Some Questions Answered about Pacific Power & Light Co. 7% Preferred Stock
What is Preferred Stock?
A share of Preferred Stock represents a part ownership in the Company's business. It has certain rights over other classes of stock. For instance, its dividends must be paid before any dividend is paid on the common stock. It also has preference over the common stock in case of liquidation.

What does "Cumulative" mean?
Cumulative refers to the dividends and means that all dividends due on the stock from the time it is issued must be paid before any dividends are paid on the common stock.
The cumulative feature is an important safeguard for Preferred Stockholders.

What are Dividends?
Money paid to Stockholders out of a Company's earnings is called Dividends.
Are Dividends Guaranteed?
No. No Company honestly conducted can guarantee its dividends because any such so-called "guarantee" must rest upon the earning power of the Company itself, and who can guarantee that? But this Company does guarantee to pay quarterly dividends at the present rate on its Preferred Stock before paying any dividends on its common stock.

Will the Preferred Stock ever pay bigger dividends?
No. The dividend rate is always fixed in high grade investments of this kind because of the safeguards around the issue—such as being Preferred, Cumulative, etc.

If, for some unforeseen reason, a dividend is not paid, what happens?
The dividends on this Stock are CUMULATIVE. This means that if one or more dividends are not paid when due, they must later be paid in full before any dividends on the common stock are paid.
Many stocks are NOT cumulative but this Company's Preferred Stock has that special safeguard.

When are dividends paid on this stock?
Dividend checks are mailed to stockholders every three months; February 1, May 1, August 1 and November 1.

How do I know that the Company will treat me fairly as a Stockholder?
Your knowledge of the standing and character of the Company should dispel any doubts on this score. The Company wants you as a partner primarily to increase the public friendship and goodwill which it enjoys. What could it gain by securing a large list of home shareholders and then not respecting their rights?

What are you going to do with the money from the sale of stock?
Large sums of money are required each year for the purchase of equipment to meet the growing demand for electricity. This requires the permanent investment of large sums of money, which must come from the sale of securities.

Where Can I Sell My Stock in case I need the money?
Any representative of the Company will be glad to put you in touch with the proper Company official, who will assist you in selling your stock. The Company maintains a resale department for the benefit of local stockholders who may wish to sell their shares.
