STAGE AND SCREEN

Can jealousy drive a woman to an unhappy marriage? This is the strange question that Booth Tarkington, famous novelist, both propounds and answers in a remarkable way in "The Turmoil," pictured in Robert Henley's new Universal-Jewel production which comes Sunday to the Rialto theatre. Tarkington utilizes a trick of fate to make what at first glance seems an impossibility a living, breathing reality, and, when reduced to "brass tacks," an intensely logical and very gripping dramatic situation.

The picture shows the inside of an American newly-rich family, crammed with suspicion, jealousy and hate. The daughter of the family engages in a flirtation with a society "loungelizard," and, her jealousy fanned by an affair between this man and her brother's wife, finally closes, although left alone, she would probably never have dreamed of marrying the man. The sinister influence of the jealous sister-in-law runs like a thread through the events of the stirring picture; one man is driven to drink, another to death, through her machinations—and still she herself is apparently a good woman. The play is crammed with such paradoxes; in fact, every character is human with all its human contradictions, rather than the stereotyped dramatic form.

Elaine Hammerstein, George Nichols, William Haines and others in "The Midnight Express," a tender, appealing love story in a rushing live tale of life, will be at the Rialto Monday and Tuesday. The narrative concerns a girl who did not realize that she was talking about the man she loved to his own father. He had come down to see what kind of a girl his son was going to marry. After having told the old man of her faith in this boy and having asserted strongly that she would never desert him he left, realizing that his son would be a real man in spite of himself. The girl did not know how severely her faith in her lover would be strained; how he would be ready to give up in despair, and then come to her for comfort and to have her keep his spirits up and carry on for her sake. See when circumstances piled up against him in the crucial moment and many lives depended on him, he who justified her faith in him and what her reward was.

The late Dwight L. Moody, evangelist, and one of the greatest "showmen" ever, often began an address by startling his audience with this question:

"If I threw a quarter-million dollar diamond right under the benches where you are sitting, what would you do?"

Having stampeded the crowd into attentiveness he then began one of his famous evangelistic talks.

In "One Exciting Night," to be at the Rialto theatre next Wednesday and Thursday, an ill-gotten booty of half a million dollars figures as the pivot-around which revolves the greatest mystery plot ever filmed.

Where are the custard pie comedies of yesterday?

Where is the bathing girl comedy and the marital infelicity and bedroom comedies of a few short seasons ago?

Gone, says Edna Conley, star in Educational-Mermaid Comedies, whose latest picture, "Rough and Ready," will be at the Rialto theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. Gone and relegated to a past age along with side-dollars, hoop skirts and sock-beer signs. In their places is the new departure in screen amusement, the "fast action comedy" with its whirlwind speed, new, surprising and clever situations and comedians who can make audiences laugh at other rates than that of hurling—or stopping—a custard pie.

"Because the public has become more critical in its taste for screen comedy and demands more action and acting and less burlesque and clowning, the fast action comedy has come and it's here to stay," says Conley.

"The bathing girls who decked every comedy a few years ago have put on their clothes. They have been found out. There is nothing funny about a bathing girl. She may be pretty to look at, but she isn't funny."

"The marital infelicity and bedroom comedies have been discouraged by the centers to the point where making them is a financial risk. That means they will never come back. But the fast action comedy, with its limitless possibilities for ingenuity on the part of actor and director is here to stay."

MOSIER

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gunning, of The Dalles, were in town Monday and called on Mrs. Gunning's sister, Mrs. James Cherry.

Geo. L. Davenport, of Portland, was here the first of the week looking after his farm interests.

E. B. Wood and daughter, Helen, of Portland, stopped off Saturday to say hello to friends and relatives. They were on their way to The Dalles.

Mrs. H. H. Nielsen and daughter, Lucella, were in Hood River Monday.

Miss Lella Pitack was having dental work done in Hood River during the week.

L. Mobley, of The Dalles, spent several days here with his wife, stopping over to attend the dance Saturday evening.

Carroll's Garage was treated to a fresh coat of paint during the week and with a neat sign on top it looks very attractive.

E. M. Strauss tore down one of the small buildings that was over too far on the highway, which is a great improvement for the traveling public.

Mrs. C. G. Nichol and daughter, Mildred, were shopping in The Dalles Thursday.

Mrs. W. E. Clark was in The Dalles Monday in the interest of the Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Albert Barnes was called to Lewiston, Ida., Saturday on account of the serious illness of her mother.

Mrs. Chas. Stoltz went to The Dalles Tuesday, where she has employment.

Mrs. W. L. Olsen and daughter, Gene, accompanied by Miss Irene Horn, were in Hood River Monday having dental work done.

night drew a good sized audience, considering the busy season. The picture was very instructive. George Forrest and Gordon Frazer drew the lucky numbers, entitling them to a year's subscription to the Boarder Independent free of charge.

The I. O. O. F. lodge has installed a sink in its kitchen, which was a much needed improvement. Charles Ross, of Sacramento, Calif., and Harold Ableser, of Newberg, were over night guests at the H. H. Nielsen home Thursday evening. They left Friday morning by auto for Corvallis, where they are college students. They were accompanied by Francis Nielsen, who spent his vacation with his parents and sister.

The new garage of Wilson Bros. is rapidly nearing completion and when finished will be a well lighted, up to date garage and another added beauty to our little town.

The Y. W. C. A. board held a meeting Monday evening to make arrangements for the spring drive which will be launched soon. At a recent meeting the board made arrangements whereby they purchased from E. M. Strauss the lot where the hat stands.

Miss Mildred Nichol left Sunday afternoon for Eugene, where she is attending U. of O.

W. E. Chown and son, Roger, were in Mosier Sunday from Portland looking after business affairs.

Saturday visitors in Hood River were Mr. and Mrs. Wessell, Mrs. Al Tagwood, Beata Marsh, Mrs. Thea Leilott, W. E. Huskey, Geo. Forrest, Bert Osborne, Lee Evans, Forrest Evans, Mildred Nichol and Miss Valborg Grubakov.

The Y. W. C. A. convention held at Vancouver, Wash., was attended by Miss Nedra Evans, Ella Polson, Leta Blanchard, Evelyn Beldin, Lucella Nielsen, Mae and Nets Camp, of the High School Club, and their two advisors, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. F. A. Allington. They left Friday morning, returning Sunday evening. They report having had a wonderful time.

Monmouth students coming home Wednesday evening to spend their vacation were Mrs. Bonney, Miss Thea Johnson and Miss Emily Hubbard. All have returned.

The dance given Saturday evening at the school auditorium by the American Legion was a big success both financially and socially. Many attended from Hood River, The Dalles and Portland. The boys wish to thank all who helped to make the dance a success. We wish the boys a successful baseball season. They have a good line up for a team this year.

Ira Huskey is busy hauling ties from the saw mill on the Morden ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. James Camp and daughters, Hallie and Marjory, and son, Leslie, and Mrs. Hattie Bailey motored to Gresham Sunday to visit with Mr. Camp's parents. While there Mr. Camp caught a lot of smelt and treated many of his friends to fine messes of fish.

The Sweet Sixteen Card Club met with Mrs. Holmes Saturday at the home of Mrs. E. M. Strauss. Mrs. Fred Evans again carried away the high honors. The next meeting will be with Alice Shogren at the home of her sister, Mrs. Al Tagwood.

The Ladies' Aid met with Mrs. S. E. Evans Wednesday of last week. There were 30 present, besides seven children. All enjoyed a pleasant afternoon which was all too short. The next meeting will be with Mrs. B. W. Vestch April 5.

F. A. Shogren went to Portland Saturday to spend a few days.

Miss Thelma Johnson entertained a few friends at her home Saturday evening.

Next Sunday Rev. H. C. Clark, of Hood River, will preach at the Emmanuel church at 11.30. All are invited. Sunday school at both churches every Sunday.

"In the Hour Glass" is a four-reel picture presented by the Modern Woodmen of America to be shown at the Emmanuel church April 5 at 8 p. m. It is a stirring story of today and tomorrow. Admission free.

We notice apricots and cherry trees in blossom and the strawberries are in full bloom. Nothing happening, we may yet have some of the early fruit.

TROUT LAKE

Trout Lake chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, gave a farewell reception recently for Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pearson, who are to leave soon for Illinois. A handkerchief shower was given Mrs. Pearson, followed by a banquet with Wm. Coate toastmaster.

C. F. Coate, road supervisor, has been putting in several new crossings. Only necessary work will be done on side streets, the larger part of the tax money to be used on finishing the main road. Generally speaking, the farmers are satisfied with the present road program. It will take a little longer to get the roads in good shape, but we will have no bonded indebtedness hanging over our district.

Monty Mapes, wife and baby were at the Guler hotel for a short time recently.

The Trout Lake Producers Association at a meeting in the school house lately tentatively entered into a contract with C. E. Hall to haul their cream to White Salmon and Hood River the coming year, and bring back such freight as the members may desire.

The late community sings at the Guler hotel and at the home of C. E. Hall were well attended.

The church song service Sunday evening, March 22, was enjoyed by a large gathering. The new pastor, Rev. Good, is making good.

The members of the Masonic lodge and their families were given another treat of film pictures, "The Civilian Patriots of America," Saturday evening, March 21.

The residents on and about Hall's corner have formed a local lighting organization called the Trout Lake Lighting Association, for the purpose of lighting the streets in that locality. F. S. Imman was elected president; Ralph Woodruff, secretary; C. W. Moore, treasurer, and C. E. Hall, R. A. Wilson and Fred Elmer, an entertainment committee.

Mrs. O. M. Cutting entertained the members of the O. E. S. at her home Thursday evening, March 19.

Twenty-five members of the Ladies' Aid gathered at the manse Tuesday afternoon of last week, the occasion being a reception for Mrs. Henry Pearson. The afternoon was spent with music and games after which a dainty lunch was served. The ladies presented Mrs. Pearson, who has been a good worker in the Aid for a long time, with a gold thimble.

J. E. Reynolds left Wednesday for a visit to Portland, Arlington and other points. She expects to bring her mother, Mrs. Elze, back with her for the summer.

Mrs. Carl Pearson is spending a few days with her mother at Stevenson.

Mrs. Good's class of young ladies in the Sunday school is giving a play at the school house Friday evening. The proceeds to be used on the church. It is hoped they will have a good attendance.

YOUNG FOLK UNION MEETING SUCCESSFUL

The union meeting of the Young People's societies of the Hood River valley was a splendid success. The Haggar church was packed full, in the neighborhood of 300 attending. The young people had the whole program of two hours in their hands and acquitted themselves well. A committee was appointed to prepare a constitution for a permanent organization, the committee to report at the next meeting, which will take place Sunday, May 31.

Rev. E. A. Hutchinson was called to give a report on the Young People's Institute to be held in a beautiful place near Parkdale during the latter part of July. Great interest was aroused.

Dr. W. T. Milliken, of Portland, gave the main address. He pointed to the fact that the destiny of the world laid in the hands of this generation of young people, and that if they did not arrest the moral decay we would go the way of Rome. He declared that the moral and spiritual backbone of the world are the young people, the future of the world depending therefore on their loyalty to Christ. While the address was heartily enjoyed, the greatest inspiration came from the words of the young people themselves.

Harry Duck is Benedict

The following, taken from a Portland newspaper, the news item headed: "Harry Duck has Good Reason to Quack This Time," tells of the recent wedding of Harry Duck, former local resident:

Harry Duck (in speaking of male it might best be "Drake") for many years doorman at the Circle theater, has evidently decided that he will make the last half century of his life a wee bit more feathery than the first half. For now, after a half century of lonesome "pudle-jumping," he has taken unto himself a wife.

Frieda Duck was at the Circle door today with his usual smile, maybe broader, but putting nothing out but his hand and snatching that back. So it is plain he wishes to keep Mrs. Duck under his wing.

It is certain, however, if Mr. Duck does not like this announcement, he can quack, the lucky Webfoot!

Mr. and Mrs. Duck will be at home to their friends after April 1 at 840 1/2 Columbia street.
