

BEACH TALK

When the Oregon State Chamber of Commerce proposed a Salmon Bake for the Delegates to the National Butter Makers Convention at Hood River, the Directors of the Hood River Creamery selected Koberg Beach for the place to arrange and serve it. Let's see if we succeeded.

The old saying, "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach," still holds good. Those Delegates and their Ladies, sitting in our Pavilion overlooking the beautiful Columbia River, feasting on Royal Chinook Salmon, where they could see the place they were caught, eating those Non-pareil Cantaloupes and Tomatoes grown on our farm with the flavor in it. All of them brought a keen appetite, sharpened through the drive around Mount Hood. They did not care about dining in marble halls; what they wanted was something good to eat and plenty of it. Most of them packed two plates, and the crowd—O, Boy! From Iowa, from Minnesota, and further east—all have heard about Hood River—the apples we grow and other fruits—the scenery and fine people we have. They even sang a song composed and arranged to tell Hood River this and more. Then the speeches! Bunk? Ask a Guide.

Koberg Beach in its line stands well up among the institutions that make Hood River what it is: The Hub!

While returning Mr. and Mrs. Peeler stopped at Monmouth to visit an aunt of the former, "Grandmother" of that city, who is now 95 years old. The only accident to mar the trip occurred at Monmouth, when Mr. Peeler lost a wheel from his super-Ford.
 During the slump season of July and August the First Christian church tried the experiment of increasing the attendance, especially at the evening services, by means of advertising the services. As a result of a modest investment in advertising through a publicity committee of the church at Seventh and the usual dropping off of the attendance there has been an increase of at least 50 per cent. Encouraged by this experiment, the committee plans to do more extensive publicity work for the fall and winter, with the conviction that it more than pays in every way.
