"APPLESAUCE" TO BE GIVEN
Broadway Success Adds Word to American Language.

Another page of Puget Sound history was completed Friday when the 1927 Tumawawas was distributed. This year's annual compares very favorably with those of other years, and is the result of conscientious work on the part of Torrey Smith, the business manager, and Preston Wright, the editor, assisted by the other members of the staff.

Although all yearbooks are somewhat alike, there is ample opportunity for the personalities of the members of the staff to be seen in the arrangements of the material. The 1927 book is dedicated to Alexander B. Brooke, a true friend of Puget Sound as well as a student, who has returned for 17 years each winter to study when the work on his Hood River ranch is least pressing. The Tumawawas this year is bound in leather, with Mount Tacoma and a Spanish galleon embossed in gold on the cover.

The Service Contest which was started by last year's staff was conducted again this year, and resulted in the selection of William Longestrah and Harold Huseby as the students of the senior class who have done the most for Puget Sound.

The book is well-balanced in that no part of college life is over-emphasized, but all activities are represented in an interesting manner, and it should be a welcome addition to every student's library.

Mr. Brooke has just received a letter from the editor of "The Trail" who announces that the annual has been entered in a national contest. The editor also states that he is writing a history of the life of Mr. Brooke for an eastern magazine.

Farmers News
(Seymour Jones, state market agent, State House, Salem)

Prune growers and packers came together in Portland on Monday of last week to further perfect plans of organization and policy following the meeting at Corvallis the previous week. The governing committee of nine, announced by Kenneth Miller, chairman of the organization committee, consists of W. H. Wood, manager of Washington Growers Packing Corporation of Vancouver, and M. J. Newhouse, manager of the N. P. Co-operative Prune Exchange of Salem, representing the existing cooperatives; Rush Clark, of Oakland, Or., and R. L. Ecklidge of Sheridan, representing the growers; H. W. Brown, Lebanon, of the Roseburg Co.; W. J. Fisher, connected with the California Packing Co. at Salem; Chas. Dick, of Mason-Ehrman Co., Portland, and Fred Drager, of the Drager Fruit Co., Salem, the ninth and disinterested member. The committee will be assisted by the following advisory committee: E. H. Kipp, of the marketing department of Portland chamber of commerce; C. J. Hurd, marketing specialist of O. A. C., and Seymour Jones, state market agent.

Agricultural organizations are urging upon President Coolidge an additional appropriation of $5,000,000 to carry on a research aimed at the discovery and development of new and improved varieties of grains, fruits and plants, the conservation of soils and the better adaptation of the products of the farm to the needs of the consumer.

Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange, recently spoke the following great truth: "The world must have food. Civilization, progress, industrial development, concentration of population and world wealth cannot possibly find a substitute for the farmer. This being true, the agriculture of tomorrow must be guided by intelligence and brain power; both co-ordinated and directed so wisely that it will reach the maximum of efficiency. Consequently, organizations like the granges have a constantly increasing field of activity in the years ahead."

Some suggestive slogans for producers: "In the hands of a friend from beginning to end" is the cooperative marketing slogan that won first prize in a recent competition by the National Livestock Producers' association, Chicago. The second comer was "The coop way brings more pay" and the third, "Ship them yourself and get all they bring."

The Oregon Farmer says: "Indicating possibilities of barrelled prunes, 1300 barrels of this fruit were sold last year in England with such satisfaction that the order has been repeated."

A New York dispatch of June 5 says: The New York fruit trade is optimistic about the market outlook for this coming season and predicts a somewhat higher price level than for the past two seasons. Drought in the South Atlantic states, floods in the Mississippi valley, frosts in the Pacific states have reduced the fruit crop materially, but will have a helpful effect on values, according to trade opinion.

SCREEN AND STAGE

About three months ago the Rialto presented at a private preview one of the greatest pictures the screen has ever known. "The Fire Brigade" is the audience at that time were John Volstead, L. G. Morgan, Herman Keenan, E. E. Goodrich, R. B. Parlog, A. C. Lotts Jr., E. B. Binn, Oris Lee, Jos. Wendling, Larry Boyd, L. G. Daniels and several others interested in the Hood River Volunteer Fire Department. The picture was shown to them in what is known as a "cold house", that is, no music or anything to put the show over and yet every man present was thrilled by the greatest fire scene ever shown on the screen. The picture is not in any sense a department propaganda but as everything is so realistically portrayed by an excellent cast the fire chiefs in convention endorsed it as the greatest fire film ever made. Charles Ray and May McAvoy head a brilliant cast of hundreds of real firemen participate in the play and thrills and suspense are paramount all thru the action of the picture. Scenes showing the young fire recruits going thru tests in order to get in the department are really wonderful and when the crashing climax, the burning of the supposedly fire-proof orphanage, comes on the screen, patrons of the Rialto will get thrills that they have never experienced before in the movies. "The Fire Brigade" is actually the greatest fire picture ever made. Ask any of the Hood River men who previewed it and they are all unanimous in speaking of it as the greatest thing of its kind ever made. "The Fire Brigade" for 35c. All fire departments share in the profits made from the picture and the show is put on at 50c price set by the New York office of its makers. Merchants' tickets will also not be honored on "The Fire Brigade" run. The "Fire Brigade" will be the talk of the town and valley Wednesday morning. In order to give every one a chance to see the picture a special matinee will be held on the opening day, Tuesday, June 21st.

Monday night's vaudeville was one of the best bills to date at the Rialto. The kick of the bill was two dancing and singing "sisters" who on the closing of their act removed a pair of wings and stood revealed as two brothers. The audience got quite a thrill out of this act in particular. The show as a whole was a very well balanced bill. Patronage at the start was satisfactory but the support given the vaudeville the last two weeks does not justify bringing it to Hood River. The Rialto has decided to make Monday, June 20, the day when they will decide whether Hood River wants to continue the vaudeville or not. If vaudeville is to be continued here in Hood River the patronage must be noticeably increased over the last two weeks, according to the Rialto management. Hood River is the smallest town on the acts play and only business on a par or better with the two opening weeks will allow their continuing to play here. If patrons of the past vaudeville have enjoyed the show and want them continued every Monday the box office reports of Monday, June 20, will make their decision known.

"Blind Alleys." Thomas Meighan's latest Paramount production, which will be at the Rialto theatre Friday and Saturday, is an exciting melodrama of two people who become separated on the first night of their honeymoon. All sorts of thrills, including a second woman, enter into it before the final fadeout. Evelyn Brent and Greta Nissen are featured. Frank Tuttle was at the megaphone.

This year in the movies seems to be a triumph for directors. New directors have scored many big hits with their first efforts and risen immediately to important positions. One of the best examples of this is the case of Melville Brown, former scenarist, who scored heavily with his first production. It was "Universal picture, 'Her Big Night', and his work on it was so excellent that he was given a long-term contract. His second effort, "Taxi Taxi" comes to the Rialto theatre Sunday. Edward Everett Morton and Marian Nixon play the featured roles.

Modern dance at Rockford Friday night.

Six Boys Going to Camp

Hood River county will be represented at the 1927 Citizens' Military Training Camp at Vancouver Barracks, Wash., by six boys who will report to camp tomorrow for a month's training and recreation. These boys are: James E. Carson, Herbert F. Francis, Sidney E. Whorlow, of Hood River; Sheldon E. Laurance and Charles Steinhauer, Jr., of Parkdale; and Walter H. Buhl, of Wyeth.

The C. M. T. C. camps are conducted by the government under provisions of the National Defense Act and aim to develop citizenship, Americanism, physical fitness and a sense of responsibility and duty of citizenship in the young men attending.

The purpose of the camps is not to make soldiers of the boys attending, for this could not be done in the brief 30-day period, if it were desired, and attendance does not bind the student in any way.

Athletics under the supervision of ex-college athletes, trips to the beach and nearby places of interest, military training and general outdoor recreation will be the summer's program at the camp. Vancouver Barracks is the camp center for the state of Oregon and the southern counties of Washington.

FAMOUS SONG-HIT PARTNERS COMING
Clay Smith and G. E. Holmes on Chautauqua Program.

In keeping with the established policy of the Ellison-White Chautauqua System to bring to the great western circuit the most notable attractions that can be found, this season they have secured the Smith-Spring-Holmes Orchestral Quintette, which in all probability is the best known platform musical organization in the country.

It is led by Clay Smith and G. E. Holmes, who have been in partnership for twenty-six years. Sixteen years after they formed their own partnership, they married sisters and the two partners and their two wives have become known from coast to coast in concert and musical circles.

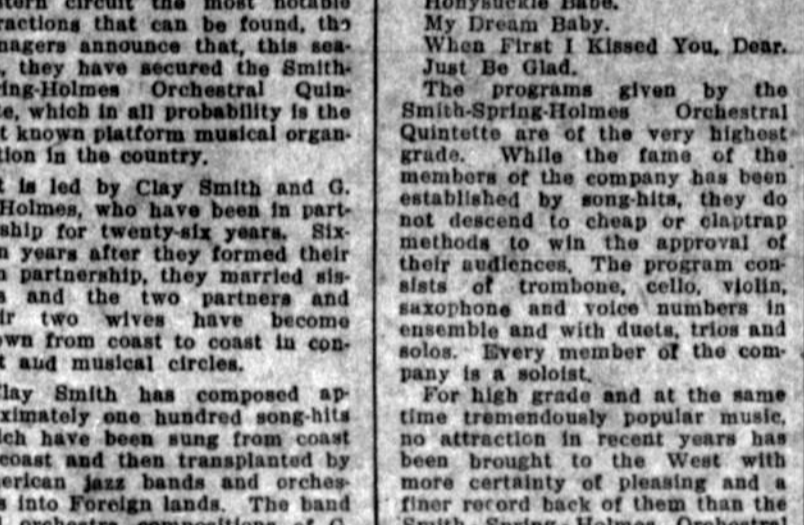

Clay Smith has composed approximately one hundred song-hits which have been sung from coast to coast and then transplanted by American jazz bands and orchestras into foreign lands. The band and orchestra compositions of G. E. Holmes are in use by nearly every band in the country.

Some of Mr. Smith's songs are: Sorter Miss You, Honyuckle Babe, My Dream Baby, When First I Kissed You, Dear, Just Be Glad.

The programs given by the Smith-Spring-Holmes Orchestral Quintette are of the very highest grade. While the fame of the members of the company has been established by song-hits, they do not descend to cheap or claptrap methods to win the approval of their audiences. The program consists of vocal solos, violin, saxophone and voice numbers in ensemble and with duets, trios and solos. Every member of the company is a soloist.

For high grade and at the same time transplanted popular music, no attraction in recent years has been brought to the West with more certainty of pleasing and a finer record back of them than the Smith-Spring-Holmes Orchestral Quintette.

TOM-TOMS BEAT AT CHAUTAUQUA
World Famous Indian Organization Coming

The beating of tom-toms, the barbaric rhythm of the war dance, the waving of feathered war bonnets, the plaintive minor chords of Indian love songs, and the mysterious melodies of Indian music handed down from father to son through centuries of life in the forests and on the prairies, will all be features of this year's Chautauqua program.

The 1927 Chautauqua, which begins shortly, has a dazzling array of unusual attractions to offer, but none of them probably of quite such universal interest as the Haskell Indian Band.

This organization is the most famous all Indian musical organization in America. It is composed of young men from the great school maintained by the United States Government at Lawrence, Kansas. Each member of the band represents a different tribe. At most every one of them comes from a different state. The tribes represented are Pottawatomies in Kansas, Ojibwa from Wisconsin, Zuni in New Mexico, Kyska in Alaska, Nesperce in Idaho, Hopi in Arizona, Ute tribe in Utah, Sioux in Montana, and Seneca in Oklahoma.

The program given by this band includes not only the Indian music and customs, but also brings a whirlwind combination of popular classics, violin, piano and vocal numbers, cornet and saxophone solos and novelty numbers such as playing on saws, etc. There are duets, quartettes, saxophone sextettes and many other unusual types of musical arrangements.

Part of the program is given in native costume, while another part of it is given in American costume. The whole program is arranged with an idea of showing the Indian customs and giving the Indians music and giving the Indians music as it is played by the best of American orchestras.

These native Americans are at home either in feathers and war paint or in dress suits. They are all clean, outstanding young athletes who are a wonderful example of what education and musical training can accomplish.
