RETIRING JUSTICE TELLS OF DUTIES

Editorial: After eight years' service as local magistrate a few comments may be in order. Judge Buck resigned in December, 1916, and was appointed to the office until it could be filled by election. I entered on the duties of the office on January 3, 1917, and served two years by appointment. In 1918 I was elected for the term of six years. The term was formerly two years, but by constitutional amendment the term of all judicial officers was changed to six years.

Although Hood River county is divided into three justice court districts, the offices at Cascade Locks and Parkdale have been filled only a portion of the time, and even then nearly all cases for the justice court are brought before the justice court at Hood River, making it practically a county office. There is no salary attached to the office by general statute, the compensation in this county depending on small fees allowed by law and these have not been changed in many years. While in the circuit court the work is divided between the judge, the clerk of the court and in some cases a jury, the justice is required to perform all these duties, unless a jury is specially demanded, which does not often occur. Civil actions in the justice court in this state are limited to claims not exceeding $250, and the greater crimes, known as felonies, can have only a preliminary hearing and must either be dismissed, or carried to the circuit court in all the years of my service, I do not recall a single case in which I have rendered a decision which has been appealed to the higher court.

As shown by the recent statement of District Attorney Baker, the number of cases tried in the justice court has greatly increased, no more, however, than is to be expected under existing conditions. Law enforcement is three-cornered affairs and either the leg is weak there is a failure to function. I want to express my appreciation of the earnest, thorough work of the sheriff and his deputies in the detection and apprehension of criminals and with the readiness of the district attorney to prosecute law violators. As the latter, however, are on the watch for the officers they have less chance to detect offenders than the ordinary citizen may have. Do not depend too much on the officers. Any citizen who can assist in apprehending a criminal is in duty bound to do so, and the attention of the sheriff's office should be directed to any matter demanding his attention.

The penalties prescribed for the various crimes are intended primarily to protect society by preventing the violation of law and more care is needed in considering the attending circumstances and all the elements involved. It is fortunate in some ways that most of our criminals are young and not beyond the reach of reformation, that it may be possible for them to become good, law-abiding citizens. The judge has an opportunity of impressing upon those brought before him some wholesome lessons and arousing, if possible, an interest in their own welfare; if this is done in the right spirit many will respond to such treatment, taking the just penalty imposed as a needed lesson, and by their own good as well as a warning against the commission of crime.

Another opportunity for service in connection with marriage ceremonies, of which I have performed over 100. An affair so much in importance, not only to the individuals immediately concerned but to society, should not be passed over lightly. I believe that more recognition should be given not only to the claim we have upon the state for protection of life, liberty and prosperity, but also to the resulting obligations that rest upon us as individuals to be the right kind of citizens and to have the right kind of homes and these principles should be part of the foundation of every home.

If the duties of the office of justice of the peace are faithfully and properly recognized the office is no sinecure. It is too much to expect that the services so rendered will be appreciated by the public in general for they do not understand; but I do believe that we Americans are too ready to judge and criticize our public officials when our knowledge of the facts is so imperfect; that such criticism may be unkind, unjust and unwise, causing unnecessary suffering on the part of faithful public servants and making it more difficult to secure the services of the men whose services might be the most valuable.

STAGE AND SCREEN

"Why Men Leave Home," the first National picture coming to the Rialto theatre Friday and Saturday, marks Lewis Stone's third appearance in a John M. Stahl production.

Stone, who is known as one of the leading leading men of the screen, and also one of the highest salaried artists of Filmdom, taking the leading role in "The Child Thou Gavest Me." His success in this wonderful production was limited to status and a remarkable interpretation of the highly dramatic lead in "The Dangerous Age."

His interpretation of this part is said to have been the finest he has acted in his long screen and stage career. But his work in "Why Men Leave Home," thinks Director Stahl, is even better than his performance in "The Dangerous Age."

The all-star cast of "Why Men Leave Home" includes: Lewis Stone, Helene Chadwick, William V. Mong, Mary Carr, Alma Bennett and Hedda Hopper.

Next Sunday Reginald Denny and Laura La Plante will be seen at the Rialto in "The Girl from the Sun," from the novel, "Husbands of Edith," by George Barr McCutcheon.

Monday evening the Moroni Olsen players will present "You and I."

Four veteran clowns of vaudeville and circus life will be featured in "The Bonehead," the Educational-Triumph comedy which will be at the Rialto theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Supporting the star, "Poodles" Hank Henneford, the famous New York Hippodrome riding clown, will be seen in "The Girl from the Sun" with George Davis, Cy Jinks and Harry Tighe. Davis is perhaps the best known of Australia's clowns, and is well known throughout American circus lands. Cy Jinks and Harry Tighe are also well known to circus people the world over. These four clowns, each one of them a master of the art of pantomime, prove that their years of training in circus life have ideally fitted them for screen comedy roles.

Another well known vaudeville actor in the cast of "The Bonehead" is Joe Keaton, originator of the "Three Keatons" act, which played for 16 years on the American stage, with Buster Keaton, "Dad Joe's" son, in the cast.

"North of 36," the new Paramount picture which will appear next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Rialto theatre, is an epic of the stirring and stirring pioneer days that bridged the gap between Indian warfare and America's industrial birth.

The story takes place just after the Civil war—a story of the greatest of all cattle drives from the plains of Texas to the markets of Kansas, then the far-west terminal of civilization. The tale has an historical as well as a romantic appeal. Miss Wilson, as the young girl who leads her loyal and devoted cowmen and an immense herd of cattle over an unblazed trail for many hundreds of miles, is a dauntless, courageous character.

There is Jack Hilly, the young man who loves her but dare not aspire to her because he is a killer, and who guards her from many perils despite her scorn of him because she believes he is a thief and in league with a ruffian. Rudabaugh (Noah Berry) commands interest and admiration throughout.

There is the tracking of a murderer, political intrigue, perhaps the forcing of swollen rivers, stampeding cattle, an encounter with Indians, love—the story has all the elements of a stirring picture, with the colorful, picturesque background of the days following the Civil war, when the frontier was in the throes of a grim reconstruction.

Ernest Torrence, playing Jim Natch, Talsie's (Miss Wilson) ranch foreman, completes the cast of featured players in the production.

Other big names in the cast are Oliver Dunbar, Stephen Carr, Guy David, Wm. Carroll, Clarence Gledhill, George Irving and Edith Barry.

Irvin Willat directed the production which was adapted for the screen by James Hamilton from the great novel of Emerson Hough. Here's real entertainment!

DAVIDSON WAS AT CANNERY MEETING

H. F. Davidson has been in Portland this week attending a meeting at which an approximate 50 northwestern canneries are represented. Mr. Davidson is president of the association.

F. P. Kendall, general manager of the Northwest district of the American Can company, welcomed the visitors at the Monday morning session and outlined the program for the three-day conference. Most of the morning hours were consumed with the registration of convention visitors. On the day's program were Mrs. M. E. Trumbull, industrial welfare commission of Oregon, who spoke on canning sanitation. Mrs. D. M. Johnson, of the department of labor, Washington, D. C., also talked on advanced demands in canning sanitation. "Standards of Fruits and Vegetables" was the subject of an address by Charles A. Park, president of the Oregon state board of horticulture. A report on "Experimental Packs of 1923," prepared by Dr. E. F. Kohman, of the National Canners' Association of Research Laboratories, was read. Tonight the annual banquet will be held at the Multnomah hotel. Edgar H. Senechik, president of the West Coast National bank, will make an address at the banquet.

The canning industry in the northwest, convention members say, represent approximately $20,000,000.

WHITE SALMON

The Alfred Lumber Co. at Mountain Brook, northeast of here, is planning to reopen January 20, the weather permitting.

The new city council will be installed January 13. Some substantial improvement work is already being planned by the incoming mayor, Geo. C. Gladwin, and councilmen Geo. A. Read, R. O. Lyon, and councilmember C. E. Brannaman and C. L. Colburn.

A special musical program is to be given by Mrs. Roy Hosman at the first meeting for 1925 of the White Salmon Women's club January 15 at the Odd Fellows hall. The Women's club is carrying on a meritorious work in collecting clothing for the worthy poor in this district. There are several families in dire need, who will be cared for, if the appeal sent out by the club is heeded.

Wade Dean, prominent orchardist of the Glimmer valley district, is very optimistic over the outlook for the 1925 pear crop. Mr. Dean is manager of the Mount Adams farm, and controls the largest pear orchard in the country. He spent the holidays in Portland.

C. S. Card, of Denver, Colo., father of Mrs. W. H. Warner, of White Salmon, has been spending the holidays with his family at the Card ranch in the Mountain Brook district.

The warm springlike weather is giving orchardists and gardeners an early start this year on orchard work.

Irving H. Evans and wife, of the Major Creek district, were Hood River visitors Friday.

H. E. Sheldon, and wife, of Twin Falls, Ida., are spending the winter on Bates Bros. ranch, "Kabokona," northeast of here. Mr. Sheldon has purchased the E. E. Mills half share of the Mills & Sheldon orchard at Laws Corner, and will make his permanent residence here.

Richard J. Bates, a member of the firm of Bates Bros., orchardists on Burdell mountain, now president of the Coast Motors, Incorporated, a large garage handling Geesey and Hudson cars, besides general storage, at Fourth and Harrison streets, Portland, reports his business so heavy this winter that it has been necessary to turn away a large portion on account of lack of storage room. Bates is justice of the peace and cooperative U. S. weather observer on Burdell, and still retains his interests here.

This community was greatly shocked at the unexpected death of John B. Humphrey, prominent orchardist of Hood View. Mr. Humphrey died of pneumonia New Years day, after an illness of several weeks. He was nearly 60 years of age. Interment was at I. O. O. F. cemetery.

Floyd G. Martin, local battery man, has entered the radio field and will handle standard sets to satisfy the growing demand for this popular form of entertainment and educational features now being broadcast. The shut-ins in remote districts here are enjoying the radio to the limit. White Salmon now has four radio dealers, a large number for the size of the little city, but White Salmon is growing.

The lively little Bingen Herald is expanding in a substantial way, as is the town itself. Very few persons know that the correct pronunciation for the word, "Bingen," commonly pronounced, "Binjun," is "Bingen" (as in cherry).

The few cases of scarlet fever here are of mild form, and the disease has not reached an epidemic stage, owing to strict quarantine placed by Dr. W. H. Warner, city health officer. Insipid colds are prevalent here, with but few cases of pneumonia. Vigilance on the part of officials and physicians is the present watchword, and there is practically no danger of epidemics in this district, contrary to reports.

Inquiries for lands from future settlers are already coming in from the middle states and prospects for continued prosperity were never brighter. The precipitation of rain for the 24-hour period ending at 5 p. m. January 2 was 3.6 of an inch. Very little snow remains upon the ground. All country roads are negotiable for auto traffic, but some are in very bad shape.

Brown, of Los Angeles, Cal., survive.

N. N. Hawley, of Portland, who lived here for a number of years, was back visiting old friends one day last week.

Front Lake grange will install new officers at their next meeting, January 10.

The dance at the hall New Years eve was well attended.

The young people held a watch meeting at the church New Years eve.

The ice houses have all been filled and the ice is of better grade than for a number of years.

Owing to the cold weather and ice troubles the electric light plant and local water systems have been shut down.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rogers have been spending a few days in Portland.

CASCADE LOCKS

Mrs. Annie Hill Whiteman died at her home near Carson, Wash., December 26. She was born at Fort Scott, Kan., December 30, 1868, and lived in Kansas most of her life. Mrs. Whiteman came to Washington in 1920 with her father, Rufus Joel Hill. Her sister, Mrs. W. W. Yoe, and a nephew, Glen H. Brown, of Los Angeles, Cal., survive.

About 60 feet of the flume of the Skamania Light & Power Company was washed out Friday, leaving the towns of Cascade Locks and Stevenson, Oregon, and Cascade, Wash., to which the company furnishes power, without light for about 24 hours.

Captain Charles H. Nelson has been elected constable for Cascade Locks and by virtue of that office will act as deputy sheriff. Mr. Nelson was for years a captain of a river steamer on the Columbia river. He also is chairman of the local school board.

George Watson, 89, died at the home of Mrs. Blanche Kessler December 29. He was born in Ireland June 19, 1835, and went to Canada when a young man, living there for a number of years and then coming to the United States. He has no relatives so far as known. Rev. J. C. Lawrence, of the Methodist church of Carson, Wash., conducted the funeral service at the home of Mrs. Kessler.

HAZLETT TO LEAVE FOR SALEM FRIDAY

James H. Hazlett, who has been a practicing attorney here since 1912, will leave Friday for Salem to assume his duties as representative in the legislature of Hood River county. Mr. Hazlett is a native of Illinois. He was educated at Morgan Park Academy, Chicago, and Harvard College. Mr. Hazlett practiced law in Boston for five years before coming to Hood River. He is a Democrat.

Since Hood River county was established in 1908 others of the county who have been in the lower house of the legislature have been: Judge John H. Stranahan and Judge Blowers.

Auxiliary Appoints Committees

The American Legion Auxiliary will have the following chairman for its various committees during 1925: Hospital, Mrs. A. C. Lofis; membership, Mrs. W. E. Shay; social, Mrs. Fred Donnerberg; unit activities, Mrs. A. D. Hanson; program, Mrs. Ed Krieg; legislative, Mrs. V. R. Abraham; Americanism, Mrs. F. W. Inzalls; finance, Mrs. Floyd French; publicity, Mrs. Geo. R. Wilbur.

The officers for the year were installed and the yearly reports given at the regular meeting at the Library hall Monday, December 5.

EDEN PARK GAINS FURTHER FRIENDS

Acacia, Calif., Dec. 30, 1924.

Editorial: You may perhaps be interested in the following extract from an unsolicited letter just received from Rev. Sydney B. Snow, pastor of the Church of the Messiah, Montreal, Canada. Through our common friend, Walter Pritchard Eaton, I gave Mr. Snow last summer some information about the Mount Hood region, and recommended to him a camping trip to Eden Park, after he had climbed the mountain. He writes in part as follows:

"We made our camp at Elk Cove, and from there explored Eden Park. It was all and more than you had promised us. When our trip was presently is able to announce that a sum of $4000 has been bid for it. Mistland is ecstatically delighted, and has a vision of his domestic business entirely cleared of clouds, mist, but crushed by the discovery that the purchaser is his old "bosn" soap manufacturer, who proposes to use it for advertising purposes. He even offers Mistland his old position and further rich remuneration if he will henceforth dedicate his art to the service of the factory. At first the latter indignantly spurns the proposal, but his pride is finally overcome by his realization of his own limitations and of the hard facts in the case and he resigns his office with a sense of relief and a sense of parental duty.

This will undoubtedly be the most pleasing offering of the local theatrical season and an extraordinary attendance is predicted.

Rockford Watch Party Popular

About 400 people gathered at the Rockford grange hall New Year's eve to celebrate the awakening of the new year and the passing of the old. The committee, Mrs. H. D. Steele, Mrs. E. L. Moller, and Mrs. Alma Jakuu and Chas. Smith and A. Eastman, had arranged for amusement, cards and dancing. Howard's Aces of Melody furnished their usual lively and latest numbers of dance music. At midnight a bounteous chicken platter was served in the basement dining room. Mrs. Kreig and Mrs. Merrill had charge of the dining room.

Two long banquet tables accommodated the merry throng and was presided over by Robt. Frey, toastmaster, who cleverly entertained the guests. Other speakers were Prof. E. Gibson, State Grange Master Palmer, August Gulbrand, the master of Rockford grange for the coming year, C. K. Benton and A. G. Wing.

After the banquet the card games and dancing were continued until the wee hours of the new year.

The hall was most artistically decorated. A huge Christmas tree, and quantities of evergreens and mistletoe amongst the bright red lamp shades and curtains gave a most festive appearance.

Although the dance floor was crowded, the efficient management by Charles Smith and Arvid Eastman assured all present a splendid time.

Howard's popular orchestra will again play at Rockford hall Wednesday evening, January 21. These dances in such a way as to be most popular given in Hood River. Come and see for yourself. All are cordially welcomed. Every effort is put forth to arrange these community dances in such a way as to surely please you, and give you a most enjoyable evening of amusements. So come and bring your friends.

Many Rainbows Last Week

If every rainbow really ended in a pot of gold, the huge number of several hundred acres that lies along the Columbia river just north of the city would have contained treasure beyond count last Friday. It was a day of rainbows in Hood River. With a brilliant sun shining through a light mist, the great, varicolored arches were seen from town through the mid-day hours, and business folk left the downtown district to view them from vantage points on higher elevations. At times the rainbows were seen in ranks of three.

Have You Uric Acid Trouble?

Many Hood River Folks Are Learning How to Avoid It.

Are you lame and aching; tortured with backache and rheumatic pains? Feel nervous, depressed, and all-played-out? Then look to your kidneys! When the kidneys weaken uric acid accumulates, poisoning blood and nerves, and many mysterious aches and ills result. Help your kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills! Your friends and neighbors recommend Doan's Pills.

Slutz, 1216 Thirteenth St., says: "My kidneys were out of fix and I had severe pains across my back and hips that hurt me to stoop. I was in bad shape and my kidneys acted irregularly. The secretions contained sediment and passed too freely at times. I used Doan's Pills from Chas. N. Clarke's drug store. Doan's relieved the backaches and regulated my kidneys."

OLSEN PLAYERS WILL PRESENT "YOU AND I"

The noted Harvard prize play of 1922 entitled "You and I" which was produced with great success in New York is the play selected by the Moroni Olsen Players for production at the Rialto theatre next Monday night. This comedy drama has a very fascinating story.

Maitland White, an educated man with artistic tastes, holds a lucrative post in a great soap factory. He is prosperous, still young, carefree and very happily married, devoted to his wife and only son. But he is not content because his one ambition in life is to be a great painter. Fate had driven him into a business which he despised, when he made an early marriage, and his heart is set upon his boy being a great architect. But the boy, Roderick, falls in love with Veronica, and resolutely announces his intention of abandoning his profession, marrying her out of hand, and seeking a job in the factory.

The father is sorely grieved, and his wife, his good angel, induces him not unwillingly, to retire from business for a year, turn his attic into a studio and forget his troubles in the pursuit of the art to which he is so devoted. No sooner said than done, and with a servant girl for a model, he succeeds in producing a picture with which he is enraptured. But everything goes wrong. His investments fall, his place at the factory is filled, and he is threatened with absolute ruin. To add to his perplexities, Veronica—in a spirit of self-sacrifice, hoping to help her lover—breaks her troth with Roderick in order that he may be free to follow his studies. Just at the moment when there is no money to pay for them.

At this juncture Mrs. White and an old friend, Geoffrey Nichols, arrange a ball at which the wonderful picture shall be sold at auction. She invites some famous connoisseurs, and

MT. HOOD DANCE TOMORROW

The next regular Mt. Hood community hall dance will be held tomorrow evening. Indications point to a merry crowd at the popular place, and a fair crowd is expected to motor out from the city. Howard's Aces of Melody, as usual, will officiate on the orchestra instruments.

Loganberry vines in nearly all districts where the fruit is grown are trained to a wire trellis made by setting posts about 30 feet apart in the rows. These posts are not less than 7 feet in length, with 2 to 2 1/2 feet in the ground. Either two or three No. 12 or 14 wires may be used. When three wires are used they are strung in levels of about 2 feet 3.9 inches and 5 feet from the ground. The lower wire is too low for holding fruit wood, but aids in keeping the bases of the canes in place. When two wires are used they are strung about 2 1/2 to 4 1/2 feet from the ground.
