"Diligence is the Mother of Good Luck"—

And diligence works to best advantage through a savings account that grows steadily through deposits at regular intervals, no matter how small the deposit may be.

It's the regularity more than the size that counts in the long run in building up a reserve—Try it—and watch your savings account grow, helped by the interest which we pay.

ANNUAL CHAMBER MEET TUESDAY

BANQUET TO BE HELD AT MT. HOOD

W. P. La Roche, of Portland, Will Deliver Chief Address—New Directors Will Be Elected

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Hood River Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Mt. Hood hotel next Tuesday evening, January 25, at 6.30. The principal speaker of the evening will be W. P. La Roche, prominent Portland attorney, who is active in Chamber of Commerce work in that city. Mr. La Roche has kindly consented to deliver the annual address, at the request of W. D. B. Dodson, manager of the Portland chamber, who was asked by the local board of directors to procure a speaker for the occasion.

At a meeting of the local board held last Tuesday, it was the unanimous opinion of the board that wives and friends of chamber members would be invited to attend the annual banquet this year. This is a departure from former procedure, but the board felt that the ladies should have this opportunity to become better acquainted with the work of the chamber.

The banquet, which will be held in the basement dining room of the Mt. Hood hotel, will be furnished by the ladies of St. Mary's church, and those who were fortunate enough to attend some of the meals served at their annual banquets some time ago, will agree that they have set a high standard of banquets. The plan is to have a chicken dinner, as a cost of $1 per plate.

Of course, all members of the Chamber of Commerce are invited and urged to be present at this meeting, and to bring their ladies; and also other business men of the city and valley who are interested in the work of the chamber.

At the meeting it will also be held the election of directors to fill the vacancies caused by the completion of the two-year terms of R. E. Scott, Leroy Childs, and H. L. Shoemaker. The present board of directors, acting as a nominating committee, as provided in the by-laws of the chamber, have nominated the following members to fill the vacancies: R. L. Bartol, B. E. Cobb, E. C. Smith, N. H. MacKillop, E. C. Samuel, L. A. Bennett, Leroy Childs, R. E. Scott, and H. L. Shoemaker, of which the membership will elect three.

From the three elected, and the four hold-over members of the board, F. S. Keesle, C. H. Vaughan, H. O. Keenan, and F. A. Olmsted, will be elected the president and vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce for 1927. The present officers are A. F. S. Steele, president; R. E. Scott, vice-president, and C. H. Vaughan, treasurer.

The annual report of the president and secretary, together with the budget and program of work adopted for 1927, will be presented to the membership in this week's edition of the chamber house organ, "Apple City Progress." The program and budget were adopted by the board at its meeting last Tuesday.

Those who expect to attend the annual meeting next Tuesday evening are asked to make reservations at the chamber office, telephone 1741 in order that it will be known how many expect to attend.

MRS. MCKERCHER'S FATHER EULOGIZED

Frank J. Snow, deputy United States marshal of Portland and father of Mrs. Paul Mckercher, whose death occurred in Portland last Thursday, was highly eulogized by Portland newspaper folk. David W. Hazen said in the Portland Telegram:

With the passing of Frank J. Snow, one of the most lovable characters in Oregon's public life ended an active career.

Had Frank Snow been a talkative man, he could have furnished plots for a thousand short stories, for he was college bred, a student who read five or six languages, an able seaman in days when sailors were sailors, a longshoreman, a railroad bridge carpenter, a policeman and detective, a farmer and a deputy United States marshal.

All these activities were crowded into a life that was little more than three score years old. Snow was born in the Bavarian Highlands July 23, 1857.

His father was a railroad man but intended his son Frank to enter the professions. The lad graduated from the Munich high school, which then would compare with an American college course, and then went to the university for three years.

But the youngster was born with a wanderlust. At school he studied languages because he expected to have use for them in foreign lands. At 19 he ran away from home and joined a three masted bark as ordinary seaman. The first passage was to South America ports, and the new sailor enjoyed the cruise.

He became a good sailor, and was soon rated as an A. B. (able seaman). His last cruise on a "deep water packet" was before the mast on the British ship Thirlmere from London to Sydney and from Australia to San Francisco.

"At Frisco I took a pier head jump 'cause I wanted to stick on this coast," Snow told a friend not long ago. This was in 1881.

At the Golden Gate he signed on the American steamer Idaho for a trip to Alaska. He cruised about in Alaskan waters and along the North coast until 1884, when he decided to locate in Portland.

A short time afterward he was put on the police force, and his commission as a patrolman dated from July 26, 1889. He was off the force a few short intermissions on account of political changes, but was a member of the force here almost continually until July 31, 1919, when he retired to try fruit farming.

Most of his police work was as a plain clothes man, later a detective. His first partner was Jack Kerrigan. The term "Kerrigan and Snow" became the best-known expression in police circles here. Kerrigan, a big-

Work of Traffic Association Told

The following news Tuesday at the weekly luncheon of the board of the chamber of commerce, told of the accomplishments of the Hood River Traffic Association.

Mr. Dexter told of the cessation of work of the traffic association in securing a reduction in freight rates. The rate on the Mt. Hood line on shipments destined to move over the line of the Union Pacific system have been absorbed.

On appeal of the traffic association, the S. P. line, an increase of 10% cents per hundred on shipments to California was denied. Pear rates were cut 7 1/2 cents, and the association is now participating in a fight to secure a $1 rate instead of $1.50 change on transcontinental apple shipments.

Mr. Kelly told of the labors of the traffic body in an effort to secure a standard grade rule which will enable the grower to better handle his tonnage and secure better returns.
