"BLACK HAND BLUES"

WHITE SALMON

Cooperative weather observer's report for 24-hour period ending at 5 p. m. Saturday, July 25: Maximum temperature 75, minimum 51, clear, light west wind.

Miss Margaret Murdock, of Portland, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Smith, Burdoin Heights.

Raymond Smith motored to Portland Saturday via Hood River.

The luscious wild blackberries are luring her from his lair on Burdoin mountain. Two of them were seen Thursday, one of them so tame that he, or she, nearly met with disaster from impact with a Ford truck driven by a deputy game warden. Trouble began for the G. W. if he had killed the harmless creature. They, as well as deer, are becoming accustomed to automobile traffic. Last fall a half grown bear boldly invaded the camp of the Byers family in Bates Bros. pasture about 500 feet from their house and was caught red-handed trying to get into a grub box on the running board of the Bearcat. The driver parked near the tent. Skunks invaded their camp looking for a meal, one of which came into the tent—just to be friendly—and the Byers family beat a hasty retreat in their nightgowns. One night just after their departure, (the Byers) a big cougar nearly scared the cub reporter to death. There was a little snow on the ground and the big fellow was evidently enjoying the scenery in the identical spot where the above family was camped. The surprised man was unarmed, of course, but luckily had a very powerful flashlight which probably saved his hide. (The Scriber.)

Col. and Mrs. E. E. Mills, of Long Beach, Calif., were Friday visitors at Bates Bros. home on Burdoin. Mr. Mills was fruit inspector here several years ago, and moved to southern California to establish a permanent residence at Long Beach. The colonel is interested in oil properties in the sunny south.

"The meanest man on earth" lives on this side of the Columbia without a doubt. He gets a big kick out of scattering poisoned candy, wee-knees and tinned salmon eggs in White Salmon just to show his contempt for harmless dumb animals and their owners. The latest victim of this cur was a fine fox terrier owned by Ollie Hensley, orchardist and sportsman living near here, who made a regular pal of his dog, both at home and on fishing trips. The little fellow picked up poison right in the heart of town recently. Poisoned weinies were found by Bill Lauterbach, local butcher, in the rear of his shop. This was reported to the authorities here, but they seem unable to cope with the unusual situation. A cat with young kittens, unweaned, owned by John G. Wyers, manager of the Columbia Fruit Union warehouse here, was killed by poison early in the week. We cannot recall the names of all persons here who lost their pets, but we cite a few: W. F. Conner, Mr. H. Smalley, Dr. Putney, Mrs. E. H. Warner and W. E. Brown. It's a dog-gone shame! We need a Herlock Sholmes in our midst.

J. C. Luak and family have established residence in J. H. Law's house at Laws corner. Mr. Luak will look for Wood & Seaton, who contemplate reopening their camp on Burdoin mountain at an early date.

Our correspondent seems to have been favored with wild animals during the past year. A hike through the dense underbrush Sunday morning resulted in routing two black bears, close enough for a splendid kodak picture. Further on we almost stepped on a grouse. A hawk was more noise than the Hood Owl. Continuing our journey we came upon a nice big family of quail; these ran merrily along the road for 200 feet before they took to the brush. Near Laws corner we ran plain into a black and white kitty. Our morning adventures stopped right there. We spoke kindly to the beautiful animal. It was silent, but turned and—wonder what's the big idea with these queer cats?

Col. W. T. Bates, owner of an orchard on the Snowden highway, leaves Fort Hayes, Ohio, August 1 for Washington, D. C., where he will be stationed until further orders. Mrs. Bates and daughter, Margaret, will accompany him.

Earl Coe, of Baker & Coe, apple packers and warehousemen located on the tracks at Blaine, was in the Burdoin mountain district Thursday to inspect the Arthur Orrum orchard, which the firm took over on a crop basis.

All signs point to cool weather during next winter. Hummel Bros. are working overtime trucking rick wood from their wood camp at Laws corner down the hill to White Salmon.

John Humphrey, best natured man in White Salmon, who is very popular with the growers of the warehouse, brought a big truck load of hay to the Law place during the middle of the week.

Uncle Jimmie Law, popular entertainer and scientist in years gone by, who cleared and planted a 30-acre tract at Laws corner about 20 years ago, is living at Long Beach, Calif. Although Jimmie is past 80 years of age he is still on the job as an entertainer, astronomer and lecturer. According to E. E. Mills, who saw him recently, he has been called upon at various times to give lectures. During the day time it is a common sight to see Uncle Jimmie holding a crowd of interested listeners on the big pier at Long Beach. One of his pet hobbies is generating electricity from the sun, which he claims to have within his grasp—almost. (Ultra violet rays, invisible.) His dream may come true.

End Yarnell visited several orchards on Burdoin Saturday looking for long contracts on apple packing. Mrs. Floyd G. Martin and children and Mrs. Robert Overbaugh are enjoying an outing in camp at Buck creek. Sergeant Joseph Thomas of the regular army visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Thomas, last week. He enlisted in the army two years ago for the express purpose of winning a commission, and has been attending school at Fort Monroe, Va. He was promoted to staff sergeant and is being transferred to Fort Worden.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Halberg and daughter, of Kelso, Wash., visited friends in this section last week and were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wenzel Olson. Mrs. Halberg (Geraldine Purser) formerly resided here. They left Thursday for Portland, en route to California. Mrs. Warner Henderson (Irene Larson) of Portland, is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Larson, of the North White Salmon district.

The White Salmon water system was out of commission for two days, necessitating a hurry up job of repair work in Portland. The town was without fire protection for only six hours, however, and all residents cooperated in curtaining the use of what little water remained in the reservoirs during that period. The service was restored Tuesday.

Bruce Wolverton, Barker Flat district rancher, reports splendid progress on the extension of the Barker road to the North Bank highway. Nearly one-half of the two and one-half miles of the road is completed.

The county is cooperating with the ranchers of the district in building the road, furnishing culverts and powder. All the ranchers have to do is to do the work, which is being cheerfully done. Blingen and White Salmon are donating money to help the project along.

Brush Fire Causes Alarm
The burning of a collection of strawberry tops and slashings in the Odell section last Friday night created some alarm in other parts of the valley and led to erroneous rumors that an Odell home had burned.

for Heavy Pulling

BLOWING through hub-deep mud, climbing a mean grade, easing out of bad holes—the Jumbo-equipped Ford truck or car pulls through. In emergency low speed the Jumbo Giant Transmission gives the pulling power of the heavy Ford motor. In double-low, used for ordinary hauling, it does two-ton work.

For good roads and light loads, shift Jumbo Giant into "over-drive"—30% faster than Ford high.

With a sliding gear transmission with 3 forward speeds and 1 reverse, the Jumbo Giant provides 7 speeds forward and 3 reverse, when used together with the Ford planetary. The only transmission that combines over-drive, direct and under-drive with a reverse gear and that is properly installed by means of through bolts under compression (patented), extra self-aligning universal joints, and cross frame support.

Write for any size and let us install a Jumbo Giant Transmission in your Ford car or truck. We carry the parts for the Jumbo Giant Transmission in prices from $67.50 to $110.00.
