Odell High School Notes

(By Bonnie Wehnelmer) Friday morning W. J. Herwig, secretary of the Oregon State Anti-Narcotic association, gave an interesting talk in the assembly concerning drugs and the deadly effect they have upon the human race.

Baseball practice has started in earnest now, and this year the baseball nine of O. H. S. promises to be a strong one.

The members of the student body and young people of the community who are interested in baseball wish to express their appreciation to the men who aided in the grading of the baseball diamond and also those who loaned machinery. If it were not for the hearty cooperation between the students and the people of Odell such athletic equipment would not be available.

The tennis courts are in use at practically every opportunity when time is available. We are glad that the members of the club are also making good use of them.

Don't forget to keep the date of April 22 open as that is the date of the Orange O play, "Brown, Brown, and Brown," and it is going to be great.

Ingalls; Buster Brown, a vocation junior, Arvo Annala; Betty Gardner, the professor's ward, Linda Udelius; Aunt Minerva, his housekeeper, Bonnie Wehnelmer; Petunia Muggins, the hired girl, Polly Cameron; Olga Slogskel, the new dancing teacher, Opal Ray; Kitty Clover, a collector of souvenirs, Irma Bowerman; Vivian Drew, a college belle, Hilda Turner; and Caroline Kay, a happy little frosh, Florence Gerrish.

Odell Grade School

(By Daryl Green) The pupils of the advanced grades of the Odell grade school have been selling subscriptions for the Curtis Publishing Co. to earn money for school equipment. The four grades were divided into three teams; Pirates, Buccaneers, and Sea Dogs. The Sea Dogs won by a single subscription, the Buccaneers running a close second. The two losing teams are to give the winning team a party which will be a "Deep Sea Revel."

George Annala was chosen as business manager, Vera McCoy as sales manager of the Pirates, Agnes Kollas as sales manager of the Buccaneers, and Daryl Green as sales manager of the Sea Dogs.

The three teams sold subscriptions amounting to $75. Of this, $33 is for the school.

FULL VALUE

Growers of apples want full value for their crops. Value is determined by supply and demand.

To secure full value intensive specialized sales service is needed. Every market must be worked every day by resident salesmen whose interests lie in pushing BOXED APPLES.

These men must be directed and stimulated by their sales manager at this end of the line. His every resource of knowledge and experience is called upon at times to overcome sales resistance in converting apples into cash at profitable prices. It can be done--it's all in knowing how.

But it takes years of experience and thousands of transactions to acquire that knowledge. This is beyond the possibilities of the individual grower, few of whom are qualified by inclination, knowledge or experience to sell successfully the apples they raise to perfection.

The need then is for an organization that specializes in marketing--better still one that emphasizes the sale of BOXED APPLES. That is our business. We can help you THIS year.
