ODELL HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

(Dorothy Pemberton)

Due to an oversight mention of the revision and adoption of two amendments to the Odell high school student body constitution failed to appear in the news column for last week. The revision was an important measure brought before two student body meetings. The original article provided that before a student receive a letter of award for participation in basketball he must have played in one-half of the games scheduled for the season. It was brought to the attention of the student body March 19, at that body's regular meeting, and definite action was not taken until March 22. The revised article now states that a student before receiving a letter must have become a member of the first squad. At the meeting of March 26 another amendment was proposed and adopted by the student body to the effect that the executive committee might be allowed to submit amendments to the constitution.

The high school first team in the second baseball game of the season was defeated by the junior high first team of Hood River, Monday. The score was 10 to 4.

Monday it was announced that the valedictorian of the senior class would be Pearl Johnson, and the salutatorian, Joseph Kollas.
