The Gospel Tabernacle
 The evening service at the Gospel tabernacle, Eighth and May streets, will also be a farewell service for Miss Iretta Downing, who is departing early Monday morning for Seattle, Wash., to enter the Simpson Bible institute where she will take up intensive training in preparation for work in missionary fields abroad.
 Miss Downing has long and critically considered this decision, and soon after being graduated creditably from the Hood River high school, made her application to the above named institute, which is acknowledged the peer of such schools on the coast. After but little delay, her application was approved and announcement was made that she would matriculate at the opening semester this September.
 Her many friends have been very busy since then with such preparations that would adequately equip her for her school year, and now the whole church is gathering for a farewell service to speed her in this eventful direction.
 Admiration and sincere commendation have voiced their approval and happy to see another of its group of young people take up the work.
 It is the hope and desire of the officers of the church that all the friends and acquaintances, especially the high school class associates, attend this service as an expression of their esteem for Miss Downing. The pastor hopes, these classmates will turn out in a body, so that this final reunion may ever be recalled in happy memories in the days to come.
 The service will open promptly at 8 p. m. and be concluded with a brief address by Miss Downing at 9:15.
