

Are You Willing To Help Build Hood River County Industry?

You can do so by patronizing those dealers who distribute Hood River products.

The Hood River Creamery is one of your home institutions that is vitally interested in the welfare of the community and is contributing directly to the prosperity of Hood River county by supplying a ready market for the dairy products of the county, by paying taxes, and increasing Hood River's payroll.

In appreciation of the superior quality of Oregold products and the service rendered the following ice cream dealers of the county have given us their undivided support and are in turn entitled to your patronage.

Pottery Improvement Soon Complete
The improvement being conducted at the Oak street store of the J. C. Penney Co., will be complete in about two weeks and the store will then have a front that will compare favorably with that of any large metropolitan place of business. The top front brick wall of the store was removed in order to permit the installation of steel girders. These are now in place. Work is being delayed slightly because of failure in delivery of mill work.

H. L. Hasbrouck, optometrist.

Gorge Opening Welcomed
Local folk will welcome the opening of the Columbia Gorge hotel this year. J. Fred Adams, new manager of the tourist hotel, which, it was planned, to have open for the season last Saturday, will find many applications for reservations on his arrival today. Numerous organizations and clubs are planning functions at the hotel. The junior promenade of the Hood River high school will be held there at an early date.
One of the largest functions being planned by local folk will be the inst-tution of the Hood River Rotary club, the charter of which is expected soon. Portland Rotarians and members of the service club from various parts of Oregon and Washington will be here for this event.

Blackhouse Dedication Postponed
Because of adverse weather conditions, dedication of a reconstructed blackhouse near Stevenson, Wash., will be postponed until May 30, according to D. A. Brown, historian of the Skamania County Historical association. The floor and lower story of the old blackhouse, a replica of old Fort Bala, which played an important part in pioneer days when Indians attacked settlers around the Cascades, have been completed.

The grounds of the old blackhouse will be enclosed with a stake and rider fence.
None who saw the valley's talent at Rockford Grange plays in former years has forgotten them. Join these April 28 and see "Mrs. Temple's Telegram."

ROCKFORD PLAYERS WILL SHINE SOON

The Rockford Grange has won note throughout the mid-Columbia for the excellence of home talent plays given the past several years. Their vehicle this year will be, "Mrs. Temple's Telegram," billed for the Grange hall on the evening of April 28.

"O, what a tangled net we weave when first we practice to deceive," said Sir Walter Scott.

If you would laugh, and you know a good laugh is worth barrels of gold, come and see Fanny Hanabian (who was such a charming Eva in Adam and Eva) as the jealous wife. Green-eyed, does not describe it.

Viola Colvin portrays the part of Mrs. Temple's sister, Dorothy, to perfection. She is very much in love with Captain Sharpe, but keeps him guessing with a capital "G." But who wouldn't dangle a bit? O, boy! the reward he gets in the third act. Lucky Captain Sharpe!

Mrs. George Coe, our well known character actress, takes the part of a cockney Englishwoman. She is sure in her "F." Mrs. Coe needs no introduction. You all remember her as the mummy in "Come Out of the Kitchen."

Jesse Manley, of Hood River high school faculty, takes the part of Mr. Temple. This is Mr. Manley's first appearance in grange plays but he comes to us from foreign parts with a great "rep," having appeared before all the crowned heads, etc. Come and hear him lie to his wife.

Sam Petter takes the part of Fuller, Mr. Temple's great friend and partner in crime. It is not necessary to tell you of Sam; you saw him in "Adam and Eva" and "Come Out of the Kitchen." In the play he coaches Temple on how to deceive his wife.

Andy Walter takes the part of Capt. Sharpe (Lucky Captain Sharpe!) and portrays this part of the English captain as ably as he did Adam in "Adam and Eva" last year and that's going some!

Mr. Byars, principal of the Frankton school, has the part of Wigson, the butler, one of the chubbier little butlers you ever saw; in fact he is a font of information whether you want information or not.

Ned Barrett as the cockney Englishman, Brown, is amusing in his flirtation with Mrs. Temple.

Centennial exposition at Philadelphia and also the church from which she and her husband were sent as missionaries to Alaska many years ago. Mrs. Kilbuck has purchased the former Geo. Stanton home and Pine Grove is glad to have her as a permanent resident.

The school board and Mr. and Mrs. S. R. McDonald were guests of the school children last Thursday at their chicken dinner. Thanks are due the parents who so generously provided the chickens. Mrs. Walter Vannier, Miss Bernice McDonald and Mrs. F. H. Blackman assisted Mrs. Smallwood in preparing the lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. DeMuth, of Pasco, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Lage last week.

A large attendance is asked for the P. T. A. meeting Friday evening. Mr. Crites will tell us about the recent educational laws and music will be furnished by George Smith.

Miss Birch spent Monday at school weighing, measuring, and testing eyes. She was assisted by Mrs. Yoder, Mrs. Albee, Mrs. H. L. Bickford, and Mrs. A. C. Bickford.

Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Laraway and son spent Sunday in The Dalles with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hays.

Will McGill died at his home in Grants Pass Tuesday evening. Funeral services will be held at Pine Grove the latter part of this week.

Leona Vickers returned to her home in Salem Sunday.

Mr. Calavan, representing the state superintendent, was at Pine Grove Wednesday afternoon inspecting club work.

At the Pine Grove church, beginning Thursday evening, Rev. R. Sumnerlin will be the preacher. He is a good Come and help to enlarge the spiritual life of this community.

A friend of many years standing, R. G. Sumnerlin, came with him.

Mrs. W. T. Price entertained some friends at a card party last Friday evening. Mrs. Price is hostess today for the Four Leaf Clover club.

Music Lovers' club meets this afternoon with Mrs. S. G. Osborn. Beethoven's life and music is the subject as this is the centenary of Beethoven's death.

Current Events club met with Mrs. W. Kinsley last week. Mrs. Downing read two letters from her daughter, Irene. Mrs. J. T. Downing is hostess for the next meeting.

Bruno Franz has purchased the Ratcliffe place to the south of his property. This was the old Morse home. Mr. and Mrs. Ratcliffe have purchased the Tufts place on Methodist Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Loomis' home was invaded last Thursday evening by a group of their church friends.

All the teachers of Barrett school went to Portland last week to visit other schools. They spent part of the day at the Russellville school, of which Mrs. Dunn is principal. They studied the platoon system in some of the schools of Portland in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Dalmer went to Oregon City Sunday to attend the funeral of C. E. Spence, former state grange master and until recently state market agent. Mr. Mason and Mrs. A. G. Wing accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Dalmer.

Mr. and Mrs. McAlister and son, Jack, of Goldendale, were visiting relatives in the valley. Master Jack remained to visit his cousins Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Yeck for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Davidson, of Portland, motored up Sunday and were guests at the J. R. Nunamaker home.

MOUNT HOOD
Mr. Sampson and family are moving to the Devin ranch at Robin Hood. Mrs. Harry Isell was a Hood River visitor one day last week.

PINE GROVE
The school play, "A Picnic in Storyland Forest," presented at the Grange hall Saturday evening was excellent. A charming stage setting, beautiful costumes and almost perfect rendition made it a success. Much credit is due the teachers and the 40 children for their splendid work.

BELMONT
Mr. and Mrs. Whitback, of La Crosse, Wis., who have been spending the winter in California, have been visiting their nephew, John Hutson, and family. Miss Esther Hutson, who is taking nurse's training at the Mt. Tabor hospital, Portland, has been at home for a few days.

Dr. Donald Nickelson, of Portland, came home to celebrate his birthday.
