HOOD COLONY'S SURVIVING MEMBERS

The following letter, written recently by Mrs. T. R. Coon to the Oregon Journal, will be of interest here: As historian of the Hood River Pioneer association, I have often searched the files of old newspapers to establish dates and facts and have always found them reliable. However, an item concerning Hood River in your column of "Twenty Years Ago" and reprinted last Sunday is so wide of the mark that I wish to call your attention to a portion of it which, under date of November 15, 1903, says: "Of the colony four survive, only one of whom resides in Hood River. The facts are: There are three members of that colony living in Hood River now (November, 1923) who have lived here continuously since their arrival, more than 50 years ago. They are James Ingalls, Mrs. Gertrude (Ingalls) Howe and Charles Wallace. "There were 60 persons in the colony when it started west. The leader, Dr. Parkhurst, died at Ogden; also an infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ingalls. Of the 58 persons who landed on the sandbar about 20 were 12 years of age. Of those who were grown in 1875 number still residing are Mrs. Eleanor (Smith) La France and Aaron Ramsay, both of Portland. Of the Phelps family, all the five children are still living, either in California or Oregon. Judge Gilbert W. Phelps, of Pendleton, is one of that family. There are a number of others who are still active and useful citizens of the Pacific coast."

RADIO NEWS

A man staggering up the street, hands flapping, with a wild look in his eye, may not be the victim of a boot-legger for times have changed since radio broadcasting came. On the contrary he may only be a tired business man following the advice of Hugh Barrett, Dobbs, radio health talker over KGO. "Stagger like a drunk man once in a while" advised Mr. Dobbs in a recent talk to Pacific coast listeners. "Too many of us are getting loose, relax," he continued. "We are living with tight muscles. We grab and hang onto everything—food, street cars, money, life. Our muscles, nerves and tense nerves keep us from relaxing. The drunken man and the baby are perfect examples of relaxation. The former staggers around, knees and elbows loose, muscles flapping. However unpleasant the sight, he is giving his body a chance to rest and his nerves an opportunity to quiet."

Xmas Tree Street Decoration Opposed
The decoration of city streets with large, young evergreen trees at Christmas time is a useless, wasteful practice and should be discontinued, according to a statement just issued by the U. S. Forest Service.

The cutting of small seedling Christmas trees for home use, from thickets where thinning would benefit the forest crop, is approved by the foresters. They point out, however, that trees cut for street decorations are usually thirty forest youngsters from 10 to 15 years old. A good tree this old, it is pointed out, had much better be left to grow into trees that will be contributing to the industrial stability of the region.

Decoration with greens and boughs is suggested instead. "This would give the same holiday spirit, without the economic waste. It is also suggested that a large living fir tree be selected in one or more of the parks, to be decorated annually as a civic Christmas tree."

Turkey Is Stolen
O. S. Bartholomew, whose orchard place is on County Club drive, has reported to county officials the theft of two turkeys and the valley's only specimen of a turkey, a hybrid turkey and chicken. Numerous West Side growers have lost chickens and turkeys recently. "The thief may have my henhouse now," said Mr. Bartholomew, "as I have no further use for it. It'll be free if he desires it."
Mr. Bartholomew says he is discouraged over raising fowls. Last year a thief stole 58 turkeys and chickens from him.

KELLY'S Where It Pays To Trade HARDWARE—FURNITURE

FEDERAL POULTRY EXPERT IS COMING

Dr. M. A. Jull, senior poultryman in charge of the poultry department of the United States government, is visiting the state of Oregon this week and meetings were scheduled at Salem Tuesday and at Portland yesterday. These meetings were held exclusively for poultry breeders, hatcherymen and dealers in baby chicks. Dr. Jull is leading a movement throughout the United States to place the poultry breeding work and the sale of baby chicks on a firmer basis. The work of accreditation and certification of breeding flocks is being inaugurated in most of the states of the Union, and every effort is being made to standardize the work. With the proper methods of certification of breeding flocks, that supply the commercial hatcheries with eggs during the breeding season, the purchaser of baby chicks will be guaranteed a much better grade of chicks when purchased through this source. Dr. Jull will visit a number of the leading poultry plants in the northwest before returning to Washington.

Real Christmas Happiness
You can be merry at Christmas time merely by patronizing a bootlegger and drinking the stuff he sells. But you can not be happy then unless you do something to make others happy. The receiving of presents can cause merriment; only giving that includes part of one's self can produce happiness. There is a vast difference between being merely merry and being happy. Christmas seals offer an opportunity to gain a measure of happiness. The sale of these seals finances the ceaseless war on tuberculosis. Where two persons died of this dread disease formerly only one dies now. Those who bought Christmas seals made this great saving possible. Those who buy seals this year will know that they are helping to save human life while also sparing many the horror of seeing their loved ones taken by this awful scourge.

The American Red Cross gives you another opportunity to earn the right to be merry Christmas day. This splendid organization makes but one appeal during the year—the roll call starting Armistice day and ending Thanksgiving day—on November 11 to November 20. Every dollar contributed during the roll call becomes an agent of mercy, for whatever disaster causes distress there will be found the Red Cross workers, administering to those in need. Remember the Christmas seals and the Red Cross roll call so you can be happy as well as merry December 25—December Sunset.

Cascade Locks Budget Cut
The Cascade Locks school budget for the coming year for that district was discussed Wednesday night of last week. This amount included a sinking fund of $3,000, and also a fund of $3,000 which had been set aside to redeem outstanding warrants.

BURGLAR FROM THE DALLES IS TAKEN

Charles Crane, 21, who said his home was in New Hampshire, arrested here Monday morning after he had been halted by revolver shots from officers, was taken to The Dalles to answer a charge of burglary. Informed by The Dalles authorities, who gave a description of a watch and other articles stolen from a store in the neighboring city, City Marshal Hart, accompanied by Deputy Carson and Morrison, apprehended Crane and four other men in a box car.

After he had jumped down from the car Crane made a break. Officer Hart fired two shots in the air. He was only halted after Officer Carson sent a bullet singing close to his head. The watch was found in his sock and other articles on his person. Crane, accompanied the other men, who gave the following names: Albert Morton, of San Francisco; Paul Hope, of Niagara Falls; Jack O'Brien, of Klamath Falls, and H. Osfeld, of Winnipeg, Canada. They were released when Sheriff Chrisman arrived here.

Strange Malady Kills Horses
The farmers of central Wasco county are facing a serious problem in the strange malady which for over a year has been causing the death of a large number of horses, according to the Dur Dur Dispatch. The epidemic originated a little over a year ago in Hall Hollow and Friend districts, some of the farmers in those localities losing their entire supply of work stock. Among those having heavy losses were Jas. Dawson, F. J. Sweet, Wm. Latham and others. The disease has recently spread to the Tygh Ridge section where S. M. Hix and Walter Fargher have lost a large number of valuable horses.

Despite every endeavor to diagnose the disease and determine its prevalence, the horses continue to die in large numbers. Local and state veterinarians who have been consulted confess that they are baffled. Numerous prescriptions and remedies which have been recommended have failed to effect the desired results. It seems to us that state officials have failed to realize the gravity of the situation. Not only does the disease seem to be spreading, but the sale of horses is being seriously affected. Farmers are afraid to buy new stock, however badly they may need them, for fear of bringing the disease into their own herds. Consequently the spring work will find many of the farmers without sufficient horses for plowing.

WOMEN'S CLUB NEWS

The home economics committee of the Women's club will meet next Monday, December 7. The group for budgets and time savers will meet at 2 p. m. The meal planning group will meet at 3 p. m. and child training at 4 p. m. The next regular meeting of the club will be December 9, Book Day, with Mrs. Waite, chairman.

Burglar Alarm Works
A burglar alarm, which switched on electric lights and started a bell to ring, frightened away thieves who entered the Pine Grove store of A. F. Bickford & Sons recently. John McIlroy, who lives near the store, aroused by the alarm, fired two shots toward the fleeing men.

The store has been successfully burglarized on four former occasions.

Protective Society Wants Help

This year it is again necessary for the Pacific Protective society to make an appeal in behalf of the unfortunate ones under their care. They are asking each one of their friends to help them, each in his own way, and knowing that there is considerable farming done in our district they are asking that we help them by supplying potatoes and other vegetables for winter use. The society has four institutions to care for: The Cottage hospital, the Louise home, the Albertina Kerr Nursery home and the Portland Commons. During the past year they provided for 180 girls, 234 babies and over 500 men, women and boys.

Any kind of vegetables that you might feel able to send them and help them in their good work will be greatly appreciated. Send your donation to 186 Burnside St., Portland, Or. All freight charges will be paid by them, and your sacks will be returned if you so desire.
