GREISEN NOTICES MUCH IMPROVEMENT

C. R. Greisen, formerly located here as business manager of Better Fruit, who is now a representative of the Republic truck sales corporation for Oregon and who arrived here last week, says that he notices numerous striking developments in Hood River valley during his few years of absence. He says the Mount Hood Loop highway has brought about the greatest change.

"It made me feel like being in another land," said Mr. Greisen, "when I drove out over the Loop road. It gives one many magnificent views, whereas on the old road one got a glimpse of the West Side only from the old rock crusher point."

Mr. Greisen says that Hood River has two buildings that might grace a metropolitan point of the Mt. Hood hotel and the Butler bank building.

"One rarely ever finds such places as these in a town the size of Hood River," he said. "Hood River folk will take a pride in showing the lobby and rooms of the Mt. Hood hotel to their visitors. Mrs. C. A. Bell and Fred Bell have rendered Hood River a service in the improvement of the hotel. The Butler bank structure is as fine as you will find anywhere."

Mr. Greisen expresses the belief that Hood River would be able to dispose of many more high class apples in Portland were the sale of such.

He thinks a store for the sale of the best local apples should be established. "Provision should be made to deliver the apples anywhere in the city at a reasonable rate," he stated. "I believe if such a service were properly advertised, Portland people would soon get the habit of buying Hood River apples by the box."

Peaches Keep in Cold Storage

An experiment of H. S. Galligan, who grew the fruit on his east side orchard place, has demonstrated that peaches may be kept in cold storage. Mr. Galligan placed a quantity of ripe peaches of the J. H. Hale variety in a refrigerated room August 24. The peaches removed last week, were in excellent condition. They had retained their firmness and were of good flavor.

In every sixth home—a Thor!

Today there are nearly a million Thors in use in the United States.
Right on the Pacific Power & Light Company's system there is a Thor in one out of every six homes.

THIS Thor record would obviously have been impossible with anything less than a good machine. Thors have been manufactured twenty years. We have sold them fifteen years. No question about downright worth after such a long-time test as this.

Every washer washes clothes. But how thoroughly it washes, how fast it washes, how easy it is on clothes, and how long it gives satisfaction are considerations too often glossed over by washing machine salesmen with dramatic demonstrations of one sort or another.

Some of the Thors we sold fifteen years ago are still in use. Ten-year-old machines are still more numerous, and five-year-old Thors are common. Yet no matter how old a Thor is, there is always a resale value, an eager market. We will always be glad to take in a Thor washer on the purchase of a new one.

We cannot afford to be concerned with the money-grabbing propensities of a mushroom washer manufacturer. What would you think of any concern that sold you less-than-the-best merchandise and then let you "holer" at lack of satisfaction.

"Let the buyer beware" is a relic of the past. We look forward to being in business in this city, and growing with it, fifteen years from now, twenty years from now, longer. That is why we recommend the Thor washer.

BOB LEE NAMED
MT. HOOD AGENT

Robert Lee, who has been with the valley rail line for the past five years, has been promoted from a clerkship to the agency here. He succeeds C. J. McKittrick, who will join the staff of Duckwall Bros., apple shippers.

Both men are experienced in the rail as well as the fruit business, especially the shipping end. The valley rail line, which hauls practically all of the apple tonnage originating from Parkdale north along its right of way, anticipates a tonnage of nearly 3,000 cars of apples this year.

LARAWAY'S MASONIC RECORD INTERESTING

No man of the state has a more interesting Masonic record than W. F. Laraway, who has held the chairs of the fraternity all the way from the master of the blue lodge to grand commander of the commandery for Oregon. Mr. Laraway is the only member of the Hood River lodge who has been active in Masonic work for more than 50 years. He regretted his inability to be present in Portland last week for the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the Grand Masonic Lodge of Oregon.

Mr. Laraway, now 78 years old, was raised to the degree of Master Mason at Glenwood, Ia., Lodge No. 58. He is an honorary member of Tangier temple of the Shrine at Omaha. He has attained the honor of having his name inscribed on the roll of the mother lodge at Jerusalem.

Mr. Laraway has been an active citizen of Hood River since 1902. He purchased large East Side orchard places, and during his residence here has operated one of the best Pacific northwest jewelry stores.

Mr. Laraway is now taking a keen interest in his orchards. He is producing fruit second to none. His deliveries of winter pears to the Apple Growers Association this fall have run well toward perfect fruit. The other day he exhibited a basket of d'Anjou and Bose pears that aroused the envy of all who saw them.
