everything," says Mr. Devin. "Business houses operating large fleets of cars, generally low-priced, report an average of 10 cents, but there is no doubt that it costs many private owners more than this per mile.

Automobile owners are divided into three classes as regards cost information. First there is the man who says he doesn't want to know what it costs because it might give him a headache and anyhow the car is a necessity. Another type of owner makes sporadic and half-hearted attempts to get the facts. Finally, there are the few who keep records of upkeep and operation.

"A. L. Beedle, of the Beedle Equipment Company, Cincinnati, belongs in the third class. A prospective buyer wrote Mr. Beedle recently asking his experience with the Jewett Six and the Cincinnati owner replied with a detailed statement of car expenses. At the time his Jewett touring had been driven 9,100 miles in seven months.

"Cost per mile to own the car, including depreciation, interest, garage, insurance and taxes, was 4.35 cents. Cost to run was figured at a fraction over three cents, making a total cost of 7.98 cents per mile. Mr. Beedle incidentally had a great many good things to say about the performance of his Jewett.

"These figures check closely with the reports of many others and especially with an investigation covering 30 Jewett cars in Utica, N. Y. It was found that these Jewett cars averaged eight cents per mile including all expense. The allowance for depreciation was four cents per mile, which is amply high.

"It is evident from these facts that Jewett owners do not need to worry about car expense and that they are saving at least one or two cents per mile in repair bills required by less well built cars."

Odell High School Notes

December 26.

The past week Miss Barton, nurse recently selected by Miss Whittaker to supervise health conditions among pupils of the public schools of Odell, made a number of inspections of all pupils in the schools. Her reports are quite favorable, there being no symptoms of scarlet fever. There are, however, a number of the pupils having bad colds. We are urged to continue every precaution that is advocated by the county health board.

School attendance for the two days of this week, Monday and Tuesday, reached the poor record immediately preceding and following apple harvest vacation. In order to succeed in high school work pupils must attend school punctually and regularly. In cases of absence or tardiness excuses from parents, either in person or by written note, is required. No excuse is deemed valid except that of sickness.

But we are glad to report that the following students have perfect attendance records during the past school month: Freshman class, William Dakin, Walter Gould, Delbert Sweek, Elton Wasson, Esther Fellman, Geraldine Giberson, Florence Hlat, Agnes Roberts, sophomore, James Edstrom, Joe Kollas, Irma Bowerman, Irene Ingles, Linda Udelius, Bonnie Weinhelmer, Hilda Turner; juniors, Mary Shute; seniors, Adolph Fuchs.

Tuesday afternoon school was dismissed for the Christmas vacation. School will be resumed Monday, January 5.
