STAGE AND SCREEN

One of the most interesting phases of the early history of this continent is the mute record of the cliff dwellers, which can still be found in the west. Sheer mountain walls, seemingly inaccessible, furnished fortresses for these ancient people, at the top of these natural citadels.

We find a similar instance in the monasteries of Thessaly in Greece, where monks guarded sacramental treasures by placing them at the top of a natural tower-like formation that rose more than 800 feet into the clouds. The Pueblo Indians built terraces for the same purpose—defense against an enemy who attacked from below.

This forms an important element in the rousing story by Zane Grey, "Riders of the Purple Sage." Lassiter, hero of the novel, pursued by two score ruffians, suddenly finds himself apparently blocked by a wall of rock. His swift vision perceives foot-holes in the cliff and he makes his escape. A keen knowledge of the past enabled the author of the book to present a unique situation for the climax of his narrative.

"Riders of the Purple Sage" has been transported to the screen by William Fox. Tom Mix, in the role of Lassiter, will be seen at the Rialto Friday and Saturday.

Although "Man and Maid," the Ellinor Glyn production which is coming to the Rialto theatre Sunday is laid at the time of the world war, none of the actual battle scenes are viewed. The only effect the war has upon the picture is an explosion scene in the Red Cross office in which the hero is injured and which serves to bring him to the heroine. The war has nothing to do with the story, which tells the powerful tale of a great man and a very beautiful lady. There are surprises aplenty, and as in all of the Glyn productions, magnificent sets and clothes.

Lew Cody plays the hero, Sir Nicholas Thorndike. This is Cody's first departure from the role of a "heavy," and he proves conclusively that he is a real heart breaker. Harriet Hammond is cast in the leading feminine role—that of Athene.

Others prominently featured in the cast are: Alec Francis, Renee Adoree, Paulette Goddard, Jane Mercer, Gerald Groves, Jacqueline Gadsden, Dale Fuller, Carrie Clarke Wardle and Dagmar Desmond.

Buster Keaton and T. Roy Barnes, famous stage stars, are Wall Street "magnates" in "Seven Chances." Buster's latest comedy, which is coming to the Rialto theatre next Wednesday. And between the two of them "Seven Chances" has been made into the most scintillatingly funny farce in which Buster ever has appeared.

Buster has $7,000,000, and some 7,777 women who wish to marry him and his millions in "Seven Chances," which is his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy, presented by Joseph M. Schenck. Even David Belasco, who produced "Seven Chances" for the speaking stage production Buster has ever used transformed his stage comedy into a fun film, and by the way, it is the first film production Buster has ever used for film purposes.

Buster's trio of scenarists, Joe Mitchell, Jean Haves and Clyde Bruckman, have "juggled up" the Belasco comedy so that the screen version outlasts the stage play at every turn.

The cast appearing in support of Buster consists of Ruth Dwyer, his new leading woman; T. Roy Barnes, Sam Edwards, Jules Cowles, Marion Harlan, Doris Dean, Peggy Pearce, Lora Barn, sister of Theda Bara; Alma Bramley, Detroit heiress; Hazel Dean, Pauline Toler, Judie King, Barthelette, Eugenie Gilbert, Edna Hamman, Barbara Pierce, Jean Arthur, Connie Evans and Rosalind Mooney.

Helena Commission Man Visitor

R. C. Wallace, known as the dean of commission merchants at Helena, Mont., who for 25 years has purchased Clark Seedling strawberries from W. S. Galligan here, stopped last week while on a motor trip to Pacific coast points. Mr. Wallace annually has handled Mr. Galligan's nearly tonnage of berries. Before his purchases from Mr. Galligan, Mr. Wallace for some 10 years bought the fruit from Edgar Locke, Mr. Galligan's father-in-law.

"I have always wanted to see the Hood River valley and your berry tracts," said Mr. Wallace, "and it had been my intention to come here long before this. I have never handled finer strawberries than grow in this section. I anticipate dealings with you men for many years to come."

Elks Class Initiated

A class of 13 was initiated last Friday night by the local lodge of Elks. A luncheon followed the initiatory work.

The Elks here will participate in Constitution week with a public program next Friday evening, when Judge R. R. Butler, of The Dalles, will deliver an address. Exalted Ruler Richards is busy getting committees ready to conduct a campaign for the restoration of "Old Ironsides." Elks from the local lodge will visit all schools in Hood River county, the western part of Wasco county in the Mosier country and in towns of southern Klickitat and Skamania counties, Washington.

HELP FOR OLD FOLKS

Old Age Should Be Happy—Not a Time of Sickness and Suffering. Too many people begin to suffer at middle age with constant backache, urinary ills and rheumatic pains and aches. Weak kidneys are usually the cause and, if neglected, there is danger of hardened arteries, dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Help your weak kidneys with a stimulant diuretic before kidney disease gets a firm hold! Use Doan's Pills. Thousands of old folks recommend Doan's.

Here is Hood River proof: Mrs. N. A. Monroe, 814 Cascade Ave., says: "My back and kidneys bothered me and I felt run down and miserable. Doan's Pills helped me greatly and soon restored me to my usual good health. Such a fine remedy as Doan's should be known to all."

Over seven years later, Mrs. Monroe added: "Doan's have always helped me when my kidneys troubled me." Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Monroe had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.
