A CONFESSION OF FAILURE

In another column of this week's Glacier is printed a unique letter from C. O. Huelat, manager of the municipal automobile park. Mr. Huelat, who takes The Glacier rather severely to task, finally by implication, at least, confesses that Hood River may have no need for a municipal automobile park.

The municipal park, he writes, is a fine place, and motor tourists enjoy it, when allowed to enter there.

Who keeps them away?

Private competition, cited in advance by men of the town who took the time and thought to look forward, is what is eliminating profits at the municipal auto park. Just as those who promoted the park were forewarned, a municipal automobile park is a liability instead of an asset. With more automobile parks going in up and down the Columbia River highway, we can figure in no way how a municipal automobile park can ever be made a paying proposition. If there were not other accommodations for motor tourists, we would be willing to maintain an auto camp at a loss. But how in the name of reason can anyone have the crust to ask the taxpayers of this municipality to put up good tax money for such an institution when there is no more need for it than for a municipal hardware, grocery or dry goods store? The maintenance of a municipal auto park is so obviously unnecessary that Mr. Huelat himself has finally come to see it. But Mr. Huelat argues that we have the park and we should all get behind it and make it a success. It can't be done in the face of private competition.

What disposition will we make of the park? We do not know, but we predict that the city will eventually get out from under the burden.

The Glacier, as Mr. Huelat states, did promise to back the municipal park, once the city council had committed itself to its purchase and development. He accuses us of an about face movement. He declares that the civic bodies that supported the park have lost interest and have declined to help him.

Our conscience doesn't hurt us, and we know that the civic bodies that sponsored the park have seen the error of their way.

The responsibility for the Hood River auto park rests almost altogether on Mr. Huelat. He became obsessed of an idealistic dream. He fully expected to make money for the city—and for Mr. Huelat, as a study of events will prove. The automobile park property will cost the city, when the full bill is paid, $12,000, exclusive of interest, and the cost of improvement will reach another $11,000. Twenty-three thousand dollars gone. Mr. Huelat had the handling of the improvements last summer. He spent money lavishly. While his acts were ratified, they were done without any formal authority of any governing municipal body, unless it be said that he, as a member of the city council, authorized himself as park manager to expend the money.

If you will recall, the people of the city, the members of civic organizations were told by Mr. Huelat, in his moments of zeal, that the municipal auto park would pay for itself. But Mr. Huelat deceived himself and at the same time he deceived the taxpayers of Hood River. Does he think we, as a representative newspaper, are going to sit idly by and permit this extravagance to go unnoticed?

STAY OFF NEWLY OILED ROAD

Give the highway crews engaged in the task of oiling the Loop road a chance to hasten their task without interruptions. It will be no pleasure to you to motor over the newly laid oil. Do not take your friends over the road until the oil has been absorbed.

We were jubilant when we heard that the state highway department had decided to lay the Loop dust. Let's show our appreciation by cooperating with them toward getting the job done as quickly as possible.

HENDERSON PARK

The name Henderson has never been attached to any of the wonder places of old Mount Hood. Mr. Henderson has long been an explorer of the scenic spots. He was a member of the party that discovered Lost lake.

We join with Hans Hoerlein and suggest that the new flowered park on the east side of the mountain, just above Sahale falls, be named Henderson park. Nobody will say us nay.

HAIL TO THE VICTORS

Hood River triumphed again. The latest victory was won by the Legion drum and bugle corps down at Prineville. That victory wasn't just accident. It came from hard work, much thought and frequent drills.

Hood River has become imbued with the winning spirit. Whatever is worth doing at all, is worth doing right. Such a system wins.

All hail to the Legion drum and bugle corps members. They practiced with a work to win spirit.

The hearts of the nation go out to folk of Santa Barbara, who felt the dread and destructive trembling of Mother Earth last Monday. Such catastrophies draw humankind together. Santa Barbara has learned of friends everywhere. The spirit of the devastated city is something inspiring. Santa Barbara will arise like a Phoenix, a bigger and better Santa Barbara.

Keep the youngsters away from the sloughs and river front until Koberg beach is open. They will be safe there. Let's avoid a drowning tragedy.

Mr. Koberg has employed a manager for the beach this season, who is a Red Cross life guard.

Hot spells are of short duration in the mid-Columbia. It was a bit uncomfortable part of the day last week, but the high temperatures were soon eliminated when the west wind began to blow up from the Pacific.

Albert Krieg has rendered a community service in converting the old, abandoned U. B. church building into a modern apartment house. A fire menace was eliminated and the city provided with a modern habitation.

Hood River valley folk should go in greater numbers than ever before to the annual Mount Hood Legion Climb this year. Save the dates—July 18 and 19.

Of course everybody is going to be at Koberg beach next Saturday. It will be the biggest celebration we have ever held.

The tourists are coming. They are as thick along the highways as the stars in the heavens—so many it is a task to count them.

This year's apple crop bids fair to be of the best quality in years. Hood River products are constantly growing a little better each season.

BARRETT

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, of Longview, Wash., accompanied by their son, daughter and grandson, spent a few days with their daughter, Mrs. Nat Scroggin.

Alfred Lawrence returned to his home at Hoskins Sunday night. His mother, Mrs. M. Scroggin, accompanied him home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wantland and family, of Hood River, called on Mr. and Mrs. George Garrett Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Nate Emmet, of Vancouver, was up a few days visiting with old friends and neighbors and repairing his ranch house.

The Valley Christian church orchestra met with Mrs. Rankin Thursday evening.

Miss Hasel O'Brien returned to her home in Dufur Sunday afternoon. She had been visiting her grandmother, Mrs. John Moore, the past six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Harper and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Steele and family, of Hood River, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Allison, of Lexington, were guests of the George Garrett family Sunday.

Mrs. M. Scroggin returned home Sunday night from Hoskins and Portland.

Mrs. Grace Bond and sons, Fred and Elmer, and daughter, Lois, were dinner guests Sunday of the W. L. Cotton family.

Mrs. Edna Upton and Mrs. Jessie Miller and daughter, Mabel, visited Mr. and Mrs. John Griffith Sunday.

PORTLAND WAY

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McDonald, together with the former's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer, whom he had not seen for 30 years, motored to Oregon City last week. They combined business with pleasure, delivering cherries to one of the leading restaurants of Portland.

Robert Schuknecht has returned from O. A. C. for the summer and is quite busy these days on his father's ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cline, of Yan Horn, were Sunday callers at Linger Long orchard, home of Dr. Lora H. Diamond.

Mr. and Mrs. Kruze, of Bend, with friends motored to Hood River, visiting Mrs. Kruze's father, Charles Schuknecht, for a day. Mr. and Mrs. Kruze, formerly of Hood River, are now engaged in the bakery business at Bend and report lively business.

Miss Ruth Purdy, who has been nursing at Walla Walla, and is just recovering from an operation, is now recuperating at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Purdy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. MacDonald, little daughter, Barbara Jean, and Miss Ethel Cline, of Portland, were week end visitors of Dr. Lora Diamond.

Mrs. A. E. Richards, of Portland, has been visiting with Dr. Diamond, returning home last Thursday. Dr. Diamond spent the previous week in Portland attending the rose carnival and Rosaria.

Hoerlein Visits Henderson Park

Hans Hoerlein, who returned Tuesday from a tour of a park discovered on the east side of Mount Hood last season by Prof. L. F. Henderson, declared that it compared favorably with Eden park, noted flowered area on the northwest side of the peak. Mr. Hoerlein stated that the park is two miles long. In the middle of the meadow district is an appealing fan-shaped waterfall. The new park is only two miles from the Mount Hood Loop highway at Hood River meadows. Mr. Hoerlein suggested that the park be called Henderson park in honor of its discoverer.

O. A. C. Regents Visit Here

The following members of the board of regents of the Oregon Agricultural College, arriving from an eastern tour, visited here yesterday to check work of the Hood River branch experiment station: President J. K. Weatherford, Mrs. W. S. Kinney, E. B. Aldrich and George A. Palmiter. They were accompanied by James T. Jardine, director of the Oregon experiment station.

The visitors were escorted through experimental tracts by Leroy Childs and Gordon G. Brown.

PIONEERS SOLVED LIQUOR PROBLEM

In pioneer days of Hood River, according to Municipal Judge Henry L. Howe, who addressed the Flying Squadron Law Enforcement conference at the Asbury Methodist church last Friday, the public conscience was so unanimous here for law enforcement that a vigilance committee was formed spontaneously to prevent the opening of a saloon in town.

"In those days the women, although they didn't vote, wielded a mighty influence, and we men did just about as they told us. One day word was passed quietly around that a saloonkeeper had arrived from The Dalles with a cargo of assorted liquors and beer, ready on the next day to open the town's first bar. The women, however, didn't want a bar, and they told us men so.

"That night every adult male of the community was called to a quiet meeting at the school house. In a short deliberation it was decided that force to the ultimate would be used on that barroom the next day. The prospective barkeeper, who brought his wife along, heard of our meeting. His wife had a conference with him, and the two called on us before we had left the school house. They pleaded to be allowed to leave town unmolested, declaring they would go at once, if we would just give them the chance. Thus the saloon problem was solved in Hood River in pioneer times."

The law enforcement meetings were held during the afternoon and evening of Friday. Addresses were delivered by Oliver M. Stewart and Miss Norma C. Brown, respectively president and vice president of the law enforcement organization.

COMMITTEE URGES EARLY REGISTERING

The Mount Hood Climb committee of the Legion post has urged all who expect to climb Mount Hood at the annual party set for July 18 and 19 to register immediately. It is necessary, in order to conduct the recreational venture as economically as possible, that the committee know in plenty of time beforehand how many will participate. In order to stimulate early registering this year the comittee has made a reduction in prices for all who register before July 17.

The following is the schedule of rates respectively for those who register before July 17 and those who register after that date:

Transportation $4, if available, $5; meals, all you want to eat, $4, $5; side trip $1, $1.50; trip to top $3, $3.50; one meal, all you want to eat, $1, $1.25; entrance fee to camp for those who make no other purchase, 25 cents; alpine stocks for use while in camp, 50 cents, while they last, 50 cents.

MR. HUSBANDS DIES AT PETALUMA, CAL.

Word has been received by friends here of the death at Petaluma, Calif., of R. H. Husbands, local pioneer, native of England, aged 62. Mr. Husbands moved to Petaluma 18 months ago. His death occurred June 10. He came to America when a child of five years. The family lived in Nebraska and Washington a few years before coming to Hood River.

Mr. Husbands is survived by his wife and two daughters. The latter are Mrs. Wilbur Fuson, of Petaluma, and Mrs. O. E. Osburn, of Pullman, Wash.

Mr. Husbands was a charter member of the Waucoma Knights of Pythias lodge.

Dee Club to Have Lake Concession

Thomas H. Sherrard, supervisor of the Mount Hood national forest, has granted the members of the Dee Community club a concession to operate a confections booth at Lost lake over July 4 and 5. While the forestry service has frequently denied petitions of individuals for such concessions, the club request was allowed since the proceeds will be utilized for aiding in the furnishing of a new school house at Dee.

The community club is composed of members of families of Dee Flat ranchers, one of the valley's chief strawberry districts, and the women announce that they will make a specialty of strawberry punch for thirsty recreationists.

The Lost Lake highway is now in excellent condition, and it is anticipated that thousands of vacationists will be camped in the cool retreats there over the Fourth of July week end.

Prof. and Mrs. Langille Are Visitors

Professor and Mrs. H. B. Langille, of Berkeley, Calif., where Prof. Langille is in the department of mechanical engineering at the University of California, are here on a visit. Prof. Langille motored north and met Mrs. Langille, just back from a visit in New York, in Portland.

Professor Langille is a pioneer of the valley, his mother in early days having been hostess at Cloud Cap Inn. He was city recorder here in 1911 and 1912. Mrs. Langille had not been here since she and her husband left in 1912. She declares the city has made marvelous progress in a decade.

Hood River P. P. & L. Leads

The local office of the Pacific Power & Light Co. is leading in the sale of electric ranges, having placed 86 since the campaign started in May. This gives the local office a good lead, and the office force is confident of capturing permanently a silver cup given by President Talbot for sales records. The cup was won in two former contests.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank the Hood River people for the floral offerings and the many kind services and sympathy rendered during the sickness and death of our beloved son and brother.
