READ TO OPERATE BIG RADIO STATION Arrangements completed between H. R. Read, of The Radio Shop, and J. G. Bradford, of Portland, will take Mr. Read to Portland as owner of super-broadcasting station KQP. Mr. Bradford, a resident partner of the Read Radio Shop, will bring his family with him to Hood River. He is a commercial operator with a wide range of experience, including service in France as a radio man which resulted in several wounds and partial disability. He will endeavor to give the same service and continue the same policy of fair dealing for which Mr. Read is so well known. Old KQP, formerly owned by the Apple City Radio club, forms the basis of the new station, which will be the largest in Portland. The new station is being assembled in Hood River and one of the large transmitting tubes may be seen in the Radio Shop window. Storage battery plant supply and several other distinctive features promise new delights for the radio fan and in from six to eight weeks the first programs will be on the air. As a commercial, for hire station, directed by a well chosen staff, Hood River will have cause to be proud of "Kepwick" KQP. The new KQP will be assigned one of the lower wave lengths now permitted for large stations.

SALMON CAUSE ROW AT CASCADE LOCKS District Attorney Baker Tuesday night said that he believed that the coming of closed season on Columbia river salmon fishing possibly averted bloodshed between crews of rival fishing interests near Cascade Locks. Mr. Baker was called to Cascade Locks by the report that fighting between men of C. S. Field and C. T. Smith and fishermen of the MacGowan cannery interests was imminent. "The MacGowan fishermen, in order to get at their catches," said Mr. Baker, had to draw their seines inshore on sandbars claimed by Mr. Field. The fishermen, however, asserted that the land is state shoreline. As fast as the fishermen would attempt to draw the seines onto the sandbar, the Field-Smith men, who numbered about 15, would cut the traces of their teams." Mr. Baker, who said the Multnomah county courts had granted injunctions in the case, prophesied that someone, perhaps representatives of both sides to the controversy, is liable to get into contempt of court. Phases of the case, he said, will be considered at a special session of the grand jury, called here yesterday.

FENNIMORE COOPER'S TRIBUTE TO APPLE An apple in one of the masterpieces of Nature. A vast, complicated interplay of forces work together to produce it. For years, the tree grows from seed to trunk and branches, and then, through many months, it carries on its secret subtle chemistry by which it distills its juicy sweets into ripened fruit. Bursting into fragrant bloom and bud in May, it then elaborates its sap into the flesh of the apple and flavored it with sugar, spiced it with wine and wrapped it in its thin but tough integument. The breezes fanned it, the showers baptized it, the sun kissed it, and the frost mellowed it. It distilled its most delicate flavors from the dew and caught its colors from the rainbows and sunset. Earth and sun watched over it and the solar system credited it in its care. The apple literally became the center of the
