STEEL TO ADDRESS CALIFORNIA MEET

The marketing of western perishable products is to be the principal subject for discussion the opening day of the western divisional meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce at Colorado Springs December 6 and 7. Ralph P. Merritt, president and managing director of the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers of California, has been asked to present this subject at the conferences.

Although there have been some very remarkable accomplishments in the cooperative marketing field, Secretary of Commerce Hoover recently pointed out that still better organization among western producers together with closer cooperation between shippers, bankers and the railways, could eliminate much waste that has existed in the past. It is estimated that this waste runs into many millions that would otherwise be returned to producers.

One of the chief speakers on the subject of cooperative marketing will be A. F. S. Steele.

Cooperation along these lines is at present being obtained under the California grape car plan, which it is thought might be extended to include fruit and vegetable products all over the west. Donald D. Coward of the American Railway association, will explain this plan in detail for the benefit of the business men, bankers and representatives of important groups of producers in attendance at the Colorado Springs meeting.

MORGAN SAYS THE FRESNO MEET FINE

City Fire Marshal Morgan, who has just returned from Fresno, Calif., where he attended the annual convention of the Pacific Coast Association of Fire Chiefs, says the meeting was one of the best ever held. Numerous industry meetings were given serious discussion, Mr. Morgan said.

The returned fire marshal says the Californians of Fresno county, the home of raisins, deserve the highest praise for their hospitality. The delegates were given every attention and showered with courtesies, he declared. Mr. Morgan caught the "Firemen's Special" of the S. P. Co., at Oakland and journeyed to the San Joaquin country aboard this train. He is reported to have made a hit with a speech at the annual banquet.

The mayors of several cities had spoken and responses had been made by high fire officials of California. Then Mr. Morgan arose and said:

"Mr. Toastmaster, ladies and gentlemen: "If for one want to tell you that I come from up to the north of here, but since I have been listening to these eloquent addresses of your high California officials, I am of the opinion that we of Oregon and Washington are very wise. We ought to give all of that section of the country back to the Indians and then move down here to California, where you have nothing left to wish for."

The convention of next year will be held in Portland.
