JOIN THE HOOD RIVER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

It Helps You Your Business
Your Property .. Your Community

On a camping trip you wouldn't "soldier on the job" and let the other fellow do all the work. You're too good a sport. But when it comes to civic enterprise, where do you stand? Do you take all the benefits for the work that the Chamber of Commerce is doing and let someone else carry your end? Perhaps you never thought of it in that way.

Your Chamber of Commerce is conducting a membership and expansion drive. You will be asked to join the Chamber of Commerce, say, "You bet," because you believe that a real man puts his shoulder to the wheel and works with his neighbor for the general good.

The men who belong to the Hood River Chamber of Commerce are men who are forging to the front in their own businesses. Identify yourself with this "Live Wire" group. Make new friends, new contacts—get new ideas, new interests. Work with them for a greater Hood River Valley.

The Hood River Chamber of Commerce has accomplished big things. For instance, the selling campaign for the Hood River-White Salmon Bridge was conducted by the Chamber, thus saving to the community the selling commissions which would otherwise have gone outside the Community.

By a state-wide campaign, the Chamber of Commerce crystallized public sentiment in favor of the Mt. Hood Loop Road, and later, by the same kind of a campaign, brought about the building of Coopers Spur Road to the snow line of Mt. Hood. The value of these roads will be demonstrated in the coming tourist season, when Hood River will become the Mecca for thousands of tourists from all over the country.

These are only a few of the things the Chamber has done, and it contemplates a continuation of effort for further development. Here are a few of the items from the 1925 program of work: Work for the building of a new hotel on Mt. Hood, paying of the entrance to the city, Bridge and Loop Road celebration, organization of a club for the purpose of advertising the Hood River Valley, reduction of freight rates and improvement of car service, fostering of new industries, and the development of those already here.

Cough

(By Frederick D. Stricker, M. D., collaborating epidemiologist, Oregon State Board of Health, in cooperation with the United States Public Health Service).

"Cough is perhaps the commonest affliction from which the human family suffers. Not in itself a disease, it is an indicator of disease. It is a 'Stop, look and listen' sign which nature bangs out to warn of trouble. 'If you are afflicted with a severe cough or one of any considerable duration, there is but one sensible thing to do—consult your physician. If your cough is caused by some organic disease the time to treat that disease is at its beginning. Do not wait until it is too late. You may think that in these health talks the necessity of calling a doctor early and frequently is over-emphasized. That is not true. We see so many sad results due to neglect to call a physician early that we cannot overstate its importance.

"The principle causes of cough are inflammations of the mucus membrane lining the air passages. This membrane begins in the nose and ends in the air cells of the lungs. In this group are common head colds, sore throats, bronchitis and pneumonia. Cough with bronchitis is often associated with the beginning of typhoid fever, influenza, measles or some other acute communicable disease.

"One of the commonest causes of cough is smoking. Nervousness is a frequent cause of cough, usually manifesting itself as a part of the general condition. Many times habit accounts for cough. The mild cough, the slight hacking cough, the cough that you think comes from the throat, the cough that occasionally produces a mucus and yet is not annoying or does not make the person feel very ill or uncomfortable—that is the cough that should be thoroughly investigated. That is the cough that may deceive you. That is the cough that frequently means the beginning of lung tuberculosis. You cannot afford to buy longevity at the drug store for that cough, because if you do you may delay a correct diagnosis upon which successful treatment depends. Every cough is not tuberculosis, but almost every person with tuberculosis coughs. This makes the diagnosis of every cough imperative if you wish to prevent disaster.

"Just a word should be said concerning the protection of others. If you have the cough play fair with the other fellow; cover your cough. Use your handkerchief to do this. Do not cough into your hand and then shake hands with another person. The little particles of moisture coughed out carry germs of whatever disease you may have. If you have a cough that has been 'hanging on' for some time go to a doctor for examination and follow his advice."
