A LOTTERY WITHOUT A WINNER

By W. R. MOREHOUSE
Public Relations Commission, American Bankers Association

(There is presented herewith the first of a series of articles exposing the wiles of sharpers who are after your money.)

ALMOST unbelievable amounts are lost to the American people annually from unwise ventures. This loss, estimated at nearly one billion dollars a year, is accounted for when you take into consideration that practically all of the money "invested" in numerous fake schemes and half-baked projects is forfeited by the investors. In presenting this series of articles regarding sharp practices and various kinds of swindles we hope to prevent thousands of people from falling into the traps already set for them by irresponsible and unscrupulous promoters.

Through the use of only actual cases selected from several thousand, it is hoped to prove conclusively the futility of taking a "gambler's chance" with your savings, for as in a lottery without a winner you are bound to lose. Much of the material here used has been supplied by the Better Business Bureau throughout the United States which are non-profit organizations serving the investor without charge and acting wholly in the public interest. Read these cases and then file them away for future reference, for sooner or later you may find yourself on the verge of "taking a leap in the dark,"—of speculating with your savings as the people here told about were inveigled into doing.

A "good front" has put over more crooked deals than any other one thing. Every irresponsible promoter specializes in putting on a "good front" in his dealings with those whom he fleeces out of their savings. Whether or not he is successful is due to a large degree on how good a front he is able to put on. In motion pictures, the sets, or "props" as they are called, supply the setting for the scenes. They are used to portray things that seem large, things that seem grand and beautiful. Peer behind those sets and what do you see there? You see that the attractive fronts are supported by braces made of the cheapest, knottiest and poorest timber imaginable.

They serve their purpose in the world of make-believe, but in real life you cannot afford to buy

CHERRY FOLK SEEK A HIGHER TARIFF

Briefs in support of and in opposition to the petition of Pacific coast cherry growers for an increase of 50 per cent in the tariff rate on Italian cherries were filed in Washington, D. C., with the tariff commission.

Backing up its request for the maximum increase allowed by law, the growers contended that the domestic cherry "fulfills the requirements for and is an actual and potential competitor with imported cherries for all marketing purposes."

They asserted that price barriers are now withholding from the domestic growers domestic markets in which they should be entitled to compete. The National Producers' association, representing 25 western manufacturers of maraschino type cherries, opposing the increase, charged that the western growers were seeking to have the commission create an artificial market for their cherries, "so that the public and the trade will be forced to use the large and unstable western cherry despite the established demand for the Italian fruit."

It was obvious, the association brief declared, that the western growers could not supply the demand now existing, without devoting several years to the development of a cherry comparable in size and texture with the Italian.

The Hawaiian dancing girls added zest to the parade last Friday. The young gentlemen, Orrie Lee and H. E. Huchens of the Standard Oil Co., were well disguised and did their stuff well. Most of the people in the audience thought they were entertainers imported here from Portland for the occasion.

Howard Shoemaker returned Tuesday from The Dalles hospital and is making a good recovery from an operation for gonorrhea.
