GOVERNOR WALTER M. PIERCE

Was there ever a more adroit vote gatherer than Governor Pierce? He would be hard to find. Governor Pierce, who began his machine-gun fire of words in a speech puts his audience under a kind of hypnotic spell. He gives them no time to think, and he parades figures that seemingly are authentic and accurate. We wonder how many of those who heard Governor Pierce Tuesday stopped to consider that his reported reduction in Hood River county state taxes included four years for himself and but one year for the former administration. His figures are accurate, certainly, but if they are analyzed in the light we have suggested above, a flaw will be obvious.

The Glacier last week reprinted a comment from the Oregon Voter on this very point. We give again this extract:

Governor Pierce resorted to one of the cleverest political tricks on record when he published his figures. What he made his trick so convincing was that his figures were accurate. Like the stage magician, he had a real rabbit and a real hat, and relied upon the audience to draw the conclusion that he had nothing up his sleeve. The audience knows something is wrong, and wonders what the magician has concealed in his sleeve. What Governor Pierce concealed were the tax figures for three of the four years preceding his administration. He compared the tax figures of his four years with the tax figure for only one year, and left his audience to draw a conclusion entirely different from what it would infer if it had all the facts before it.

A man spent $100 for clothes in 1922, and $10 a year less each year following. Thus he spent $10 less in 1923, $20 less in 1924, $30 less in 1925 and $40 less in 1926. Then he added those amounts together and told his wife he had spent $100 less for clothes than he had spent in 1922, when he only spent $100 all told. She knew there was something wrong with the figures, for women are hard to fool in matters of money. When she compared the total spent for the four years with the total spent during the preceding four years she saw what was wrong with the figures. Instead of having spent less for his clothes, hubby had spent more.

A serious accident resulted on Pine street Monday when a schoolboy chased a football into the street and was struck by a motorcycle. Children should be impressed with the need for care in their games. Never should a boy or girl chase a ball into the street. Drivers of motor vehicles should approach schools with the utmost care and speed should be reduced to the minimum. Never can one tell, despite all admonitions, when a child will thoughtlessly step into the street. The legal speed limit by schools, we are told, is 12 miles an hour. Eugene and Ninth streets are especially dangerous where they intersect, for hundreds of kiddies cross there daily. Motorists should use care, but children, too, should be made to accept some of the responsibility for their safety and not invite injury by chasing motor trucks.

Both the visiting delegates and the Hood River people who attended the reclamation congress last week learned something. The visitors were made to grasp the magnitude of the apple industry as practiced here. They were shown how a progressive people can work together for the solution of numerous problems. The local folk learned that the Hood River Valley may be taken as one of the most prosperous spots in Oregon.

The tithing bill, to be voted on at the approaching election is an infamy and extremely unjust to those who wish to see the full development of game and fish propagation in Oregon. The full fund from sportsmen's licenses should be expended in furthering the asset that accrues from well stocked streams and forests. Vote against the tithing bill.

Will the eastern apple dealer be made to realize the significance of the huge decrease in apple tonnage in the Pacific northwest as a result of the recent drop and the curtailment because of grade regulations? The earlier estimates on tonnage will be reduced by 7,000 cars. That's a lot of apples.

With its enormous tonnage of Newtowns, the staple late keeping variety of apples, and nowhere in the world is the variety of a higher quality than here in this section of the mid-Columbia. Hood River Valley should be able to profit from the later demands both in domestic and export markets.

There is certain to be one funeral after the November 2 election. The Henneswies' power bill is already breathing its last. Its papules and numbles even are deserting it. It will die a lonesome death.

Why does not the Oregonian cartoonist lift that high hat from over the features of Mr. Haney? It is afraid of the effect of some manly pulchritude on the voting population?

Through picking? Dodge Brothers Roadster. We have for sale a 1922 Dodge Brothers Roadster equipped with Bellows Tires, new battery and automatic windshield wiper. This car has had a complete overhaul and is in the shape. Priced right. BENNETT BROTHERS.

HANEY MEETING AT ROCKFORD TONIGHT

Considerable interest is being displayed among Democrats of the county over the meeting scheduled at Rockford hall tonight, when Bert E. Haney, the party nominee for United States senate, will be the speaker. M. M. Hill, president of a recently organized Hood River County Haney club, will preside at the meeting.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The union will meet at the home of Mrs. L. H. Higgins at Twelfth and Eugene streets. There will be discussion of candidates and measures with the legislative committee in charge. Mrs. K. D. Peterson will have charge of the musical part of the program. The delegates to the state convention will be there to give their report. Mrs. Stout will have charge of the refreshments, assisted by a group of five or more ladies.

FINS, FURS AND FEATHERS

R. M. Winans Monday brought his fourth bear for the season to the city. The animal, which weighed 227 pounds, was sold through a meat market, was trapped near the Winans home.

A. L. Anderson and J. G. Odell, of The Dalles, accompanied Portland friends to Herndon Sunday to shoot China pheasants. They bagged the limit.

The high water of Sunday spoiled a day's fishing for many local anglers. The Hood River Game Protective association has received a letter from E. F. Averill, state game warden, who says that the state has an opportunity to buy 1,000 live wild turkeys, for breeding purposes at $12 per bird. The price was considered reasonable, but the game fund has been depleted, and efforts are being made to raise funds by subscription for the purchase of some of the birds.

The association will receive subscriptions from its members. Donors should send their subscriptions to J. H. Fredrick or Alva L. Day. If the purchase is made it is anticipated that some of the wild turkeys will be planted in the Hood River valley. It is thought they will thrive in the surrounding cove lands.

Raymond Markley Passes. Funeral services for Raymond Markley, 53 and native of Kansas, who died yesterday at his West Side orchard home, will be held at the Anderson chapel this afternoon, interment following at Mt. Zion cemetery. Mr. Markley had lived in the valley for 28 years. He homesteaded a tract on the Upper West Fork of Hood river on the Lost Lake highway.

Mr. Markley is survived by his widow, a son, Merle, his mother, Mrs. Mary Markley, of Hood River, and the following sisters and brother: Mrs. Ralph Hinrichs and T. H. Markley, of Hood River; Mrs. Lee Buskirk and Miss Audrey Markley, of Portland, and Mrs. George Hurst and Mrs. M. I. Wheeler, of Los Angeles.

Rate Reduction Desired. Representatives of the Hood River Traffic association, which includes all local apple shippers, will join in a meeting at Olympia, Wash., Monday with representatives from similar associations of Yakima and Wenatchee, Wash., when plans will be formulated for an appeal on a permanent reduction in the rate on Pacific northwestern boxed apples to points east of the Mississippi river. Rice. The boy and companions were playing football. Young Allen ran after the ball into the street and was felled by the cycle.
