Herman Ranger Station Notes
 Wednesday of last week Highway Patrolman Everett H. Runkle, of the forest service, arrested Ray Reynolds and D. E. Watson, of Longview, Wn., for leaving a camp fire burning at Lindsay creek. They were taken before Justice at the Pounce Lane at Cascade Locks. They pleaded guilty and were fined $5 and costs each.

Although the recent rain was a great aid in the control of fires that were burning and cleared the smoke away conditions are apt to be bad again, due to the east wind and low humidity which prevailed Monday and liable to occur at any time.

Many persons are going into the hills to pick huckleberries. Camp fire permits are required if camp fires are to be built. These permits can be obtained from the local forest officers. Everybody should be careful where they build their fires and be sure the fire is completely out before leaving it.

The O.W. R. & N. is maintaining a speeder patrol from Cascade Locks west to Bridal Veil, and from Cascade Locks east to Hood River, following each freight train, to pick up and extinguish any fire that might be set by the engine. That these patrolmen are doing good work is evidenced by the lack of fire this season, in contrast to past seasons, along the railroad right-of-way.

SCHOOL NEWS

There has been a great deal in the metropolitan papers concerning the adoption of new text books in the state of Oregon, and the increase in prices which the text book publishers have demanded from Oregon people this year. Supp. Cannon believes the following information and suggestions will be of interest to taxpayers and to the pupils of the Hood River schools, and will also be the means of saving their parents some money in the purchase of text books.

In the first place, the state text book commission last November changed the readers, geographies, histories and civilt government in the graded schools and the following books in high schools: Civil government, world history, elementary economics, higher arithmetic, biology, general science and French texts. At the same time they changed these books the publishers increased the price from 23 1/2% to 80% on the grade school books and from 12% to 45% on the high school text books. For instance, first grade readers jumped from 30c to 60c; third grade readers from 50c to 75c; fifth grade readers from 60c to 90c, and so on. The geographies in the fourth and fifth grades from 72c to $1.40, and the sixth and seventh grades from $1.24 to $1.98. The other books in the other grades in like proportion.

Please observe the following directions in the purchase of text books for the grades:

All pupils in "A" divisions should not buy any new books at the beginning of school (3-A, 4-A, 5-A, 6-A, 8-A). New pupils in these divisions can supply themselves with second-hand books.

Where a book is used in two successive grades no new books should be purchased until the old one is completed. For instance, pupils in the fifth grade will use the same geography that they used last year in the fourth grade; and the same manner, the seventh grade pupils will use last year's geography and history.

The exchange price on readers is an allowance of but 7c to 12c and on the geography from 11c to 25c. If these books are usable at all they are worth more than this exchange price.

Pupils in "B" divisions who must buy new readers as requested to bring their old readers to school the first day, where they may be left for supplementary work, or may be sold for more than the exchange price. The same thing will be true of geographies and histories.

A sale of used books will be put on in each school building the opening day. Those who have books to sell will please bring them then.

Patrons of the school are urged to watch the metropolitan papers for news from the state text book commission, which will meet in extra session today.

FINS, EARS AND FEATHERS

A. B. Cooper, county weedmaster, who returned last week from a vacation trip into the forests in the southwestern part of the county, says deer hunting should be good this season. Mr. Cooper, too, is planning on bagging a bear and raiding a bee tree discovered on the trip.

"I found a big bee tree and the honey was plentiful. If the number of bees working there can be taken as an indication, the freeweed is thick in the district and this flower is very rich in nectar. A bear had been trying in vain to dig his way into the hole where the bees enter the tree. We hope that he will keep on trying and that we will find him at his effort a little later in the season."

"The deer signs are thicker in the forests of this county than I have seen them in many years."

As a result of the rain last week and the accompanying cool weather which cleared streams, fishing in the mid-Columbia is much better. E. A. Franz visited the White Salmon river, below Husum, where he caught the limit of 30 trout, several of them 16 inches long.

W. B. North Sunday landed two large steelheads in Hood river. Allen Swafford caught a steelhead Monday. Postmaster Johnson and Ray Lee both reported excellent luck at Lost Lake. Mr. Johnson, using a double leader, hooked two fine fish at once.
