Clean Up and Paint Up

You ask: "What's a meat market and grocery store to with such a campaign ?"

We are morally behind it; and furthermore we want to tell you that we can furnish the fuel that will make ou work.

Let us prepare the meats for your meals on the eve of spring and furnish you with groceries of quality.

Then eat heartily and work hard a part of each day out in the open air, engaged in that task of cleaning up and painting up.

You won't have spring fever.

MISS DE LASHMUTT TALKS OVER RADIO

Charles A. Boss, Plaintiff, vs. North Rebecci M. Lining, and C. Lining, wife and thusband, what movie folk really say in the sobby love scenes or in moments when all the audience except herself are tense with the excitement of some draunatic moment that has been made "kickless" for her because she could "hear" what the actors said. When she was a baby only a few months old, Miss DeLashmutt's trou-ble descended on her. Her baby ears may have heard sounds, but they were so young that no inkling of what a sound really is like was carried over into her mem-ery. She tries often to imagine what, say, the voice of her mother is like to those who hear. But it is only guesswork.

the hashing of the tongue against the teeth—or fluttering movements on her throat that tell me what ideas are being built up for me to understand." Miss DeLashmutt's imagination has built up for her a curious mental pic-ture of the sounds of things. These pictures, which she gets from the feeling of the sound waves, give her as much pleasure when she "hears" a phonograph as they do to those who hear with ears. with ears. hear with ears. "It is the rythm that I like," she says. "I can feel when the saxo-phone or horns, or other instruments chime in. Violin music I do not en-joy, for its waves are so feeble that I do not make much from them, but orchestras and band records, and real orchestras, and bands, too, I enjoy very much."
