OAK STREET PAVING UP

COUNCIL IS DIVIDED ON ORDINANCE

Property Owners Attend Meeting Monday And Protest Ordinance Calling For Concrete

The city council divided equally Monday night on the matter of improving Oak street with an 18-foot concrete paving from the intersection of Ninth street to the intersection of Cascade avenue and the laying of a similar width of concrete from the end of the paved section of Cascade to the city limits. Originally the council had planned on laying 30 foot wide pavement. The ordinance providing for such improvement had been tabled at a previous meeting, however. It was recalled Monday night and brought up for consideration. Then the substitute ordinance, proposing the 18-foot paving was presented and placed on first reading.

Councilmen Franz, Young and Richards voted against the ordinance while Councilmen Smithson, Sonnichsen and Stranahan voted for it. Mayor Bennett settled the tie by casting an affirmative vote, stating that he believed the council and public at large should be given an opportunity for further deliberation over the matter of the paving.

The council session was more like old times than has been observed at a city hall meeting in many years. Discussions grew warmer than usual, and the attendance of interested citizens and property owners was unusually large.

A large number of property owners voiced their sentiment against the improvement of Oak street at this time. E. A. Franz, who declared that 80 per cent of the property owners were opposed to the measure, cited that westbound highway traffic at present uses Oak street. The paving of it, he said, will bring all of the eastbound traffic into the city over the same route and will create a congestion of traffic in the business district. "If we proceed with this measure it will result in a confiscation of property."

William Sylvester briefly opposed the paving plans. Judge Lerly, who appeared for Chas. Batchelder, reminded the council that Mr. Batchelder had originally dedicated the city the portion of Oak street under consideration. Later he cited that the property had borne an assessment for grading and paving at present uses Oak street. The paving of it, he said, will bring all of the eastbound traffic into the city over the same route and will create a congestion of traffic in the business district. "If we proceed with this measure it will result in a confiscation of property."

Councilman Stranahan was the spokesman for the proposed street paving. He declared that 80 per cent of the people of the city desire the paving of Oak street. He made a plea for the passing of the second ordinance at its first reading, in order that it might be later considered and draw a full discussion before final action on it. During the course of the discussion Mr. Stranahan stated that the Chamber of Commerce and many of the owners of abutting property will be present to support the measure. He further declared that it would be unfair to improve Cascade avenue, the property of which has already been assessed for improvement and allow Oak street to go unpaved.

Councilman Franz, a member of the council street committee, stated that one of the largest property owners on both Cascade avenue and Oak street had visited him and other members and stated that he would not oppose the paving of Cascade avenue but that he did oppose the Oak street improvement as being unnecessary.

L. S. Bennett and Clyde Arnold opposed the ordinance. The latter stating that a large portion of the people who had paid for the Cascade avenue assessments would also be assessed for the Oak street work.

Councilman Young suggested that Cascade avenue, where it intersects Oak street should be widened, declaring that a fence, now in the street, should be taken down. He said he believed that the street could be improved with black top paving when the state crew is engaged this summer on the Columbia River highway. He cited that the improvement of Oak street will carry an undesirable heavy traffic by the hospital.

Councilman Stranahan declared that he was unalterably opposed to improving Cascade avenue only, and that he would fight it to the last ditch. He also declared himself unequivocally in favor of concrete paving instead of black top.

Councilman Smithson reported that Tim Beatty had offered to purchase Lot 8, Block 12, Idlewild addition, from the city. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

The council instructed the fire and water committee to cooperate with Fire Marshal Morgan and City Marshal Hart in enforcing the law in securing the clean-up of vacant lots.

J. R. Heston petitioned the city for a meter to be used on his premises, in order that he will be sure of a supply of irrigation water.

A resolution calling for the improvement of the intersection of May and Twelfth streets by rounding the corner there, was tabled. The consensus of opinion was to the effect that the funds provided for this work could be used to better advantage in improving Twelfth street on the Heights.

New Gold Mine Located
Joe Lenz and Wallace Moody, just back Monday from a week of prospecting on Cat creek, a tributary of the West Fork of Hood river, to record their claim, reported finding a ledge rich in gold bearing quartz. Mr.

The new claim, which he declares is the richest he has ever found in the Mount Hood vicinity, is on the west base of the peak.

The prospectors say they will engage in considerable work on their new claim this summer.

BRADY LOSES IN BIG DAMAGE SUIT

Judge Wilson, who heard the case last November, has granted the defendant corporation a non-suit in the case of Harry E. Brady vs. the Oregon Lumber Co., wherein damages of $25,000 were asked by the plaintiff for loss of his foot during the heavy snow storm in November, 1921. The case was at one time in the United States district court in Portland, and later a motion for non-suit was granted by Circuit Judge Tucker, of Multnomah county.

The plaintiff and companions, following the heavy fall of sleet and snow, set out from a camp of the lumber company on the upper West Fork of Hood river. Mr. Brady was caught en route to Des in a slide and exposure to the severe weather caused the loss of his foot. In summing up Judge Wilson said in his memorandum of decision:

"At the time in question the camp was a safe place. Outside a storm was raging. The plaintiff was well come to stay in the camp until readjustment could be made and a safe course of action decided upon. There was no compulsion upon the plaintiff to leave the camp. The fact, as adduced by the testimony that other men remained in the camp until weather conditions had modified so that they could go out safely shows that this course was open to the plaintiff. When the plaintiff chose to go he set in motion the causes which led to his terrible injuries."

"Summarizing the effect of the court's views, it is that the failure, if there was any failure, on the part of the defendant company to secure its train to the camp was not the negligence which caused the plaintiff's injuries or in a legal sense contributed thereto or was a cause thereof. The action of the plaintiff in leaving a place of safety and taking his chances, as he himself expressed it, with the wintry storm, passing the temporary shelter of cars down the track and not turning back to camp when it was evident that the trip was going to be a dangerous one, and while there was yet time to turn back, together with the unexpected slide, was the controlling and approximate cause of injury."

Judge Wilson cited that the plaintiff's injury was a distressing one. "It is an unfortunate situation which I greatly regret," he said, "and if it were in my power, and it could be done without violation of legal principles, I would be glad to make it possible for the plaintiff to receive financial recompense. But before being generous one must be just, and under the legal rules as I understand them I cannot conscientiously come to any conclusion other than the motion for non-suit must be granted."

NAME IS WANTED FOR BOOSTER CLUB

The Chamber of Commerce Booster Club committee met with the Legion Club committee Friday and formulated plans for the organization of a booster club in Hood River, for the purpose of advertising Hood River and the Hood River valley and capitalizing on the scenic and recreational advantages of this district.

Wm. Sylvester was elected chairman of the meeting and appointed a committee to draft a constitution for the organization. This committee is composed of C. C. Anderson and Harold Hershner.

It is planned to make this organization a marching body, to function at local festivals, and if possible, to parade at the Portland Rose show. It was suggested that the membership be limited to those who have climbed to the summit of Mount Hood, but it was found that this qualification would eliminate a goodly number of men who otherwise know a great deal about the mountain and valley, but have not yet climbed to the top. It was suggested that a chevron or service badge be given for each time a member of the organization reaches the top of the mountain.

The committee found itself unable to decide on a name for the organization, and the Chamber of Commerce has offered to give a prize of $10 to the person who suggests a suitable name for the organization. The following committee will act as judges in this contest: Wm. Sylvester, Geo. Wilbur, Kent Shoemaker, C. C. Anderson, Harold Hershner, Joe Thompson, Hugh Ball and Leon Foust. All suggestions for names should be in at Chamber of Commerce by March 15.

FUNERAL FOR MRS. MICHELL SUNDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Michell, who died last Friday in Portland, were held at The Dalles, where interment followed. Mrs. Michell, who had been residing on Avalon Way in the West Side district, left on a visit in Lebanon at Christmastime. She was past 70 years old. Widow of the late Henry Michell, Mrs. Michell was a daughter of Sam M. Gilmore, who came to Oregon with the original immigrant train in 1843.

The family settled on a ranch in Klickitat county just across the Columbia from The Dalles. The place was a landmark from pioneer days.

A sister, Mrs. John H. Fulton, of Sherman county, and a brother, William Gilmore, of Yakima, Wash., survive.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Frank, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. McLean and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Samuel motored to The Dalles Sunday for the funeral services of Mrs. Mary Michell. Mr. Frank and Mr. McLean were pall bearers.

DEFINITE PLAN CALLED FOR

HOSPITAL BOARD TO MAKE SURVEY

Organizations of County Public Will Be Presented With Data

At a meeting attended by representatives of all county churches, fraternal organizations, granges and civic bodies and held at the library Tuesday night, the board of trustees of the Hood River County Hospital association was instructed to make a survey of hospitals of similar cities of the north-west and to formulate plans for a building and the equipment of a new plant for the community institution.

Rev. L. H. Miller, chairman of the hospital board, who presided at the meeting, called for an expression from all representatives present. The meeting developed that the general sentiment in all parts of the county favors the construction of a modern, fireproof building. A general public hearing, however, is withholding any response until they are presented with definite plans.

Those who discussed the hospital plans were: Hayes L. Rickford, Mrs. Jennie Hunt, H. Caster, Leslie Butler, C. H. Vaughan, Robert Fry, Mrs. J. E. Ferguson, August Gulnard, E. O. Blanchard, R. J. McIsaac, Ted Baker and Kent Shoemaker.

The motion calling for community-wide backing of the hospital board in their work of preparing plans was made by Mr. Caster.

Mr. Blanchard, who announced that the time limit of the trust fund of an approximate $6,000, for which he is trustee, had been extended for another five years, stated that this fund will only be used as a final payment for a fireproof, modern hospital structure. The matter of location, he declared, will have nothing to do with the application of this fund. He declared, however, that it would only be expended on a structure of which Hood River folk will be proud.

BUSINESS WOMEN'S SHOW ON TONIGHT

The Business Women's club will stage the show, "Her Son's Sweetheart," at the Riato theatre this evening, a portion of the proceeds of the entertainment to be devoted to the community hospital. Those taking part in the unique play will be: Miss Gertrude Horne, Miss Mattie Horne, Mrs. Dolly Root, Miss Irene Bowser, Mrs. Ola Calandra and Miss Geneva Nickelsen.

The interesting play will be augmented by the usual full evening program. A large number of tickets has already been sold for the unique show, and it is anticipated that the theatre will be crowded.

WATER CASE GOING TO HIGHEST COURT

A formal citation was served Tuesday on the East Fork, Middle Fork, Hood River Irrigation Co., Mt. Hood Water Co. and Apple Growers Association by the Pacific Power & Light Co., announcing that a writ of error had been taken in the recent decision of the supreme court denying the power company's claim to riparian rights on Hood river. The procedure is the first formal step toward an appeal of the case to the United States supreme court.

The citation, a total of 165, was served by Deputy United States Marshal Lee Morelock, of Portland.

C. H. Stranahan, of Vancouver, Wash., accompanied by two daughters, Mrs. W. L. Sharp and Mrs. John Bagley, was here last week visiting relatives and friends.
