

"As Idle As A Painted Ship Upon A Painted Ocean"

A SAD and solemn-sounding phrase it is—that line from "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner."

Yet there are men's efforts of which that might be said. No progress! Doomed to stay in one place as long as they live.

They are men who have no financial program—no place for saving—no hope of getting ahead.

FATHER-SON BANQUET HELD

DR. DUBACH, OF O. A. C., SPEAKER

Fathers and Sons Urged to "Speak Same Language"—Youth Urged to Take Life Seriously.

Dr. Dubach, dean of men at the Oregon Agricultural College, was chief speaker at the annual father and son banquet of the Men's Brotherhood of the Riverside church last Friday night.

"Do not expect the college to take your boy and turn out an educated citizen of high ideals," said Dr. Dubach, "unless you send us the proper material on which to work. The college is going to count in making your boy only to that degree to which he has been made before coming to us."

Dr. Dubach declared that the work of college authorities could be aided if citizens of Corvallis would join in and cooperate in the elimination of the bootlegger.

"I am going to make somebody mad with that statement," he said, "but it is true. We can arrest the bootleggers and they get away with a pitifully small fine."

Dr. Dubach's talk was directed chiefly to the boys, an approximate 100 of whom were present. He urged the youth of the country to consider life seriously.

"It is more important to get ready for the great game of life," he declared, "than to prepare for a football or other athletic season. Keep your bodies good and make your head work. You cannot think clearly and abuse your bodies."

He urged fathers to make comrades of their boys. To inform them on the "problems of life."

"God speed the day," he said, "when fathers and their sons all get together and speak the same language."

"Boys, ask your dads, talk to them. If you are uninformed on anything, go to your father and ask him questions. The father will be embarrassed, but he will be a real friend to that boy if he will take him seriously and answer those questions. And, boys, never do a single thing of which you may be ashamed to tell your dad. Be pure in morals. Never have a thought about some girl that you would resent if it were about your mother or sister and in some other fellow's name."

Dr. Dubach warned youth against cheating in examinations at school. The boy who cheats in his lessons, he declared, will be found dishonest in his afterlife business dealings.

D. L. Pierson was toastmaster. The dinner, served by girls and women of the church, was an excellent one. Scout Executive Schoubee was present and led members of local troops in interesting songs. A French boatman's son, "Alouette," rendered by Mr. Schoubee and A. T. Case, brought rounds of applause.

Dr. Dubach was taken to Parkdale Friday afternoon by Mr. Pierson. He addressed the students of the Parkdale union high school.

After his address here he distributed among the boys the following, "A Call to Young Men," written by David Starr Jordan, president emeritus of Stanford University.

"Your first duty in life is toward your afterlife. So live that your afterlife—the man you ought to be—may in his time be possible and actual."

"Far away in the years he is waiting his turn. His body, his brain, his soul, are in your hands. He cannot help himself."

"What will you leave for him?" "Will it be a brain unspoiled by lust or dissipation; a mind trained to think and act; a nervous system true as a dial in its response to the truth about you? Will you, let him come as a man among men in his time?"

"Or will you throw away his inheritance before he has had a chance to touch it? Will you turn over to him a brain distorted, a mind diseased; a will untrained to action; a spinal cord grown through and through with the devil grass we call wild oats?"

"Will you let him come, taking your place, gaining no more experience, happy in your friendships, hallowed through your joys, building on them his own?"

"Or will you fling it all away, deprecating wantonly, that the work you might have been shall never be?"

"This is your problem in life—the problem vastly more important to you than any or all others. How will you meet it, as man or as fool? Is your problem today and every day, and the hour of your decision is the crisis in your destiny!"

At the annual meeting of the American Red Cross chapter, held Tuesday at the Mt. Hood hotel in conjunction with the Tuesday lunch club meeting, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: H. E. Baker, president; Leslie Butler, vice president; H. Herschner, treasurer; Mrs. J. W. Ingalls, secretary, and Dr. J. W. Sifton, Geo. R. Wilbur, H. G. Ball, Mrs. H. G. Cooper and Mrs. L. S. Boyd, executive committee. S. J. Moore, retiring president, presided at the meeting.

The nominating committee was composed of C. H. Vaughan, Mrs. A. S. Keir, Mrs. E. O. Blanchard and D. L. Pierson.

Mrs. Ingalls gave the following report on the chapter's activities the past year:

During the year past Hood River chapter, American Red Cross, has held 15 board meetings not including the annual election, and two joint meetings with the County Health association.

This year and every year since Hood River county has had a public health nurse. Red Cross funds have paid for her car, including a new one last summer, have paid all bills pertaining to said car, and furnished other transportation as needed, with the incurred expense, and has paid a substantial share of the nurse's salary.

The Red Cross, in the year just passed, has cared for many ex-service men, and for the families of some of them; has advised with them and when needed provided them with medical and financial assistance. In this work the American Legion has been most helpful, aiding the chapter by investigating the records of ex-service men, and in many other ways helping us whenever called upon.

Financial relief to ex-service men to the amount of something more than $200 has been extended. The most of this is in the form of loans, and will eventually be returned, as has been done in past years.

A number of needy civilians have been given emergency relief, in medical and other ways.

Lodging tablets for the prevention of gonorrhea among school children were purchased by the Red Cross last spring, and furnished free to every school in the county which would use them.

Last summer the Red Cross chapter continued the life saving service they began the year before, hoping to make the water safe for the young people and all others who cared to learn how to swim.

At that time an instructor was kept on the beach for one week, and his salary paid by the Red Cross, and his services given to the public free of charge. Mr. Koberg assisted very materially by allowing all who wished to join the Red Cross swimming classes free admission to his beach. This experiment was so successful that it was undertaken again this year, and the Red Cross arranged for two days each week during the entire swimming season. During those days the average daily attendance was 245, totaling during the whole season 3,925. This year the opportunity given by the Red Cross brought pupils from all over the county if not every district being represented.

At the close of the season, after the life saving examine's tests had been given there were issued from the Pacific branch office 11 senior and 13 junior life saving certificates with the pins and emblems which had been earned by the Red Cross classes. In addition to this there were many who learned to swim who did not attempt to pass the life saving tests, and about 175 and 75 young children who learned how to swim. In this work the Red Cross chapter here had the work of cooperation and able assistance of Mr. Koberg, the owner of the beach, and the school board of District No. 3.

Your secretary has received approximately 600 letters of these requests for answers. The appeals which come to the Red Cross are of infinite variety. Many are from ex-service men or their relatives asking to have someone located or traced for them. We are asked to find and reunite missing husbands and wives, to report on parties who are being investigated, to see that relatives who are seemingly indifferent to their duties are reminded of their obligations. Men in jail who claim that they are unjustly imprisoned have asked for help that may release them, and warnings of impostors and unscrupulous traders are sent in this way, are frequently sent to us.

With all these appeals for help it must be constantly borne in mind that we are a branch of the National Red Cross, working under a charter, and subject to the rules and regulations of the organization. For this reason we are often forced to turn down applications for assistance that are not in accordance with the laws of the National Red Cross; but in every case where it is possible to do so, and abide by our national orders, relief is given when asked, and never at any time in emergency relief denied.

Guests at the club meeting Tuesday were: Paul Heerlein, Ralph Lewis, of Parkdale, E. M. Chandler, of Olympia, Wash., and Mrs. Ingalls.

The city council has evidenced an active interest in plans for making available an entry into the city from the West Side orchard districts by providing a new connection with a county road across Paradise farm at the end of May and Sherman streets.

A special meeting was called last Friday afternoon, when the finance committee of the body was instructed to confer with owners of Paradise acreage and ascertain the terms agreeable on a right of way. At an adjourned session of the council Monday afternoon it was announced that the cost of the property will reach about $1,800, and City Attorney Smith was instructed to draw a resolution authorizing the mayor and city recorder to purchase the property on the best possible terms or to make a contract for it.

The negotiations, however, with Mr. and Mrs. Banks Mortimer, owners of Paradise farm, will be contingent on the council entering into an agreement with the county, whereby the county will construct and maintain the street and road connections. The proposed road will accommodate a heavy tonnage of fruit, entering the city from the West Side and will enable ranchers to enter the city on a moderate grade, escaping the steep streets leading to the Heights section of the town.

Funeral services for L. W. Cannon, aged 80 and native of Iowa, were held Tuesday afternoon from the family home on Brookside drive. Rev. L. H. Miller, pastor of St. E. Barnard, directed the funeral, and interment followed at Idlewild cemetery.

With Mr. Cannon were buried the ashes of a son, Earl Cannon, who passed away at Los Angeles, Calif., 12 years ago.

In addition to his wife, Mr. Cannon is survived by two daughters, Miss Bertha Cannon of Portland, and Mrs. Geo. H. L. Sharp, of Hood River. Two grandchildren, Miss Catharine Carter and Forrest Carter, reside in Portland.

Mr. Cannon and his family moved to their Brookside drive orchard home 17 years ago from Des Moines, Ia. Before coming here he had been one of the most successful salesmen of the middle west. He had traveled over the nation frequently. The hospitality of the Cannon home was known throughout the mid-Columbia, and Mr. Cannon had a host of friends among old and young. News of his death brought expressions of general grief.

YAKIMA ROAD GETS BOOST

FEDERAL AID WILL BE PETITIONED

Portland and Yakima Chambers of Commerce Lay Plans for Action at Meeting Monday

While it will lie within another state, the construction of a proposed new route highway down to the Columbia river at White Salmon is of great interest here. Such a highway will eventually draw a heavy traffic of automobiles through this city. It will bring about a development of the scenic attractions of the Mount Adams section and make Hood River a popular base for motor parties, drawn from the four quarters of the country to see the mid-Columbia Cascades during the summer months.

Dr. Hubert Work, secretary of the interior, is to be petitioned for support in the construction of the highway which will cross the Yakima Indian reservation and will shorten the traffic distance from Portland to Yakima to 178 miles.

Decision to present this petition immediately was reached at the Monday meeting of the Portland Chamber of Commerce of business men of that city and of Yakima, Vancouver, Goldendale and Wapato, Wash.

Already prepared, the petition was sent to Dr. Work by the Yakima Chamber of Commerce immediately. To it was affixed the signatures of presidents of the Portland chamber and other commercial organizations in towns and cities along or near the proposed route.

Secretary Work is urged to use his offices as the directing power controlling Indian reservations to have an appropriation of $700,000 made for the highway enterprise. It is desired that the highway be constructed from the vicinity of White Swan to the southern boundary of the reservation on a line extending toward White Salmon.

Discussion of the long-sought railroad project to shorten rail traffic distance between the Yakima valley and Portland was brief, and no action was taken other than adoption of a motion to have the Yakima Chamber of Commerce appoint a committee to work jointly with the Portland chamber's similar committee in making surveys and estimates.

What the delegations from the Washington cities and towns were primarily interested in was the construction of the highway.

W. D. B. Dodson, general manager of the Portland chamber, pledged the cooperation of Portland in efforts to obtain the shorter route.

The visitors were introduced at the members' forum of the chamber at noon, Judge Brooks calling attention to the fact that because of lack of more direct traffic facilities Portland and Yakima were both losing advantages of trade that should be theirs.

A. H. Devers presided at the short afternoon meeting given to discussion of the possibility of obtaining more direct rail service.

Marshall N. Dana declared that interest in the highway was apparently more cordial and immediate than interest in the railroad.

Mr. Dodson said that in his judgment committee from such organization should survey the situation so as to make recommendation of a definite route as the basis for a possible application for a certificate of convenience and necessity.

O. C. Bovee was of the opinion that there should be definite assurance of finance before application for a certificate was made.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Blythe have at their Twin Oaks farm place an old blue Staffordshire platter, an exact replica of a piece that sold last November for $810. The old platter, which Mr. Blythe estimates has been in his family for more than 100 years is 18 1/2 inches long. The edge of the old dish is of flowered design, and in the center is a picture of New York of early times as seen from Weehawk.

Mr. Blythe's mother's maiden name was Julia A. Hoover. She was reared in Pennsylvania.

A sister of Mrs. Blythe, Mrs. D. F. Percival, who formerly resided at Cheney, Wash., had two of the early day blue Staffordshire platters which are now so popular among collectors of antiques. She lost the larger of the two while carpenters were engaged in making some alterations in the family home.

Mrs. Percival was visiting at the home of a neighbor when she suddenly remembered that the carpenters were pounding on a wall in a room adjoining the cupboard where her precious platters were stored. She rushed home to find that one of them had already been crashed to the floor by the jar of the blows.

PARKDALE MATRON DIES IN PORTLAND

Funeral services for Mrs. H. L. Sommer, 45, native of Illinois, wife of an Upper Valley orchardist, were held at the Upper Valley Community church Sunday. The Christian Science service was read. Interment followed at the Parkdale cemetery.

Mrs. Sommer died last Thursday night at Good Samaritan hospital, Portland. She was one of the most popular matrons in the Upper Valley, and the sudden news of her death brought general expressions of grief.

Pomona Grange Next Wednesday Hood River County Pomona grange will meet next Wednesday with the Pine Grove grange members as hosts. The chief speaker of the session will be Fred Toose, of Salem, who will meet the Republican nomination for state superintendent of education at the May primaries.
