Does YOUR ROOF Leak?

LEAKING Roof is a disgusting thing to put up with. If it is on your barn or garage, it may spoil your hay or impair the efficiency of your stock or your machinery. If it is on your home, it means not only discomfort for your family, but possibly serious illness as well. It simply isn't worth it when the remedy is so easy.

We carry in stock materials for repairing every type of roof. If you are doubtful about what to use, tell us about your roof and we will help you select the proper materials and tell you how to use them.

MOSIER

Mrs. E. A. Race and Miss Gribokov were in Hood River shopping Monday. A. Grosser was quite ill the first of the week. A doctor was called and he is reported as better.

Mrs. Fred Evans and son, Arlan, left Friday for Portland to spend the week end with Mr. Evans, who is running a fruit stand there. Mr. Evans is also taking treatments for his eyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Huskey were visitors in White Salmon during the week.

Robt. Simpson, Frank Ginger, E. W. Davidhiser and Mr. Reither attended the Masonic lodge in Goldendale Thursday evening.

W. E. Clark went to The Dalles Saturday night to visit his wife, who is looking after the Y. W. C. A. home.

Visitors' week was observed at the schools. All rooms report having had a number of visitors. No prize was offered this year, so there was not as much competition as in former years.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Husbands returned home Thursday from a trip in the valley, going as far as Wendling to visit their daughter, Emily, who is a teacher in the public schools there. They stopped in Portland and made Mrs. Husbands' brother, George Root, and family a visit.

Wm. Akers, of Portland, was a caller in Mosier Saturday.

Irvine Strauss fell while playing Saturday and broke his arm just above where it was broken not long ago. Francis Howard rushed him to Hood River for medical attention and he is doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Mobley motored to Portland Friday evening.

E. L. Root left for Portland Sunday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bailey and daughter left Saturday for Valslet, where Mr. Bailey has work.

Paul Bailey was visiting at the home of his brother, Clare, during the week.

Mrs. Orville Bailey and daughter, Mary, left Saturday for Gold Hill, where her husband has charge of a large ranch.

The father and son banquet given at the school auditorium Saturday evening was a great success. About 100 fathers and adopted fathers and sons sat down to a table well laden with good things to eat, prepared by the high school girls and their teachers, Miss Gribokov and Miss McClure. E. M. Strauss acted as toastmaster and Rev. Livingston, of Hood River, and others responded with talks on the subject of the evening. This is the first banquet of the kind to be held here, but from the reports it will not be the last.

G. L. Davenport has finished the harvesting of a fine crop of potatoes which he raised on the lowlands along the Columbia river. The price potatoes are this year, he should make a good stake.

John Moore, of Hood River, and Miss Mae Camp, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Camp, surprised their friends as well as parents when they slipped away to Hood River Monday and were united in marriage. A host of friends wish them a long and happy married life.

Saturday evening Ray Cooksey and Mrs. Cavin were married in Hood River. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hads accompanied them.

Little Jefferson Mosier is quite sick in The Dalles hospital.

Mrs. J. E. Folsom and children have moved to town for the winter and are occupying the lower part of the Huskey house.

Mrs. E. M. Strauss entertained the Ladies' Aid last Wednesday and in honor of Miss Alice Shogren, whose marriage to James Wilson will take place soon, the ladies presented her with a fine cedar chest. The next meeting of the Aid will be with Mrs. Camp December 9.

The Fat and Forty Card club met Saturday with Dorothy and Ruth Strauss, Irene Horn carrying away high honors.

The Girl Reserves met Saturday in the Y hut with Dorothy Bennett and Mary Evans as hostesses.

E. L. Root recently had a letter from his son, Eugene, saying he thought the accident he had some time last May would leave him with a crippled arm for life.

STAGE AND SCREEN

A heavily loaded truck rumbled along the road near Santa Ana followed by a motorcycle officer. A gust of wind displaced the canvas covering of the truck. Several cases labeled "Scotch Whiskey" were disclosed.

"Ah, bootleggers!" exclaimed the intrepid officer as he drew his revolver. The truck driver and his companion gazed down the barrel of the huge six-shooter and obeyed the officer's command to "Pull up."

His explanations disregarded with a brusque "Shut up," the driver was handcuffed to the other fellow. In answer to an excited telephone call, a squad of officers arrived and escorted the truck and the "bootlegger" to the police station.

When the boxes of "Scotch Whiskey" were opened, they were found to be full of sawdust.

Harry Jensen, the driver, and Clyde Sayres, assistant property man of the Warner Bros. studios, explained that the cases were props in the Warner Bros. picture, "The Lighthouse by the Sea," filmed at Laguna Beach.

The company, which consists of Rialto-Tin, the famous dog star, Louise Fazenda, comedy star, and Buster Collier (Willie Collier, Jr.) directed by William Beaudine, was on location at Laguna for about six weeks.

This screen adaptation of the Owen Davis play will play tomorrow and Saturday at the Rialto theatre.

Lucille La Verne, who plays a leading role in "Sun-Up," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production directed by Edmund Goulding, which is coming to the Rialto theatre Sunday, offers a unique method for learning to smoke a pipe.

She plays the role of the Widow Cagle and it was necessary for her to master the pipe in order to play the part. Now-a-days it is so customary for women to smoke cigarettes that they no longer cough or choke, but Miss La Verne said she did both when she first tried the pipe.

"I recalled the old negro manliness I had seen on the southern plantations, and I tried to hold the pipe in my mouth and puff it while empty. That much was easy. But when I tried smoking tobacco I thought I would die of nausea."

"After much experimentation I found a way. I now partly fill the bowl with sugar, then I break up a cigarette and pack that on top of the sugar. The tobacco is mild and the sugar seems to filter the smoke and stop particles of tobacco from getting in my mouth. The combination permits me to smoke in peace and with no fear of ill effects," Miss La Verne said.

The cast of the picture includes Lucille La Verne, Pauline Starke, Conrad Nagel, Ben De Graesse, George E. Arthur, Arthur Rankin, Edward Connelly and Baird Backwith.

Lulu Vollmer wrote the famous Broadway stage success "Sun-Up," upon which the film is based.

Noman McLeod, the man who draws the funny little figures which add so much to the Christie comedies when they appear in the sub-titles in these popular two-reelers, has had his good right arm insured by the Christie Film company for $25,000, against injury which would prevent him from continuing to create these queer golly-woggy figures which have become so much a part of these pictures.

McLeod's cartoon figures will be seen again on the screen at the Rialto theatre when "Sit Tight," the latest Christie comedy, will appear there.

The saucy, mischievous imp, who is beloved by millions throughout the world is back on the silver screen.

Mary Pickford has forsaken the ruffled lace and bejeweled gowns of costume play and has returned to the type of role that made her famous.

"The World's Sweetheart" is again the curly haired, prank playing, impetuous Irish lassie in "Little Annie Rooney," her latest United Artists Corporation photoplay, which comes to the Rialto theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Little Annie Rooney" starts with a fight and ends with a fight. In between are laughs galore, a tear or two, much suspense and many heart throbs. It's an ideal story for Mary Pickford and her character Annie Rooney is one of genuine artistry, played as no other actress could play it.

The story is one of the slums of New York, an epic of those crowded, smoky thoroughfares on the East Side where men, women and children in motley array swarm like ants in an ant hill.

"Little Annie Rooney" is a million there. She is the leader of a gang of boys which is continually getting into battles with a rival gang.

While still a child Annie is plunged into a maelstrom of dramatic incidents that first make the popular girl, then bring out the heroic qualities so often found in children of the slums.

A notable cast, including William Haines, Spec O'Donnell, Yola Vale, Eugene Jarek, Carl Carrara, Gordon Griffith, Walter James, Hugh Fay, and many others are seen in support of Miss Pickford.

"Little Annie Rooney" is declared to be Miss Pickford's best picture in her eventful screen career. It is the type of picture which should please everyone, has been given a sumptuous production and its photography by Chas. Rosher and Hal Mohr is beautiful throughout.

HAZLETT HEAD OF WILSON MEMORIAL

James H. Hazlett has been appointed chairman for Hood River county to raise funds for the Woodrow Wilson Birthplace Memorial. Mr. Hazlett will conduct no campaign for securing funds, but will receive voluntary contributions in cash or pledges to be met in annual payments.

The house in which Woodrow Wilson was born was located in Staunton, Ya. Staunton is in the beautiful Shenandoah valley. At the time of Mr. Wilson's birth his father, Rev. Joseph R. Wilson was pastor of the Presbyterian church. Mr. Wilson was born in the pastor's home, which was built by the church in 1846, and which has been used for that purpose continuously ever since. It is now to be set apart as a national shrine.

Mr. Wilson himself cherished a tender regard for Staunton as his birthplace, and for the church in which his father had preached. He once said, "I was born in Staunton, Ya. Sometimes a man's rootage means more than his language." The first public address made by him after his election was at Staunton, on the site of his birthplace, and at the invitation of his old neighbors and friends. It was the 56th anniversary of his birth. While in Staunton on this occasion he was entertained in the house.

There has been formed a plan to take over this building, and constitute it a memorial which will include furniture of the period, books and periodicals relating to Mr. Wilson and his times, and many other relics which would be interesting to posterity. It is also planned to restore the chapel on the grounds of Mary Baldwin College, near Staunton, to form a complete birthplace memorial to the late president.

It is proper that a memorial to Mr. Wilson contain a suggestion of education. Much of his life was devoted to education and even his great work as a statesman partook of the nature of teaching. For generations to come, the intercourse of nations will be illumined by the ideals of international relations to which he gave form. It is therefore pre-eminently fitting that his birthplace memorial should be identified with education.

To complete a birthplace memorial worthy to bear the name of this historic character, at least $500,000 will be needed.

Dan Wulfe & Co. See S. P. & S. Co. Dan Wulfe & Co. have brought suit against the S. P. & S. Co., seeking to recover a refund on freight on a carload of apples shipped to Phoenix, Ariz. The plaintiff alleges that the fruit was ordered shipped by way of Portland and the S. P. line, but that it was coerced by the defendant rail line to forward the apples by other lines and that an excessive rate applied.

Allyn Button Takes Radio Agency The city has another radio agency. Allyn Button, who operates the service station at the corner of Second street and Cascade avenue, just opposite the Hotel Wawokoma, has taken the agency for the popular Rada radio receivers and is ready to demonstrate his line in the homes of those desiring the high class standard receivers.

Mr. Huelat Resigns C. O. Huelat, for the past year manager of the municipal automobile park, has resigned the position. The mobile park, because of competition of private parks, was not a financial success the past year. Mr. Huelat operated the park on a percentage basis. The city council the coming year will maintain the camping place on a different basis.
