SCREEN AND STAGE

The Rialto theatre has recently made numerous remodeling improvements. The ladies' rest room is now on the mezzanine floor. A comfortably lounge room has been arranged on this floor also. The men's lavatory has been removed to the first floor.

The office of the manager has been remodeled, and a rearrangement has been made in the office of the cashier. The improvements all make for a greater attractiveness and convenience for the patrons of the theatre.

Changes are noted at the Liberty theatre. The front has been remodeled, and the arrangement provides for quarters for Matt Russell's barbershop, which will be removed from the Rialto building.

When "Stella Dallas," Henry King's production of Mrs. Olive Higgins Prouty's famous novel, opens at the Rialto theatre next Monday, starting a four-day run, it will be revealed as an exact celluloid translation of the book. Even the original title has been left intact. This carries out the avowed intention of Samuel Goldwyn, producer of the film, to perpetuate the genius contained in the story by picturizing the romance precisely as it was read by the millions who devoured the novel and saw the play.

Successfully to carry out this idea, made difficult by the dissimilar technique of the novel and the screen, Frances Marion, screen dramatist, spent more than four months in the preparation of the script. Each incident and climax of the novel has been conscientiously preserved to the letter and spirit in the screen version. Laurel's birth-day episode, a dramatic high light, the Pullman car climax and the wedding have all been conveyed from words and sentences to pictorial drama.

Even the book's ending, with its blending of happiness and heart-bringing pathos, is imaged in terms of romantic realism on the screen. "Stella Dallas" in its present form is the director's silent tribute to Olive Higgins Prouty's great novel, a dramatist's entertainment for those who have or have not read the book. Even the locale of the story has been faithfully reproduced in the selections of interiors and exteriors of Boston, New York and Long Island.

Unusual care in the selection of the cast was exercised by both Samuel Goldwyn and Henry King, to choose not only actors and actresses of recognized ability, but those who in their screen life looked like and typified the character they were to play.

Belle Bennett, picked as the seventy-third applicant for the part, is considered to be Stella Dallas to the life. Ronald Colman is Stephen Dallas, the romantic youth of good family. Alice Joyce is the kindly, understanding Mrs. Morrison. Jean Harlow lives the role of Edith Morn, the wise-cracking, show-off riding master. Lois Moran, the modernized and unsophisticated child wonder, is the strange and beautiful Laurel. Mrs. Prouty, in a letter to Lois Moran, stated that Lois was her ideal Laurel. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., makes a perfect Richard Grosvener, the care-free college boy, Laurel's sweetheart.

FINNS, FURS, FEATHERS

An army of hunters invaded the brushland and cooped surrounding the valley Sunday, seeking a bag of China pheasants on the opening day of the season. At daybreak the explosion of shotgun cartridges sounded as though skirmishing had begun for a battle. Scores of families will feast on pheasant this week.

GORMAN AND MOREL FIGHT TO A DRAW

"Nails" Gorman, Hood River boxer, and Bob Morel, of Portland, went 10 rounds to a draw Saturday night in the second of a series of smokes being staged by the Hood River Pythian band. Kid Morrow, of Spokane, won on a foul over Cyclone Santos, Filipino apple harvester, in the second round of a 6-round bout.

Dean Hatch, local boy, and Jack Ryan, of Seattle, went four rounds to a draw as did Floyd Lambert, of Minnville, and Kid Roberts, of Pendleton.

Russell Kelly, of Parkdale, Canadian war champion, was referee. The Pythian temple was crowded.

The main event was an interesting scrap throughout. The Portland battler was an aggressive youth, but seemed to lack punch in his blows. Gorman was slower and landed more telling punches. One of his blows left Morel's left eye in bad shape. When the bout ended both were apparently worn to a frazzle. Virgil Hamlin accompanied Morel here from Portland.

The match between Hatch and Ryan was one of the most interesting of the evening. It was swift and both boys took some severe punishment. The contenders tried vainly to land knock-out punches.

The foul in the Santos-Morrow bout brought a disappointment to fans. Morrow showed himself to be a good fighter, and the little Filipino in the brief time he was in the ring showed some whirlwind action. Lester was unable to meet Santos Saturday night because of the death of his father the night before.

WOMEN'S CLUB NEWS

In addressing the members of the Woman's club at its regular meeting Wednesday afternoon of last week Miss Cella Gavin, of The Dalles, advised all women to do their duty in helping their community and state by voting intelligently, accepting jury duty and by proper home influence. That women have through their political power, brought about many reforms such as women police officers, school nurses and police matrons, and that since women have been serving on election boards there has been little report of robbed or padded boxes as in former days. That it is better to vote "No" when in doubt than to vote for some measure that would cost the people added taxation to the benefit of some special section or corporations. Many bills are introduced that are unwisely or too hastily prepared and are better not passed. On making the women present to name some measures they wished discussed the Housewives' bill was named, as well as the Motor Vehicle and Truck License measure. Miss Gavin is an able and forceful speaker and held the undivided attention of her audience, and also won them by her charming personality.

The program opened with several songs by George Smith, who is an especial favorite and whose selections were greatly enjoyed.

Next Wednesday the neighborhood clubs will be entertained by the Hood River organization, beginning with a luncheon served at the parlors of Riverside church, and later with a program. Woman's clubs of White Salmon, The Dalles, Mosier, Lytle and other nearby places will attend. This is an annual event always enjoyed, as, aside from the sociability of the occasion, much good is derived from discussion of club and civic problems. It is an open meeting and members may bring guests who are not members of clubs, if so desired, but reservations must be made by Monday preceding the luncheon. Hood River members will pay a nominal charge for their luncheon.
