JUDGE WOLVERTON'S DEATH SHOCK TO BAR

Expressions of regret were voiced generally yesterday by members of the Hood River bar on hearing of the sudden death at Gearhart Tuesday of Judge Charles E. Wolverton. The sudden passing of the distinguished jurist brought a keen shock to local attorneys. Judge A. J. Derby, speaking of the career of Judge Wolverton, said: "Judge Wolverton was one of Oregon's most able men. His sincere and wise administration of the law, his high-mindedness and integrity have left an impress on the Oregon bar that will be lasting. The passing of Judge Wolverton will break a remarkable friendship throughout an association through a lifetime, was an inspiration to those who knew them."

One of the outstanding features of the annual convention of the Oregon Bar association, held here in 1923 at the Columbia Gorge hotel, was a banquet given in recognition of the meritorious services rendered their state and nation by Judge Wolverton and Judge Bean.

HEALTH EXHIBIT WAS COMPREHENSIVE

The health exhibit at the recent school fair was worthy of note. Over the door of the gymnasium where the fair was held was a sign bearing these words, "If You Are Well You Are Welcome."

On the stage were placed two models loaned by J. C. Penney Co. wearing rubber rain coats, hats and rubbers, as a demonstration of one way to avoid colds. In the health booth there was an exhibit with this notation, "If Johnny has a contagious disease and stays home these places are safe. No epidemic follows." In the center was Johnny's house with paths leading from the door to a school, a library, a theatre, a store, a church and houses of neighbors.

Literature on contagion and other matters of health were given out. Mrs. C. K. Benton, Mrs. L. S. Boyd, Mrs. R. B. Perigo, Miss Jean Skene, besides the nurses, were in attendance.

LEGION SEEKS TO HOLD A CARNIVAL

At the Monday evening meeting of the city council the American Legion post applied for a blanket concession for holding a carnival here beginning October 11. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

The Monday evening session of the council was one of the lightest of the year. With the numerous details of recently initiated street work out of the way, the city fathers have been given a breathing spell.

Oakland Demand Grows

The rapidly mounting demand for the Oakland Six and Pontiac Six has established a new daily production record of 900 cars, according to word just received here by J. F. Volstorff, local dealer in these two popular lines. The best previous record for one day, it was pointed out, was 834 cars.

DEMANDS FOR POWER DECLARED HEAVY

The installation of several hundred apple wiping machines by the growers of Hood River valley have made exceptionally heavy demands upon services of the Pacific Power & Light Co. The company's plants and distribution lines have a capacity far in excess of any immediate power requirements of the valley. The installation, however, of so many power consuming devices scattered over such a wide territory presents numerous and sundry problems as to services. The whole problem is one of so locating transformers and running services of sufficient size from transformers to points of consumption. The employees of the company are doing everything within their power in order to meet the requirements of the growers for power.

It is estimated that some 500 wipers are being installed. Each of these wipers is equipped with from ¼ to ¼ H. P. motors, and these motors cannot be served with the wiring on the premises that was installed in past years, in many cases to supply lights only, but wiring must be installed of sufficient size to carry these motors. If the wire is too small nothing is gained by installing larger motors.

H. E. Baker, district manager of the power company, requests that growers who have power problems to meet, take the matter up with the power company and have one of their employees make an investigation of the requirements and advise the proper and most economical method of supplying their need.

Some such requirements were anticipated last year when they inaugurated the position of rural service salesman. This man has been very busy conferring with the growers, advising them of the necessary changes to be made, and also laying out the work for the power company employees, which greatly facilitates the work and prevents loss of time so vital to every grower now.

RED CROSS AIDING IN FLORIDA RELIEF

The local Red Cross chapter, according to announcement of H. E. Baker, chairman, has been called on by Pacific coast and national headquarters for contributions of cash for relief of the unfortunate residents of Florida cities devastated by hurricane. Arrangements have been made for receiving contributions to the Red Cross at both local banks.

The American Express Co. yesterday received authority to receive and transport free of charge any provisions forwarded by the Red Cross or other authorized relief organization. Mr. Baker has asked all who wish to contribute provisions to get in touch with him.

The suggestion has been made that the Hood River valley forward a consignment of apples to the stricken areas.

FIGHT WILL BE BROADCAST HERE

The Tunney-Dempsey fight will be received at a number of places today in Hood River. The Bertol Motor Co. yesterday placed an aerial over the garage at Cascade avenue and Third street and will receive the fight returns.

The Rialto theatre will receive returns on the fight and will be open in order that those interested may hear the results.

It is announced that returns will begin coming in here about 5:45 p. m.
