The human crab is best,

Appreciate the rest;

So many thanks for him!"

HOOD RIVER
AFTER NORMAL

THE DALLES WILL NOT GET SUPPORT

City Will Donate Part of Auto Park as a Site for the Eastern Oregon School

Hood River will not support The Dalles in the campaign of the Waco county capital for the new eastern Oregon normal school. The Apple City, Ore., committee, headed by C. T. Baker, secretary of the chamber of commerce, will be an active applicant for the new normal.

Mr. Baker said that the directorate of the local chamber had until Tuesday considered that Hood River would be unable to contend for the new school because of lack of a 20-acre site. The city council, however, expressed itself as favorable to the donation of a portion of a tract at the west edge of town purchased several years ago for an automobile camp. Mr. Baker said Tuesday night that plans called for an immediate joint session of the city council and directorate of the chamber of commerce. A formal application for the normal is expected to follow this meeting.

A committee from The Dalles Kiwanis club was here Tuesday seeking endorsement of the Hood River chamber of commerce in their efforts to secure the Eastern Oregon normal school, made possible at the recent election. Geo. Flagg, editor of The Dalles Optimist, who addressed the Tuesday luncheon forum of the local chamber, declared that The Dalles offered the most feasible location for eliminating congestion at the Monmouth normal. The Dalles, Mr. Flagg cited, will draw attendees from central Oregon counties as well as eastern Oregon. Location of the school at some more remote eastern Oregon city, he said, would result in making it a local institution, drawing its attendance only from eastern Oregon points.

The plan of the neighboring city was referred to the directorate of the local chamber. It was stated that The Dalles will secure local support unless Hood River shows an ambition for the school. So far as known, no active plans have been announced here for seeking the new normal school.

GORMAN TO FIGHT GRAHAM SATURDAY

The fourth of a series of smokers being staged this winter by the Sperry Flour Co. will occur at the Pythian temple next Saturday night when a 10-round bout between "Nails" Gorman, of Oak Grove, and Lou Graham, of Chehalis, Wash., will be the main event. The winner will be seen in a fight in Portland November 23. Gorman, who has fought two winning fights and one draw here this season, weighs 175 pounds. Graham tips the scales at 170 pounds. In the semi-final, six-round bout Kid Roberts, of Pendleton, 150 pounds, will meet Jack Brown, of Enterprise, 150 pounds. Roberts is known to local fans, having met Lambert, of Millam, in a draw on October 23. Brown knocked out "Speck" Woods in his last fight. The winner of this bout will meet Young Rogers, of Dee, at a later date.

Kid Isom, of Vancouver, Wash., will meet Pete Kanto in a 4-round curtain-raiser. Isom weighs 125 pounds and Kanto 122.

A 6-round bout will be staged between George Woolley, of White Salmon, and Soldier Kelly, of Odell.

WRESTLING MATCHES AT RIALTO TONIGHT

Two finish wrestling matches, Arthur La Chapelle against Jack Kraiz and Ted Brown against George Lester, will be staged tonight at the Rialto theatre. La Chapelle, wiry French woodcutter, who was former claimant to the Canadian championship for his weight, tips the scales at 140 pounds. Kraiz, a 144-pounder, comes from Los Angeles. The lithe Frenchman has met a number of contenders here this season, and to date remains undefeated. Ted Brown, a Walla Walla home crusher, weighs 147 pounds. Lester, who is a boxer as well as a mat artist, is a new contender for welterweight honors. A 30-minute preliminary will be staged between Dutch Van Bariccom, local youth, and Young Brown, of Parkdale.

Jack Routledge will referee.

PIGEON MAKES FAST FLIGHT TO PORTLAND

At 11 a. m. Saturday a carrier pigeon, "Princess Wheat Hearts," one of the pigeons released by Queen Marie at Maryhill, Wash., and which carried the responsibility for setting the time which determined the winners of the guessing contest held by the Hood River Bakery, bakers of Butter Crust bread, was released to fly to Portland. The pigeon released here from the loft of the Sperry Flour Co. at Portland and were timed from release to arrival at the Sperry mill.

It was first announced that "Princess Drifted Snow" would be exhibited but here, slow recovery from gunshot wounds received in the flight when she was released by Queen Marie of Roumania at Maryhill did not permit her removal from the loft.

Ray Willis, proprietor of the Hood River Bakery, conceived the idea of bringing the pigeons to Hood River where they have been on exhibition Friday and Saturday. The time consumed in flight was 104 minutes and 12 seconds. The winners of the contest were as follows: First prize, Bob Fuller, Hood River, time 104 minutes, 15 seconds; 2nd prize, June Yoder, Hood River, time 1, 04 minutes, 54 seconds. The third prize, 105 minutes, was tied as follows: Bonnie Wehshamer, Hood River; Charles Hull, Bonge J. Hood River; Dorothy McCoy, Odell; Mrs. Henry Warnock, 924 State street; Leslie Aubert, Mt. Hood; G. O. Dickey, Odell; Merl Hanna, Mt. Hood; Clifford Volstorff, Hood River; Mrs. W. E. Stocker, Rt. 1, Parkdale, and Mrs. C. A. Rogers, Mt. Hood. Fourth prize, 105 min. 10 sec., Geo. Miller, Hood River; 5th prize, tied, 105 min. 15 sec., Thelma Patton and Jimmie Patton, 303 Sherman avenue; 6th prize, 105 min. 20 sec., Mrs. L. H. Rose, Parkdale; 7th prize, tied, 105 min., Mrs. R. M. Hanna, Parkdale, and P. K. Mell, Hood River; 8th prize, 105 min. 10 sec., Catherine Kelly, 1029 State street; 9th prize, 105 min. 12 sec., Warren Kerrigan, Hood River; 10th prize, 102 min., Geo. McCreary, Hood River; 11th prize, 107 min., Y. E. Truss, Hood River; 12th prize, 107 min. 3 sec., Joe McRae, Hood River.

The guesses were checked by A. A. Carlson and C. F. Bulger, of the Sperry Flour Co.

WOUNDED CARRIER FOUND AT BINGEN

A strange happening which reads like fiction just came to pass near this vicinity. At the time Queen Marie visited Maryhill she released a number of homing pigeons with messages for coast cities. During the flight a careless hunter shot into the flock of carriers and wounded Princess Drifted Snow. This brave bird though badly wounded, came into the Portland loft, but two of Princess Drifted Snow's companions failed to "home," and the pigeon man at Sperry Flour Co. gave the birds up as lost.

Now comes the strange part of the story. Corliss Bulger, the Sperry cartoonist, was giving a lecture on homing pigeons at White Salmon and after the lecture a little boy came up on the platform and said, "My papa has a pigeon that was shot in the wing." According to the story which is true, O. V. Lemby, of Bingen, Wash., was coming home to dinner on the day of the Maryhill flight when he heard a gun shot, and upon looking up at the side hill saw a number of pigeons and noticed one bird swoop and begin tumbling toward the ground near railroad track. Mr. Lemby rushed up hurriedly and picked up the pigeon just in time for the freight train to pass. He took the bird home where his little son and family gave the little wounded messenger tender care and now the bird is back among its companions at the Sperry Flour Co.'s mill in Portland.

The act of O. V. Lemby is one to be commended. Humanitarians and lovers of birds can but honor Mr. Lemby and his family for this act of kindness.

COUNCIL ORDERS SURVEY FOR SEWER

The action of the city council Monday night in ordering a survey made for Sewer District No. 3, which will cover a large area at the west edge of the city, running from Thirteenth street west to the city limits and north from the Belmont road to the O.-W. R. & N. right of way, presages an early development of new residential districts on Paradise acreage and other lands at the west side of town. The new city high school, a concrete and brick structure, which will cost around $175,000, will be served by the new district.

The council announced that a right of way had been secured for the widening of May street, which will be the main thoroughfare from the city to the new high school.

The council accepted concrete paving laid in two sections on State street, which now gives three paved thoroughfares for Columbia River highway traffic through town. An ordinance providing for bond issues to finance the paving was initiated.

BLUEBIRD PEARL CONTEST IS NEAR

It is anticipated that interest will be keen next week, when a contest, which will call for all of the knowledge local folk have about pearls, will be launched at the Laraway jewelry store. Ninety-nine Bluebird imitation pearls and one genuine pearl will be placed on exhibition. To win the first award, which will be a $50 Bluebird pearl necklace, one must pick out the genuine pearl and write a short dissertation on methods of telling genuine pearls from Bluebirds.

The contest will open on Friday, November 26. It will close at 10 a. m., December 4. Everyone will be entitled to an effort at naming the real pearl. No charge will be made for this participation.

The unique advertising method was introduced a few months ago by the Bluebird Manufacturing company, and as the Laraway store is one of the largest in Oregon, it was one of the first Pacific Northwestern stores to be selected for the contest. W. F. Laraway declares that the Bluebirds are the best imitation pearls on the market, and the unique method is being utilized to carry to the public their real worth.

Judges for the contest will be announced in next week's Glacier. Three prominent people of the city will be selected to pick the winner.

FUNERAL FOR MRS.
HINRICHS TOMORROW

Mrs. Eliza Ellen Hinrichs, 81 and native of Indiana, died at the Hood River hospital Tuesday night. Mrs. Hinrichs and her late husband, pioneer cabinetmaker, landowner and capitalist, came to Hood River Valley 50 years ago. Her husband was prominent in business activities and was one of the founders of the First National Bank. Funeral services will be held at the Anderson chapel Friday, tomorrow, afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Frank Spaulding, retired pioneer Methodist minister, officiating. Interment will follow at Idlewild cemetery.

MORE PEOPLE STATE'S IDEAL

CAPITAL WILL FOLLOW PORTLAND

Geo. E. Goodwin, Ex-Chief Engineer for National Park Service, addresses Forum

One of Oregon's greatest needs, according to Geo. E. Goodwin, former Portland resident and chief engineer for the national park service of the Department of the Interior, is for a greater population. Mr. Goodwin, who Tuesday delivered an analytic and prophetic address to the members of the Tuesday forum of the chamber of commerce at the Waukena hotel, began his speech by declaring it his opinion that Bruce Dennis, recent speaker before the local forum was in error when he declared Oregon needed capital more than people.

Mr. Goodwin cited Los Angeles as an example of a place where population has been followed by industry and capital. The two will always follow the settlement of cities, Mr. Goodwin said. Mr. Goodwin, who came here over a year ago to make his home on an East Barrett orchard place, recalled a trip he made before settling in the valley up and down the Pacific coast. He visited most of the automobile camps, he said, between the Canadian and Mexican borders, and he declared he had never seen a park more beautifully located than that of Hood River. He declared the people of Hood River have an opportunity to give the tourist a favorable impression with this contact through the automobile camp. He urged the inauguration of a survey that would provide motion picture reels each evening, the pictures showing the community in all its phases, recreational, industrial and scenic. At the end of the reel would be the statement that the Hood River valley offers a location for happy homes among scenes of beauty and a people of culture and prosperity.

Mr. Goodwin said he believed features of recreation should be provided for the motor tourist guest. He suggested a dancing pavilion. He said that great majority of the motor travelers are potential home owners, and that the unshaven man in a rusty Ford might be a respected citizen in his home community. Mr. Goodwin said it was his belief that 20 per cent of all the motor tourists are desirable as prospective residents of a progressive community, notwithstanding the exaggerated stories of the automobile epidemic of today.

Mr. Goodwin said Hood River impressed every motor tourist as a city of conservative progress. He cited the impressive business section and the scenic beauty of the region as reasons for his belief. He warned Hood River merchants against charging a price in excess of prices charged by Portland business houses.

Visitors Tuesday included Mrs. A. L. Anderson and J. K. Anderson, contractor who is constructing the new city high school building.

MRS. KELLY'S MOTHER PASSES IN PORTLAND

Funeral services were held at the chapel of Trinity Episcopal church, Portland, Monday afternoon for Mrs. Ida K. Barker, 70, whose death occurred last Friday night at the Good Samaritan hospital, Portland. Rev. A. A. Morrison, pastor of the church, officiated. Committal services were held at the Portland crematorium.

Mrs. Barker, who came to Oregon from Madison, Wis., some 20 years ago, had made her home here for several years with her only daughter, Mrs. Fielding S. Kelly, and family. Mrs. Barker was well known to students of the University of Oregon and the Oregon Agricultural College. She was formerly homemaker for the Alpha Phi sorority at the University of Oregon. At the Oregon Agricultural College later she was homemaker at the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

A number of local folk motored to Portland for the funeral services.

23D FIREMAN'S BALL OCCURS NEXT WEEK

The 23rd annual ball of the Hood River Fire department will be held at Pythian hall next Thursday evening, Thanksgiving night. The advance sale tickets indicates that again the firemen will entertain a capacity attendance at their yearly hop. Members of committees are arranging to have the big hall appropriately decorated, and the dance will be a fitting climax for turkey day.

Cole McElroy's famous orchestra will be here from Portland to play for the fireman's ball.

Hood River Has Queen

The Valley of Apples is the home of a member of the royal family now receiving wide acclaim. It is "Hood River Queen," one of the pen of five Rhode Island Red hens from the Odell ranch of Ralph R. Lewis. She has just made an official record at Puyallup, Wash., for 312 eggs in 305 days, the largest number of eggs ever laid on the Pacific coast by a hen of heavy breed.

Mr. Lewis' pen took second place with 1100 eggs for the year's contest.

Budget Meeting Yesterday

The county court and members of the budget board met at the court house yesterday and arranged the tentative budget for the coming year. The final budget will be adopted at a meeting in December.
