participated. One of them rode in a ricksha.

It was regretted that the Rialto theatre was not crowded for the performance. The visiting school children were so good that they were invited to be present for the annual Chamber of Commerce apple blossom banquet, to be held at the Columbia Gorge hotel.

Mushroom Hunters Busy

Local folk with a bent toward the epicurean are feasting these early spring days on mushrooms. The edible fungus is found in scores of varieties throughout all sections. A favorite place for the mushroom hunters to find basketsful of them is in the shade of old apple trees, in marshy ground. At this season the huge "corncob," a favorite of all, is now found in abundance. Every cow lot now presents many varieties of mushrooms.

Many children of the district have become adepts at hunting the fungi. Mushroom hunting forms a sport similar to putting of fall days in the east and middle west.

Masonic Building Being Remodeled

The interior of Tieman hall, the local Masonic building, has been greatly improved by remodeling and retinting and papering the walls. A large dining room has been made available. The room is 58 by 17 feet and will seat 150 persons. Folding doors can divide the large room into two sections any time this is desired. The kitchen has been removed to the west end of the building. The big reception room will be papered. New tinting will be placed on the kitchen and corridors.

CASE OF MARSHALL HASILETT DISMISSED

On motion of District Attorney Baker, Judge Wilson Thursday dismissed a complaint against Marshall Haslett, Centralia, Wash., south, who was held on a charge of assault and robbery. Immediately on dismissal from custody, Haslett took a train for his home.

The youth's arrest followed charges of Joe Belleger, French-Canadian, who Monday morning, February 18, was picked up on the Columbia River highway near Wyeth, suffering from a gunshot wound in his arm and claiming that he had been shot by a man named "Ted," who had robbed him of savings aggregating $48. He claimed that he had arranged to ride with "Ted" from Portland to Spokane in the latter's automobile, and that he had been attacked after a tire had blown out near Wyeth. Sheriff Johnson, on visiting with Belleger at Gray's Harbor lumber camp identified "Ted" from the description furnished by Belleger as young Haslett. He learned, too, that Belleger had been working under the name, DuBoard. On the return trip the man, who at first denied the accusation, admitted that he had used the assumed name, in order to avoid service in the Canadian army, as he was a Canadian citizen.

Haslett, who retained Lloyd Dysart, prominent young Centralia attorney, to defend him, produced affidavits from a number of Centralia folk, who swore that he was at home the evening he was alleged to have left Portland with Belleger. District Attorney Baker went to the Washington city to verify the affidavits. He declared in his report to the court that the state had no case against young Haslett.

Stores Have Attractive Windows

Forest Fire Prevention week is being observed by local merchants, who are diverting their show windows to attractive displays.

Cecil Lafferty, of the E. A. Franz Co., has arranged two recreationalists' camps. One of them is a carefully kept place, with a smouldering fire. The other is neat and attractive, with the fire carefully extinguished.

In the window of the Book & Art store, Stanley C. Walters, district forest supervisor, has arranged an assortment of various species of trees, which bear name tags. The city and rural schools will devote assemblies this week to the prevention of forest fires.

Nutritious? Doctors say it is!

The business of food is body building. The better food is the bigger builder, and right here we think of bacon—Frye's "Delicious" Brand Bacon.

Doctors tell us that this delightful breakfast dish is rich in nourishment and is easily digested. Because of this they especially recommend that bacon be served to school children.

Look for this label when you go to your grocer's or market. You'll see it on the wrapper and burned into the rind—it's a safe guide to uniform quality. And Frye's "Delicious" Brand Ham is just as good as the Bacon. Both are prepared only from tender young grain fed porkers, and the special Frye process keeps in all the goodness, while the curing is so mild that parboiling is unnecessary.
