"If it works, it's true!"

But it doesn't prove out in practice - this legend about salt as an aid to bird-catching. Neither does this superstition that there is something mysteriously "better" about certain lubricants - merely because they cost more. Every quart of Zerolene you buy proves the groundlessness of this superstition.

Pacific Coast Crude Is Best Zerolene is a western oil - and a better oil even if it does cost less.

As a matter of fact, the best crude petroleum so far discovered for the manufacture of a motor lubricant is obtained from Pacific Coast wells, and the most advanced refining process is this Company's patented high-vacuum process during the use of which Zerolene is submitted to 15 positive checks for quality.

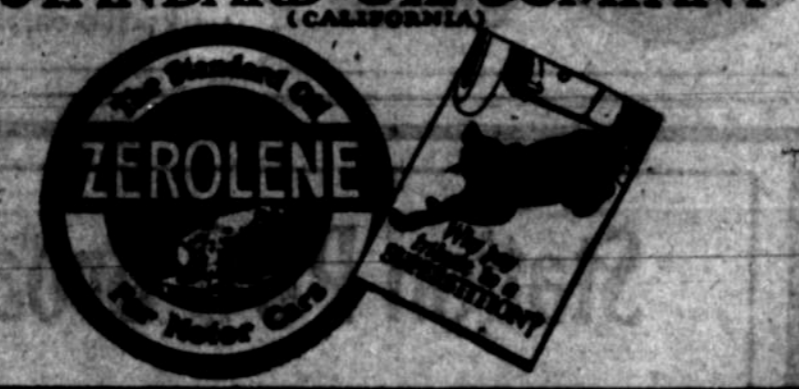

Experienced Drivers Prefer Zerolene Experienced drivers know this - that Zerolene lubricates more cars in the Pacific Coast states than any other oil made - heavy-duty trucks and high-priced cars alike. Superstitions don't work out in practice - Zerolene will increase the gasoline mileage of your car, reduce carbon accumulation in the cylinders and lengthen your car's working life.

Why pay tribute to a superstition? Insist on Zerolene - ask for it by name.

Get the Facts! A series of independent and impartial reports showing the experience of large users with Zerolene has been collected in our booklet, "Why Pay Tribute to a Superstition?" Ask any Standard Oil Company representative or Zerolene dealer for a copy.

Insist on ZEROLENE even if it does COST LESS

GEORGE T. PRATER HAS UNIQUE VOLUME

Geor. T. Prater, founder of the Hood River Glacier, has one of the most unique books of travel in the state. It is "Adventures on the Columbia River" by Ross Cox, published by J. and J. Harper, in New York City in 1911. About the Beaver to join the Pacific Fur Company. He spent six years in the country bordering the Columbia river and the tributaries of the same.

The book was given to Mr. Prater by the late John H. Cradlebaugh, the Glacier's first editor, and for many years one of Oregon's best known prospectors. Mr. Cox traveled up and down the Columbia and the Glines. He witnessed in many extraordinary expeditions. In the introduction to the book Mr. Cox said:

"The greatest reports then in circulation relative to the wealth to be obtained in the Columbia induced me to select for the purpose of appointments in the new company; and many of their applications were unanswerable. The author, who was at this period in New York, captivated with the love of novelty and the hope of speedily realizing an independent fortune, as proposed by DeWitt, exerted all of his influence in securing a clerkship in the company. He succeeded and was one of those who embarked on the Beaver."

Mr. Prater loaned the volume to The Dallas Historical Society 15 years ago. It was returned to him last week. He says the number of years the Oregon Historical Society endeavored to secure a copy of the book. The society located another copy in London, but was unable to purchase it, Mr. Prater said. The old volume is in demand among those in the Northwest engaged in historical research. Mr. Prater says that he has a waiting list of those who wish to read it and take notes from its pages.

Berries Going to Camas Most of the berry crop in the Hood River Valley district will go to The Dalles for marketing and canning purposes this year, according to Frank J. Fox, owner of a large fruit ranch at Husum, Wash., who has been at the Norton hotel in Portland with his sisters, Mrs. H. E. Potter and Miss Mary Fox. "The berries have formerly gone to open market," he explained, "but with the new berries between White Salmon and Hood River, fruit growers will take their berries to The Dalles. It will mean a big thing for that district. The weather conditions in our district have been very favorable for the berries this year," he went on, "and a large crop is in prospect. The apples, however, have not done so well and only a light stand is in sight. Just how far from the average crop they will fall cannot be predicted now, but they are certain to be far below normal. The strawberries are especially good, due to the damp and cloudy weather which nature has given before ripening. The Clark seedling strawberries, for which our part of the country is known, are abundant. This berry is our local pride. It is of exceptionally good quality, many a cent as far away as Alaska."

Mr. Fox and his sisters will be in Portland for a few days on business. - Oregon Journal.

New Egg Grading Law The last session of the state legislature passed an egg-grading law which will go into effect May 20, which is 90 days after adjournment. The law provides that all eggs sold shall be graded into three classes. The first grade, "fresh standard," requires all eggs to weigh not less than 1 5/8 ounces, or 22 ounces to the dozen; "fresh medium," not less than 1 7/12 ounces, and not less than 10 ounces to the dozen; "fresh undersized," (known as porous), not less than 1 1/12 ounces, and "undersized," which are culls.

The law requires that the carton or container shall be stenciled with the grade of the eggs contained therein, in letters not less than one-third inch in height; when eggs are removed from original container and offered for sale in half cases or more, they shall be stamped "not certified" on the outside of the container in one inch high letters. Commissioner J. D. Mickle, of the dairy and food commission, states that the most of the eggs sold will come under the first two classes, and that the others will be consumed on the ranches. He advises producers and dealers to get their stamps and be ready to comply with the law when it goes into effect.

Miss Lane to Graduate Miss Roberto C. Lane, Cascade Locks is a member of the 1922 graduating class; the largest in the history of O. A. G. The number of candidates for graduation is conservatively placed at 220. The record class up to this time was that of 1920, the big war group numbering 222. Last year 222 were graduated. The only possible explanation for so many seniors this year is that a large percentage of those entering college is remaining to finish, believes E. B. Eason, registrar. Seven students are candidates for the master of science degree, 12 for the degree of pharmaceutical chemist, and some 220 for the regular bachelor of science degree.

Miss Lane is majoring in secretarial training, and has done office work for the registrar and dean of women at college. Though she has earned three-fourths of her way through college, she has taken part in campus activities, being president of the Associated Women Students in her senior year. She is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, social fraternity. She was born in Hood River and received her schooling here and in Cascade Locks.

Bear Attacks Child Henry Jacob, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jacob, of Cascade Locks, was seriously injured Friday when he was almost hugged to death by a pet bear belonging to J. Thurman, of Wyeth. The boy started to climb a tree nearby. For some reason the bear became enraged and lunged and reached the boy, dragging him from the tree and catching him such a blow that it stunned him and caused him to fall to the ground. The animal then grabbed him by the throat and hugged him, and had it not been for the timely arrival of the lad's father the bear would have killed him in a very few minutes. The boy was badly bruised and scratched.

TWO ARE GRADUATED AT CASCADE LOCKS Last Friday evening the Cascade Locks high school held commencement exercises for the school's first two graduates, Miss Dorothy Dayport, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dayport, Jr., of Portland, and Cecil Wright Henderson, son of James Henderson, former postmaster. Both are honor students, having averaged more than 90 per cent in their grades. Miss Dorothy graduated with a few credits of having enough to graduate. Miss Glover will enter the summer school at Willamette University and make subsequent credits to enter that institution this fall. Young Henderson will enter the Oregon Agricultural College this fall. Miss Dayport expects to enter the agricultural college after remaining out of school for a year. Capt. Chas. Nelson, chairman of the school board, presented the diploma. The commencement address was delivered by Prof. J. B. Barnes, of the Oregon Agricultural College. Rev. E. M. Hault, principal of the school, delivered an address, summing up the year's work at the school. An invocation was pronounced by Rev. Hansson, and the music was furnished by Misses Hazel Meyer and Nina Freewell. Honor students of other grades in the high school were announced as follows: Jessie, Hazel Meyer, Rosemary, Susan Hendrick, and Truman, Viola Eubank, Henry Nelson and Virginia Tomkins.
