BIG IRRIGATION CANAL IS BROKEN

A break in the main canal of the Hood River Irrigation district, covering the Oak Grove orchard section, interrupted service Tuesday. A crew of 15 men was rushed to the break, and it was estimated that water will be flowing to orchardists again by tomorrow.

The break was one of the most serious ever experienced by local irrigationists, and sediment carried down by Hood river left a red streak far down the Columbia. Oldtime residents declared the break never seen the Hood river muddier. Seepage from hillside springs was given as the cause of the break.

The Hood River golf course is under the water system.

HOOD RIVER BAND GOES TO ABERDEEN

The Knights of Pythias band will go to Aberdeen, Wash., Sunday to attend the three day session of the northwest district convention of the D. O. K. K. The band men, who won note last year at the annual northwestern fraternal convention, held at Vancouver, B. C., will wear their unique Indian costumes. The band men will go as a musical organization of the Portland D. O. K. K. temple.

The local musicians will be expected to arrive at the Vancouver interurban bridge across the Columbia at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, when they will join a big caravan of Dokkies from Portland.

B. J. Montgomery

B. J. Montgomery was born at Stanton, Va., May 26, 1877. His father was pastor of the Methodist church in that city for a number of years. He was married in 1901 in marriage to Elizabeth Bonghner of Detroit, Mich. He was a resident of Oregon since 1901, making his home in the Hood River valley for the past five years. He passed away at The Dalles July 25 after a major operation. He is survived by his widow and six children, Roy, Jack, Nina, Mildred and Jeanne Montgomery, and Mrs. V. Keys.

Mr. Montgomery was an active church worker throughout his life. During his residence at Middle Valley he served as superintendent of the Sunday school and also as an elder of the Upper Valley church. His passing is sincerely regretted by all who knew him.

The funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon by his pastor, Rev. R. A. Hutchinson. Interment was in Idlewild cemetery. C. C. Anderson in charge.

Mrs. Hayt Dies in East

Word was received here Tuesday of the death in New York state of Mrs. F. W. Hayt, former resident of the East Side orchard district. Mrs. Hayt, whose husband died here two years ago, succumbed to an attack of pneumonia June 26.

TUM-A-LUM ADAMS PARTY SUCCESSFUL

Members of the various office staffs of the Tum-A-Lum Lumber Co., out on their first annual annual climbing party, attacked Mount Adams last Sunday. While unsettled weather kept several of the managers from coming, 20 registered at the forest line camp, which was established Saturday night. Fourteen started on the long pull to the summit, twelve of them reaching the top.

A. L. Anderson, local manager of the lumber concern, who was in charge of arranging the outing, stated that weather conditions were fine. The party started at 4 a. m. and reached the top at 4 p. m. The descent was made in two hours and 30 minutes.

Mark Weygant flashed signals with a heliograph from Mount Hood but the smoke haze prevented the Adams party from catching them.

A feature of the session was a pledge of all members of the party to use care in handling camp fires and to promote forest fire prevention. The climbers received a cordial greeting from the Mount Adams forest service lookout who served hot tea and gave them a concert on his phonograph. The lookout also has a radio.

Mr. Anderson reported that sliding was a little rough, but in places it was a real thrill. The climbers had some real tobogganing thrills. Those who made the top were in fine physical shape. The personnel of the party was as follows: Beatrice Harden, Gerald Galloway, Mr. and Mrs. John Odell, Ned, Catherine and Jack Odell and Walter Hinson, all of The Dalles; Earl Clark, of Moro; C. C. Caddess, of Baker; Wheeler, D. K. Laum, Kent Shoemaker, R. W. Kelly, Bill Jones, Fred Cosbow, Dorothy Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Anderson, all of Hood River.

The Tum-A-Lum party next summer will climb Mount Hood.

LUNCH MEET LOVE FEAST

by unfavorable publicity. Mr. Baker defied the visiting officials to point to any specific instance where local officers had acted in such a way as to merit such suggestions of the threat of adverse publicity. Mr. Baker took emphatic exceptions to an article that had appeared in a recent issue of the Oregon Motorist, signed by Mr. Dunne, wherein the latter declared that complaints had indicated that Hood River county officials were arresting visiting motorists when they got a line beyond the border. The article had declared that Hood River's thick headedness, Mr. Baker said, might result in loss of business on the part of motorists; that Hood River county officials, if they persisted in this attitude, would, be due a rude awakening.

Mr. Dunne declared that his article had been misinterpreted, that he was not attempting to draw any editorial conclusions of his own but that he was merely trying to prevent Hood River county from suffering from the subterranean methods that motorists use in passing the word of too strict enforcement on the part of officials.

Mr. Dunne in the course of his talk told the officers that his organization would withdraw membership cards from any of those affiliated with the state motor association, if it were shown to the organization such members had traveled at the rate of 50 miles an hour.

"This is a case where we have been having too many chips on our shoulders," said Mr. Dunne, "but the incident will result in good. We do not mind criticism, when it will result in a readjustment and a renewed cooperation. We have been jumped on by the newspapers, and the newspapers, which voice the sentiment of the people, should not be throttled."

Mr. Dunne found some fault with the use of automobiles here instead of motorcycles for enforcing traffic laws. It was explained to him, however, that it would be impossible to ride motorcycles over the curving Columbia River highway, that the pavement after it had been sanded to absorb "bleeding" oil.

At the luncheon Mr. Dunne's address was one of good will. He filled it with congratulations to Hood River folk and with self congratulations on the fact that the matter had reached amicable adjustment. He cited in the course of his talk the change that was occurring in various parts of the state as to speed limits. In many instances, where cross channels do not interfere, states are coming to realize that traffic will be safer when speeded up. His cited how Rhode Island had initiated such regulations, zoning its highways.

Mr. Dunne, in the course of his talk expressed praise for Hood River's traffic officer, George Morrison, whose reputation for diplomatic handling of traffic violators is more than state wide.

"We had no idea of making threats," said Mr. Dunne, "we merely wanted a square deal and for you to have one."

Mr. Baker in his luncheon talk characterized the troubles as imaginary ones. He declared that he had never known of a more courteous lot of officials than the Hood River traffic officers.

"There is no intent or effort on our part," said Mr. Baker, "to harass motor visitors. We want to treat all alike, whether they be strawberry pickers or members of a strong organization."

"A mountain out of a molehill," was the characterization of Elton Watkins, "came about through a misinterpretation of cold type. As soon as the men got down eye to eye today they reached an understanding.

"I urge you as citizens of our land to break up any violations, whether they be traffic laws or others. If I found a man driving under the influence of liquor I would put him in jail."

Mr. Watkins expressed an appreciation of commendatory letters he had received from Hood River county folk during his term in congress.

Where savings are greatest every day in the year!

"Oh, If We Could Only Get Out of Debt!"

How often have we heard that statement! Perhaps the condition was brought about by sickness. Perhaps by buying more than the salary would justify because some merchant made it easy to open a charge account and then insisted on this purchase and that purchase, until the load of debt rolls on into the next month and the next year and one can't catch up.

On the other hand there is a splendid freedom of soul and comfort of mind in Paying Cash As We Go.

Buying only what we need and laying aside the savings obtained through cash purchases is the surest way to independence.

In Paying Cash one can take advantage of low prices which only Cash Stores are able to offer. One can shop with that freedom of trading wherever one chooses.

There is only one argument for Charge Accounts and that argument favors the SELLER not the BUYER! Charge accounts Tempt Us to Buy More Than We Would If We Were Paying Cash—The Charge Account Merchant Benefits—Not the Customer!
