IN TEN YEARS

Can you recall ten years ago when the Columbia River highway was first opened and a few cars gradually began to stream through?

Another chapter in the book of highway building is being completed this year. We refer to the Coopers Spur lateral.

Great have been the accomplishments in the mid-Columbia in the past decade but they will be even greater in another ten years.

THE SHREWD SOLICITOR

Hood River merchants and business folk the past week have learned how they allowed themselves to become the victim of a shrewd solicitor, who worked up the street and down the street with magic hand, signing up the stores, the restaurants and garages for space on a time card.

Except where someone preserves one to remind him of his folly how many of those time cards will be left in Hood River in a month?

Hood River, business folk are fortified against such mauling as that submitted to last week. The Chamber of Commerce will furnish every member with a placard, which refers those solicitors to the chamber itself.

If Hood River desires to have such time cards and other similar lines of advertising, let the Chamber of Commerce issue them.

THANK YOU

The Spectator sends its hearty congratulations to the Hood River Glacier which on June 3 celebrated its thirty-seventh birthday.

The Hood River Glacier has just celebrated its thirty-seventh birthday. Its thirty-seven completed years do not prevent the Glacier from being as frisky as a colt, as fresh as a daisy and as peppy as a husky boy.

Early Monday morning a few flags were flying in front of downtown business houses. Business and professional men, arriving later, observed the display, many of them asking the reason.

CLEAN UP THE ORCHARDS

The orchardists of the Hood River valley the latter part of next week will entertain 150 of the leading pomologists of America.

Those who have been through the various fruit sections lately have noted many old trees that might well be removed. Let's have the dead wood all out of the way before the distinguished visitors get here next week.

As a people we are becoming confused. We are asking the government to do things which government is not designed to do, things which could better be done by individuals, industries and communities.

Has anyone anything to suggest that has not been suggested our state or our national government do?

The hillsides, recently so green, are drying out and turning brown as summer advances. It has been long since rains have fallen and the woodland broken and underbrush crackle to the touch.

During the recent weeks events approaching the miraculous were chronicled in the daily press, and the public read and accepted them as a matter of course.

Hood River is really a world apple capital. Apples from her orchards are eaten all the way from Buenos Aires to Nome, from London to Manila, from Copenhagen to Khartoum.

THE HISTORY OF BARRETT SCHOOL

The first school house was made of planks that stood on end, with cracks about an inch wide between the boards. There was a dirt floor and the roof was covered with the floor.

February 12, 1892, the town of Hood River presented all the schools with a flag, so on that date Barrett school had its first flag raising.

Chicago and Detroit folk have learned the past few weeks that asparagus from any other section of the world is but a poor imitation. They have learned that "grass," to the real thing, must come from mid-Columbia Oregon and Washington.

The Union Pacific system has inaugurated service of open observation cars on trains passing up and down the Columbia gorge between The Dalles and Portland.

The Legion climb this year is going to be the best ever. Quit dallying about your decision as to celebrating the Fourth. Join the crowd and go to the mountain.

STUDENTS WRITE HISTORY STORIES

As a part of their class work, students of the various grade schools of this county the past term have been writing stories dealing with pioneer history. These stories will be printed from time to time.

Hood River Valley History

Odell, Pine Grove and Mount Hood used to be called East Hood River, but that name has changed considerably.

ings are north of the present site of Odell. When the railroad came through in about 1900, some people said the town would be moved to the railroad.

Then the postoffice was in Atkinson's store. It was called Newtown, after the Newtown apples. But that name didn't fit the town.

Buildings came little by little after Mr. Atkinson built the first store. In 1882 and 1883 there were no churches in Odell. The first religious exercises were held under a large fir tree in Mr. Shelley's yard.

The first school in Odell district was taught by Mrs. Shelley in a little one-room log house. The building was owned by Alfred Wood. The school was then moved to a one-room box school, which was later bought by Mr. Crockett and moved to his farm.

Some of the first settlers in Odell district were: John Lens, William Ehrlich, John Kroeger, William Odell, D. A. Turner, Mr. Corum and Rev. Troy Shelley.

There were many kinds of preachers, Christian, Methodist and many others.

THE VOICE OF THE LIBERTY BELL. This is one of the two new official posters of the Sequi-Centennial International Exposition, opening in Philadelphia June 1 to celebrate 150 years of American Independence. The Exposition will continue to December 1. Dan Smith, the artist, has symbolized the epoch in history which the tolling of the Liberty Bell in Independence Hall, July 4, 1776, marked and has depicted the growth of the United States from the original thirteen states, represented by the thirteen stars which emerge from the mouth of the Liberty Bell.

New York's Old Guard Coming to Sesqui. At an imposing ceremony before their headquarters in New York City the famous Old Guard of New York under the command of Major H. Heilmeyer Snyder, commandant of the organization, received the invitation from the officials of the Sequi-Centennial International Exposition, opening in Philadelphia June 1 and continuing to December 1, to celebrate 150 years of American Independence, and to attend the Flag Day exercises on June 14, when all the historic military commands of the thirteen original colonies will assemble for a big military display and parade headed by General Pershing, Captain James A. B. Francis, of the Old Guard State Fencibles, of the Sequi city, is presenting the invitation to Major Snyder. At Major Snyder's left stand the commanding officers of the Philadelphia organizations, while the members of the two famous commands are grouped about their leaders in their striking dress uniforms.
