HOME CELEBRATIONS

Because of the prevalence of scarlet fever and diphtheria, we suggest that all parents heed the warning of Health Officer Edgington and let the Yuletide and pre-Yuletide celebrations of the little ones all be at home.

It is regrettable that a number of fathers will have to remain away from home over the biggest home holiday of the year. There is likelihood that more will find themselves quarantined away from dear ones, unless the suggestions of the health officials are given heeding.

HAMMERS AND HORNS

As we go to press we are given to understand that the committee to which was referred the matter of a lease of the city automobile park has concluded to accept the proposal of Mr. Huelet.

We wish to voice an opposition to this movement, both on the grounds of general principles and economical administration of the municipal government.

We will say again that the municipality has no right whatsoever to go to the expense of more than $3,000, in addition to a purchase price of $12,000, of which $9,000 will be actual cash, in equipping an automobile park and then leasing that to an individual, permitting the latter the concessions in the way of the sale of gasoline and other supplies.

The Hood River Pythian band continues to win plaudits from home folks. The concerts of last week at the Rialto theatre were well worth while. The musical organization has made steady and enviable progress.

It plays difficult selections with ease. Hood River citizens in general will welcome another of the series of concerts planned for the winter by the band.

The results obtained in the local band have not been just luck. Those players have worked and practiced hundreds of times in order to bring themselves to the point of perfection now noted by listeners.

Mr. Huelet, as a document expressing optimism Mr. Huelet's letter is remarkable. Furthermore, it is intensely interesting. He advises that citizens bury their hammers and set out their horns.

In another column of The Glacier this week appears a communication from Mr. Huelet. As a document expressing optimism Mr. Huelet's letter is remarkable.

It is intensely interesting. He advises that citizens bury their hammers and set out their horns. In other words, Mr. Huelet, who we are given to understand, is assured of the lease of the automobile park, wants no criticism, but only support.

He frankly says he believes the expressions of The Glacier, which is fairly representative of a huge element of the people, will promote competition of individually owned auto parks. Maybe so—we had never considered this angle.

The Glacier does not feel that it has been wielding a hammer destructive to the general interests of all the citizens of Hood River in its appeals in the matter of the city automobile park. Anyhow, we are willing to leave our views to the test of the common sense of the taxpayers.

In closing a number of comments recently, we have cited that Mr. Huelet hurt his position severely by remaining on the city council while occupying a municipal position that drew a salary of $100 per month.

We are reminded of that poem of Robert Burns about the well dressed woman who went to church, and those behind her, as she knelt in her pew, observed that a louse was crawling down her neck.

"Woe to God the gift he'd give ye to see your self as others see ye." Your failure to resign from the council has, figuratively speaking, put a louse on your neck.

THE BRIDGE

The Bridge is open. In a measure last Saturday we of Hood River sensed what it will mean to us. In a few hours Hood River folk and their former far away neighbors of White Salmon, Underwood, Bingen and Lyle learned more about each other than in the entire past history of the mid-Columbia. Mr. Butler gave the final tap of his slide and the barriers of centuries were down.

The opening of the Bridge is going to mean more and more to us as each day passes. By this time next year we will really have comprehended its worth. It will not only make Hood River the hub of the mid-Columbia scenic Canadas but also of the entire trade territory of the mid-Columbia. Hood River will be the main city of this section.

We are glad to see our Washington mid-Columbia folk coming among us. We want to return their visits. We want to sense the charm of the wonderful region that is theirs. We want to become acquainted with their Mount Adams area. The North Bank communities will begin to realize next spring and summer and fall the value of the Bridge to them. They will then get an influx of motor tourists that have hitherto been blocked.

Furthermore they will find new settlers attracted to their lands. Benefits are going to become very apparent on both sides of the river.

The wedding of Miss Irene Devlin and George Hanel, Upper Valley service station man, occurred Sunday at the parsonage of the First Christian church, Mrs. W. O. Livingstone, who is an ordained minister and wife of the pastor, officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Devlin. Mr. Hanel is a member of a pioneer Upper Valley family.

Monday evening friends and neighbors of the young couple called at the Devlin home and participated in one of the most hilarious charivaris ever held in the Mt. Hood district.

And the Bridge stockholders are going to be well pleased. The traffic has started off better than was anticipated. The numbers of those who cross the Columbia at Hood River will indeed be legion.

THE HOOD RIVER BRIDGE

(From The Dalles Chronicle of last Saturday.)

Today at Hood River the last spike was driven in the new bridge, spanning the Columbia river and connecting the fertile Hood River and White Salmon valleys. With a simple ceremony the bridge was thrown open to travel, and in the future will be open at all times, on a toll basis.

Hood River is to be congratulated on the foresight and energy of its citizens in conceiving and carrying to fulfillment the bridge plan. We predict that the new span will be a paying proposition almost from the start, for Hood River is most fortunately situated as to its highway connections. Much of the travel from Yakima, Goldendale and other central Washington points may be expected to utilize this new bridge.

The Evergreen highway, on the north bank of the Columbia, some day will be completed to White Salmon with a good macadam or paved surfacing, which will provide an ideal loop trip for a day's drive out of Portland, either over the Columbia River highway or Mount Hood Loop road.

Also, one of Washington's most fertile agricultural and horticultural districts is brought into more intimate connection with Oregon, while the scenic attractions of Mount Adams, Trout Lake and the ice caves are made more accessible.

Hood River has a habit of putting over big things, for a comparatively little town, and The Dalles, its mid-Columbia neighbor, extends its sincere congratulations upon this, its latest accomplishment.

MR. BLOUNT WAS STRICKEN SUDDENLY

J. L. Blount, 85, native of Kansas, died suddenly Tuesday night. Mr. Blount came to Tacoma in his early manhood, residing there for 20 years. He came here with his family 25 years ago. Until a breakdown some months ago, Mr. Blount was noted for his vigor.

Funeral services to be held at the Anderson chapel awaited advice from Mrs. H. G. Grier, daughter of Tacoma. Other surviving children are: Tel W. Blount, of Mt. Hood; Mrs. Maude Friedlander, of Chicago, and Mrs. G. H. Steinbock, of Riverside, Calif. Mrs. Blount passed away three years ago. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon.

BUFFALO ROASTS ARE OFFERED HERE

Buffalo roasts and steaks will be available for Christmas, the delectation of Hood River folk. The Hood River market yesterday secured a buffalo that weighed a little over 1,000 pounds. The animal will be skinned and placed in the big cooler to season for Christmas week cutting.

Numerous orders have already been received by the market, and it is anticipated that many who want buffalo meat for the holiday dinners will be disappointed.

A. F. Davenport, who several years ago secured a buffalo for the holidays, says he found that everyone liked the meat.

H. R. PYTHIAN BAND DANCE NEW YEARS

The Hood River Pythian band is making elaborate preparations for the annual dance of the aggregation at the Pythian hall New Year's eve. The band members will have the hall uniquely decorated and some interesting stunts will be provided for the evening.

Upper Valley Meeting Wednesday Prof. C. J. Hurd, of the Oregon Agricultural College, will be the first speaker at a series of conferences to be held at Parkdale during the winter months under auspices of the Men's Forum of the Upper Valley Community church. He will talk at the McIsaac hall next Wednesday evening on "Recent Trends of Co-operative Marketing."

Grange Store Meeting

A special meeting of the stockholders of the Grange Co-operative Store will be held in library hall January 5 at 2:30 p. m. to amend Article 8 of the Articles of Incorporation, to change the date of the annual meeting from the first to the third Tuesday in January.

Aug. Guignard, Sec. Frank Dethman, Chairman of the Board.

A. O. U. W. at New Hall

The members of the A. O. U. W., who last Saturday held their meeting at the new lodge room in the First National Bank building, the first since the old K. P. hall fire, expressed themselves as well pleased with the new quarters.

Initiation services were conducted. Numerous members were present from The Dalles and Portland. An appetizing lunch was served.

Rockford Grange Dance, Dec. 17.
