Portland to Portland
George Borgman and Leon Baker, of Hood River, Me., passed through Hood River last week on the way to Portland, Ore. They left the Maine city August 13.

"We worked six days at Big Creek, Wyo.," said Mr. Borgman, "so you see we have been making pretty good time in our little car. We expect to make our home in Oregon's metropolis."

Mr. Hood Dance Tomorrow Night
Val Bearson states that he will stage another of his popular dances at Robin Hood hall at Mt. Hood tomorrow evening. Howard's Aces of Melody will furnish the music for the dance.

BARBERSHOPS WERE CROWDED SATURDAY

Local barbershops did a record business Saturday, and Saturday night at closing hour the shops were crowded with patrons. The rush all resulted from placards on the windows of the tonsorial parlors announcing that haircuts beginning Tuesday would cost 65 cents each, and shaves 35 cents. Local men rushed to have their hair trimmed before the increased tariff. Because Monday was Labor day, barbershops were closed.

One rural resident Saturday, when he observed the schedule of increases, declined to have his hair cut at the old rate. He bounced out of the chair, snatched the towel from his neck and announced that he was going to a hardware store to buy a pair of clippers.

Transients, it was predicted, will furnish the haircut patrons of local barbershops the next few weeks. As for shaving, that depends on how the men of the town come on with handling safety razors, the sales of which showed a record increase Saturday.

RADIO NEWS

The new broadcasting station, KQP, of the Radio shop of Hood River, is now definitely located on a carefully selected site, adjoining Mt. Calvary cemetery and overlooking Portland. The equipment has already been moved to the new location which, on the height of land, free of trees and other obstructions, is ideal for broadcasting purposes. Work is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and announcement of studio locations and opening date is expected next week.

Mr. Bradford at the Radio Shop has offered the editor a new Grebe receiver for trial as soon as his second shipment arrives, and promises that when a better receiver is made the Radio Shop will handle it. An article condemning the "hog of the air," the single circuit tuner, was received last week just too late for press. Law and public opinion are against the use of radiating sets in Hood River and now that the static season is almost past a concerted drive is urged to banish the nuisance.

The radio item of most interest for the week was the wonderful reception of the chimes of Big Ben at London, England, rebroadcast from KGO at 9 p. m. Saturday.

America's premier organist, Clarence Eddy, will play the Aeolian pipe organ in the Sherman Clay & Company studio, San Francisco, for the entertainment of the radio listeners tuned in on KGO Saturday night, September 12, between 6 and 7 p. m. The program selected for the evening will include: "Overture in C-Minor," (dedicated to Clarence Eddy) Alfred Hollins; "Russian Boatman Song" "Fantasie and "Fugue in G-Minor," Bach; "Melody," Vice President Chas. G. Dawes; "Hymn of Glory," (dedicated to the American Legion) Pietro A. Yon.

Mr. Eddy is now touring the Pacific coast cities appearing in recitals and his playing over KGO will enable thousands to hear him who cannot reach the concert halls by reason of age, sickness or other infirmities.

Famous throughout the world for his mastery of the organ and his ability to grasp quickly the possibilities of a new instrument, Mr. Eddy has the reputation for playing on more new instruments than any organist living today. It is said of him that he has a new organ is constructed in this country Clarence Eddy is the first organist asked to play it.

H. R. CREAMERY NOTES

Plans are under way for the entertainment of the National Association of Buttermakers which meets in its annual convention in Portland September 15 to 17. More than 1,000 visitors from all parts of the United States are expected to be in the city for the event.

Chief among the entertainment features being prepared is a trip around the Mount Hood loop and over the Columbia River highway the first day of the season. The Oregon Chamber of Commerce is cooperating by offering to stage a salmon barbecue. The visitors will see the local creamery.

The Portland Chamber of Commerce has proffered the use of its halls for a "stag" social affair the night of the first day. Wives of delegates will be entertained at a Portland theater. Business sessions will be held the second and third days with the annual banquet the evening of the second day.

Young People's Rally

The Young People's association of the Christian and Missionary Alliance held a district rally in Hood River Labor day. Services were held at the Alliance tabernacle. The speakers taking part were as follows: Rev. E. S. Gerig, Portland, district president; Rev. Wm. Moyser, of India; Rev. W. E. Gill, of Bellingham, Wash.; and Dr. E. F. Webber, evangelist. The program follows:

10 a. m., opening service, prayer and praise; 10:45, Bible study, Dr. E. F. Webber; 11:30, registration of all delegates; 12 o'clock, lunch hour; 1:30 p. m., business conference; 2 o'clock, prayer hour; 2:30, welcome and fellowship hour, reports and testimonies; 3:15, missionary address, Rev. Wm. Moyser, of India; 3:45, sermon by Rev. Gill, of Bellingham, Wash.; 6 o'clock, lunch hour; 7:15, song and praise service; 7:30 missionary address by Rev. Moyser; 8 o'clock, sermon by Rev. Gill.

An afternoon service at 3 p. m. was held in addition to the regular services. According to Rev. Arthur E. Hall, pastor, there was a good attendance at all of these services.

HALL DAVENPORT FACTORY IS BUSY

A committee of local men, Dr. V. R. Abraham, J. H. Fredrick and G. A. Molden, has just returned from Portland, where they investigated progress being made by the Berkeley Hall Bed Davenport Co., which is now engaged in manufacturing the furniture specialty in Portland.

"We were highly pleased with conditions," said Mr. Fredrick. "We find that the business will reach an unexpected volume right from the start, for the bed davenport is declared by furniture dealers to be the most satisfactory ever offered. Our factory, too, is building an article of furniture that will last for a lifetime. We are making chairs to match the davenports."

C. B. Hall, who invented the bed davenport, has for a number of years taken a lead looking toward the development of irrigation projects in the Horse Heaven country of Washington. It was originally planned to establish a factory for the manufacture of the davenports here. While a number of the local men took stock in the concern, enough local financial assistance could not be gained to locate the factory in Hood River.

The local committee declared that the reception given their new bed davenport assures that it will be a financial success.

91st Going to Portland
Powder River-r-r-whoop-e-e - Let 'er buck!
They are going to Portland, by land, sea, and air, the doughboys of the 91st

Division. It's Portland's turn at last. Seattle has had 'em, and San Francisco and Los Angeles. Now they are to hold their annual reunion in Oregon on the seventh anniversary of the opening of the Meuse-Arnonne battle.

The veterans of Portland are ready for them with a real he-man's program of entertainment. This will be Oregon's first chance to entertain the only combat division from the Pacific coast that fought as a unit, and won General Pershing's commendation, and was selected by him as one of two American divisions to fight with the armies of the king of Belgium in the last great drive.

POISON BAIT WILL KILL BERRY WEEVIL

The Clark Seedling strawberry industry here, which the past several years has been given a new stimulus through announcement from the Washington state experiment station at Puyallup, Wash., that the weevil can be controlled economically by a poison bait. Experiments here, while on a small scale, indicated that the poison bait would end the destruction of the pest. Tests in Washington are declared to have killed 100 per cent of the weevils.

The bait, which contains some scent that lures the pests, is placed in the crown of the berry plants just after harvest when the maggots are turning into beetles.

It is predicted that the discovery of the weevil poison will result in the planting of many new tracts of berries. The Clark Seedling variety, as grown here, is in keen demand by canners, who state that no strawberry grown in the United States shows a like canning quality. Even though fresh markets were not available, the sale of the berries to canners would result in good profits.

LOW GRADE APPLES NEARLY ALL SOLD

Reports from canners, who have already toured this section, are to the effect that Hood River orchardists have contracted 95 per cent of their low grade apples. Canners this season are paying $12 per ton and are taking everything below C-grade. Last spring growers expressed some alarm over the disposition of their cull fruit when the plant of the Hood River Apple Vinegar Co. burned. Although no definite plans have been advanced for reconstruction of this plant, the destruction of which entailed a loss of nearly $200,000, the canners have solved the cull apple problem.

The largest consumer of low grade apples here is the Libby, McNeill & Libby cannery of The Dalles. This company annually utilizes about 4,500 tons of the fruit.

Van Horn-McNary in Company

Robert G. McNary and Edward W. Van Horn have opened a brokerage office in the Railway Exchange building, Portland, under the name of the McNary-Van Horn Brokerage Co. They announce they will specialize in the handling of Northwestern fruits in car lots, principally apples and pears, functioning as selling brokers and buying for receivers account.

Mr. McNary is well known to the trade all over the country, having been connected with the Pacific Cranberry Exchange in the capacity of sales manager until he resigned to handle this new undertaking. Prior to his affiliation with the Cranberry Exchange he was sales manager for the Oregon Growers Co-operative Association. Mr. Van Horn has had a number of years' experience in Northwestern fruits, both as a grower and buyer.

Earwigs Have Arrived Here

Earwigs have reached Hood River and city residents and orchardists have appealed to the Hood River experiment station for instructions for fighting the pest. S. E. Barntzen reported the worst infestation. He said a workman, cleaning moss from his garage roof, had found the insects thick. Mr. Barntzen found numbers of the earwigs on his front porch.

The G. W. R. & N. freight staff state that many earwigs have been brought here in freight shipments.

Penney Places Record Hose Order

The largest single order on record for women's hosiery was placed by the J. C. Penney company the other day to partially take care of the 1923 business of its 676 department stores.

The order was for 2,400,000 pairs, embracing besides the staple colors many of the attractive shades which will be in vogue.
