A BETTER WATER SUPPLY

Hood River folk, apparently, are all agreed that the city needs an increase in its water supply. We believe that a sentiment is crystallizing that will bring about an early and unified action on the part of authorities and citizens in this all important problem.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING IS BOOSTED

Marketing of Oregon products on a large cooperative scale will be pushed in campaigns carried on throughout farming sections of the state, R. H. Kipp, manager of the marketing department of the Portland Chamber of Commerce, said upon his return Tuesday from a six weeks' trip through the east.

While away Mr. Kipp paid special attention to co-operative methods of marketing farm crops. He found considerable vigor to the movement everywhere, with business men backing the plan no less actively than the farmers themselves.

EXPLOSION, FIRE GIVE EXCITEMENT

The native calm of the city was disturbed yesterday afternoon when the explosion of a compressed air tank, which wrecked a portion of the Hood River garage building, was quickly followed by a fire that threatened business structures on Oak street.

VICTOR C. FOLENIUS

In their playtime boys and girls often form ideals that will ripple throughout their lives. The right ideals, established in the formative period of youth, have a value that cannot be estimated.

Victor C. Folenius for the past year supervised the play and recreation of Hood River boys and girls. He carried into his work a background of training that made it effective, but he was possessed of something far better and finer than his experience.

TROUT LAKE

Mrs. A. Elmer was a White Salmon visitor last week. Mrs. Marie Koecik and daughter, Elizabeth, now of Portland, spent a few days visiting old friends here lately.

Now that the White Salmon-Trout Lake road is a certainty, why not get busy agitating the completion of the Trout Lake-Yakima scenic road around the south side of Mt. Adams?

Most of the farmers have their three weeks ahead of the usual time. The heads of grain are not as large as expected owing to the hot weather ripening the grain before it was fully grown.

Joshua Aerial, J. O. Vendon and C. A. Pearson have the contracts for carrying the children to and from school. The young people's social Friday evening was well attended, although we missed several familiar faces.

Clipped Here and There
Some years ago, The Spectator incurred a deal of censure by pointing out that it wasn't the city's business to provide for a lot of tramp workmen, free accommodations in auto camps, which were generally nuisances.

There is nothing more dejected than the picture of defeated candidates which stare at one from prominent places after election, unless it be those chautauqua pennants which always hang over the business street of the city long months after the chautauqua has come and gone.

Don't be what you ain't. Don't be what you is. If you ain't got what you is, if you're just a little tadpole, don't try to be a frog.

Don't try to wag the dog. You can always pass the plate, you can't exhaust and preach; if you're just a little pebble, don't try to be the beach.

Don't be what you ain't. Don't be what you is. For the man who plays it square is a going to get 'his.' —The Live Wire.
