THE AUTO PARK AGAIN

We do not wish to grow tiresome over the subject of the automobile park. And, in fact, we do not believe the general tax paying public has been bored with what the Glacier has had to say recently or last spring with regard to the park proposition.

Someone has recalled that we promised to support the automobile project, once it was acted upon, last spring. Indeed, we did. We would much prefer to see the Hatcherfield park traveling along toward success than to see it in its present state.

These promises have not been kept. Instead we find the actual cost of the park improvement up to date has exceeded $2,000. The budget, in addition to providing for the annual application of $1,000 on the purchase price, interest of $540 and taxes, calls for something like $2,000 for further improvement.

Whose promise was broken first, ours, or the proponents of the park, who painted so glowing a picture of it last spring? There are no twinges to our conscience when we suggest with all seriousness that the city sell the automobile park as soon as possible.

If the park is to be operated under lease the city should reserve the right to sell it at any time. And we will end these remarks, as we have others on the same subject, with the kindly suggestion that Mr. Huelat resign from the council, inasmuch as he is a bidder for the park lease.

Runaway Boys Apprehended. LaVerne Anderson, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, and Norman Halston, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Halston, both families residents of St. Johns district, Portland, were apprehended here yesterday and returned home.

E. C. Kroll, Portland baker, gave the boys a ride while motoring here over the Columbia River highway. They told him they were brothers, walking here from Salem in search of their father. Mr. Kroll took them to Chief of Police Hart, that he might add them to their search. Mr. Hart immediately recognized the boys from descriptions in a Portland police bulletin. Mr. Kroll returned them to Portland last night.

The boys finally admitted that they were running away from home. They were headed they said, for Pendleton, where they hoped to become cowboys.

EARLY MAILING IS URGED UPON PEOPLE

Last year, through the generous cooperation of the press, movies and other advertising mediums, Christmas mailers were induced to dispatch their Yuletide presents earlier in the month than ever before in the history of the institution of gift exchanging in the holiday season.

As a result, the spectacle of the last minute rush of former years, with its attendant heartbreaking labor on the part of wearied and nerve worn store clerks and postal employees, was avoided.

This year Postmaster General New and First Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett have determined to make an even better record and to banish for all time the suffering undergone in past years by those engaged in the sale or transportation of gifts. They hope to make "Shop Early" and "Mail Early" a habit with the American people.

Mailing early does not mean December 1 before, but if everyone could get their holiday tokens in the mail between December 10 and December 20, the post office could not ask more.

Particular attention this year will be paid to greeting cards. Despite the success last year it was noted that the last-minute mail consisted largely of cards. Possibly many of them were returned to the sender, marked "Do Not Open Until Christmas." Therefore, it is possible that the many mailers hold them until the last to insure delivery on Christmas eve. This class of mailers this year, however, may find their cards undelivered until after Christmas day.

Believing that the energies of postal employees should not be sapped to the last degree for any avoidable reason, and intent upon securing for them the same Christmas privileges enjoyed by others, Postmaster General New asks the hearty cooperation of the public. The last-minute, or zero hour, has been moved up so that all postal employees may eat their Christmas dinners at home. Rural carriers will deliver no mail at all Christmas day and clerks and carriers in the city offices will stop work promptly at noon.

Too Much Heat. (By Frederick D. Stricker, M. D., collaborating epidemiologist, Oregon State Board of Health, in cooperation with United States Public Health Service.) One of the most important predisposing factors to acute respiratory diseases is breathing hot, vitiated and dry air. More people suffer from common colds than any other single ailment. The sum total of the inconvenience, complications, and economic loss resulting from common colds and these infectious among the serious diseases. The prevention of colds consists, first, in avoiding people who have colds, and second, in guarding against the predisposing causes.

Avoid too much heat. Acustom yourself to healthful temperatures. If you would have red cheeks and clear eyes, sleep out of doors. The universal demand of the present day in human beings is efficiency. Anything that will increase efficiency is to be welcomed.

In general, cool moving air of a moderate, low humidity is more conducive to efficiency than a hot, humid, still air. Experts on ventilation have discovered that 68 degrees Fahrenheit gives the best results in working efficiency and personal comfort.

Abundance of air should be assured by opening window ventilation. A well designed window board will prevent drafts. Children who spend the entire day in a poorly ventilated school room are not given a fair chance for proper development.

Good ventilation is a big factor in the war on respiratory diseases. The good effect of open air life no longer demands proof. In disease as well as in health the effect is a general one on the body and not merely a question of breathing air. In this sense the open air is an air bath even when the body is clothed.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CHRISTMAS MAILING

The following suggestions are made that the patrons of the postal service may assist post office employees and at the same time secure better service through the mail.

It is always wise to shop early and mail Christmas parcels early. All parcels must be securely wrapped or packed in order to reach their destination in good condition. Use strong paper and heavy twine.

Umbrellas, canes or golf sticks should be reinforced their full length by strong strips of wood, tightly wrapped and tied. Cut flowers should be placed in strong, suitable boxes of wood, tin, or heavy corrugated cardboard. Wrap the flowers with tissue paper to keep moist.

Any perishable article should be sent special delivery, and none will be accepted for a greater distance than they will reasonably carry. Use liberal quantities of excelsior, or like material in, around and between the articles and outside container. All such articles should be marked "Fragile."

Sharp-pointed or sharp-edged instruments or tools must have points and edges fully guarded to prevent injury to clerks handling or damage to other mail.

Patrons should give more serious thought to the cards mailed during the holidays. Make an effort to have Christmas cards carry the size of regular letters or correspondence cards. The small, odd sized cards make an extra amount of work for the postal clerks, besides being much more easily lost in the mail.

Use letter size cards, thereby considering the already over-burdened clerks. Insure or register valuable mail. While rural carriers sometimes make a delivery Christmas day, it is not required by the postal authorities. Therefore, mail your parcels in plenty of time to be delivered the day or two before Christmas.

Help the post service to give you the best of service. Shop and mail early. Parcels can always be marked "Do Not Open Until Christmas."

Apple Shipments Heavy. Reports of apple shippers up to Tuesday showed that 2,500 carloads of packed apples had been forwarded to domestic and export markets. Data on other fruit, potato and allied products was as follows: Peas, 140 cars; cut apples, 120 cars; fruit juice, 35 cars; potatoes, 3 cars. The total potato tonnage was estimated at 100 cars. Most growers, however, stored the tuber crops.
