COUNTY FORMED THROUGH INITIATIVE
Venice, Calif., Aug. 20, 1924.
Editor Glacier: I always read with enjoyment and sincere appreciation the articles appearing in your paper on old days in Hood River valley, written by my old and good friend, Capt. Coon.
However, in the article appearing in your issue of August 6 I find an error that in the interest of accuracy, it seems to me, is of sufficient importance to correct.
County was formed under the initiative and referendum law at a statewide election held in June, 1908, and the county is accordingly only 17 years old. The credit for placing the matter before the voters of the state and carrying the campaign to a successful conclusion belongs to Hon. A. A. Jayne more than to any other person. Mr. Jayne was Hood River's representative in the legislature, and a mighty efficient one.
Some 12 or 13 years before an effort was made to form a county at Hood River to be known as Wacoma, John Cradlebaugh and others did yeoman service to carry the project through, but the time was not ripe. Hon. T. R. Coon, one of the squarest men that ever represented any county in any legislature, failed to get the measure through the legislature, but with the respect of all friends of clean government by his leadership of the "30" which resulted in the election of Geo. W. McBride to the United States senate, the election occurred at midnight on the last day of the session.
Hon. E. L. Smith was speaker of the legislature at the session of 1880, so of course, had nothing to do with forming a county that was organized in 1908, except as a private citizen.
I remember very distinctly being one of a committee that went to Salem about 1891 or 1893 to interview our representative, Geo. Johnston, of Clatsop, in the interest of the Wacoma county bill then before the legislature. If I remember correctly the committee was composed of John H. Cradlebaugh, Capt. H. C. Coe, Capt. A. B. Blowers, J. L. Henderson, N. C. Ove and myself. We received scant consideration from Mr. Johnston and our effort came to naught.
I also remember the good old days of conventions, one man (boss) rule and election of United States senators by the legislature, and I am confident that the voters awoke to the fact that the public business was their business and decided to manage it themselves, even if they do now and then make some mistakes. They have that right, certainly.
Sincerely,
L. N. Blowers.

YEAR-OLD WINESAPS BRING BIG MONEY
(From Spokane Chronicle)
The sale of a carload of American apples in Scotland, for four times the price brought by Portuguese apples and for a higher price than could be obtained for Australian and New Zealand apples was set forth recently by the department of agriculture in a striking illustration of the possibilities of shipping American fruit abroad.
J. Macphie Ferguson, of Yakima, Wn., harvested the apples of the Winesap variety in 1924. Despite the fact that they were nearly a year old and were shipped 8,000 miles, they arrived in first class condition. They were wrapped in oil paper at the time of harvest and placed in cold storage at Yakima until shipped in refrigerator cars.
In a letter Mr. Ferguson, who the past season handled a considerable tonnage of local apples said:
"The article speaks for itself, but we might add that we were already in possession of the wonderful news by cable. The prices realized in Glasgow, Scotland, netted to the grower an average price of $2.06 f. o. b. car shipping point, and this for sizes 125's and smaller. We are advised, in a personal letter from our old friend, Mr. Edwin Smith, formerly of Wenatchee, and now attached to the United States department of agriculture, who happened to be in Glasgow at the time the car arrived the end of July, that the advent of a car of Winesaps while the European markets were already overstocked with Australian and South European apples caused amazement and consternation, the buyers hardly being able to believe their eyes."
"This, however, only confirms our often expressed conviction that apples when handled immediately from the trees into cold storage can be held over for unharmed periods."
The Country Newspaper
The Rochester Post and Record remarks thusly on the country newspaper:
"Many country town business men feel rather sore about the amount of trade which in many places leaves the home stores and goes to more or less distant cities. Yet if they would use the same principles of advertising as the result of which these big city stores develop a great trade, they would be able to attract a lot of trade. Human nature is about the same everywhere. If the big city stores have gone on to their wealth and marvelous expansion through advertising, it is not likely that advertising will fail to help the country town merchant. If the people of a town or neighborhood are falling to support the home stores as they should, the trouble is likely to be with the merchants as with the people. Very likely some of them are not showing the enterprise they ought to in the matter of advertising."
"Every page and column of the home newspaper is thoroughly scanned. People do not want to miss a single thing that has happened in their own neighborhood. Where a big city newspaper is hastily skimmed, and only a small part of the matter can be noted because of the enormous size of the paper, on whose pages it is not so big but that it can be thoroughly studied. As a consequence, wherever the merchant puts his notice, it is bound to be read for two reasons: First, because it is next to interesting news; second, because the people are just as much interested in the things that their home stores are doing as in the things that the local societies or people are up to. When people read the advertisements of a store it won't be long before they will call to see what the stuff looks like. The town where the merchants show enterprise and push in the matter of newspaper advertising is apt to be the same town where the stores have good success in holding the home trade."

Mrs. A. H. Jewett, who has been very ill in a Portland hospital, has returned to her home here and is being cared for by Mrs. Chas. Bancroft, a trained nurse.
The little village of Gulor was greatly shocked at the accidental death of 16-year-old Daniel Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Schmidt, who sustained fatal injuries when a shot gun fell from the hay rake he was operating in his father's field and was discharged Tuesday of last week. Both barrels were discharged, striking the lad in the abdomen. The boy's parents were absent during the day and he was found by his little brothers and sisters 30 minutes after the shot was heard by them.
Homer G. Day and daughters, Catherine and Margaret, of Long Beach, Calif., were guests for several days last week at the home of Fred S. Baker.
Mrs. Anna Bodinhouse has purchased the Pioneer building here from Mrs. Jensen, mother of Silas Jensen.
Mountain Brook has been chosen as the meeting place for the eighteenth annual fall session of the Columbia River Presbytery September 8 and 9. Many delegates from towns in western Washington will attend.

Miss Emma L. Juve, of Woodburn, Ore., has entered the employment of C. H. Estes as stenographer. Miss Dorothy Carnine, who held the position for some time, will attend the University of Washington at Seattle.

Reports are coming in that trout fishing in Northwest lake is unusually good at this time. The trout are taking fresh salmon eggs, which are very scarce here.
Bill Lauterbach, the village "cut up," has recovered from a seige of blood poisoning sustained in performing an operation on a bum steer at his Bingen-on-the-Columbia slaughter house. Billy states that he was not covered by his experience, but that enough is enough. Pretty tough!

Radio reception is getting better and better on Burdoin mountain since the advent of cooler weather, which reduces static. However, eastern stations are not coming in as yet. Denver is the best we can do at this time. During the winter months radio reception on Burdoin mountain is wonderful. It must be when a little old second hand one-tube outfit, without a variable condenser, will bring in KDKA, East Pittsburgh.
RADIO NEWS
When a radio fan is trying hard to get his favorite station he will resort to some daring expedients, many letters from KGO indicate.
However, the most unusual case on record is the plight of W. G. Stark, Middletown, Calif., who tried three serials, also the kitchen stove, then a lead pencil, painted the tubes with Epsom salts and filled the "a" battery with brine.
Stark's report revealed that all this did no good; still he was unable to hear KGO well. But he wanted it explicitly understood that he had not lost hope, and intended to keep right on trying.
