On that day Mr. Morrison's mother, Mrs. Clara Phillips, received a message telling of the sudden death of her sister, Mrs. John Beaver, near Philadelphia. Mr. Morrison immediately motored with his mother to her home at Longview, Wn., whence she left for Philadelphia. Keltie Devin and family, who for several months made their home in Portland, have returned to the Mt. Hood district. Mr. Devin has again taken over the management of the Robin Hood grocery. He is engaged on many improvements. The entire place is being renovated, and Mr. Devin says he plans on furnishing Upper Valley folk with the best possible rural grocery service.

PROF. HENDERSON LEADS A PARTY

Portland Manages and members of the Audubon society have made an excursion to the open expanses above the Columbia gorge west of Mosier an annual event, according to Prof. J. P. Henderson, of the University of Oregon. Prof. Henderson, who led a party of 100 Sunday, stopped here for a short visit at his old home just west of the city. "The party this year was divided into groups," said Prof. Henderson, "some studying birds and others the profusion of wild flowers. Some took a long hike into the foothills. I suggested that next year we extend our trip to the Washington side of the Columbia. Some of the party, however, saw bands of sheep over there, and this somewhat dampened the ardor of a trip there, although wild flowers would be blooming much earlier on the north bank." Prof. Henderson, who is in charge of the state's herbarium, will visit several southern Oregon counties, collecting specimens the coming summer.

TUESDAY NIGHT FIRE HARD TO CONTROL

When fire from some undetermined source broke out Tuesday night about 2:30 a. m. at the home of A. Dougherty on East Sherman avenue, it had made considerable headway before an alarm was turned in. The fire apparently had been smoldering for some time, and the house was filled with a smoke so dense that firemen, who rallied quickly after the alarm was sounded, were forced to use gas masks. Two streams of water were necessary to extinguish the stubborn blaze. Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty and children escaped from the burning home without injury.

HYDRO-ELECTRICS (By A. J. Darby)

It gives me great pleasure, as they say on Main street, to announce that I have purchased the entire herd of kilowatts of the Oregon Lumber company, now being pastured at Leo, to be used in the carrying of stable bedding, ground, branding iron, etc., and other appliances used in the propagation of this elusive little creature. These kilowatts are what are scientifically known as kilowatt intelligible or kilowatt vulgaris, or, as they are called by the common people without respect to age, sex and every one's thoroughbred to the last. The kilowatt municipals has many interesting characteristics peculiar to itself, as distinguished from the more familiar species known as kilowatt Talbotite in this territory. The kilowatt municipals is altogether hardy in this latitude, contrary to the accepted notion, and is said to thrive in Ashland, Eugene, McMinnville, Tacoma, Seattle and other sections where it has been propagated commercially. Scientific kilowattists are now attempting to hybridize the kilowatt and cheapsness of the kilowatt municipals, but he is known to be a kilowatt intelligible or kilowatt vulgaris, and therefore can be used as a common people without respect to age, sex and every one's thoroughbred to the last. We are wire-breaking some four or five hundred of them at the Dees corral, and it is believed that with proper intelligent training they will perform to expectations.

HOOD RIVER GIRL WARNED FLOOD AREA

The Portland Journal is having some apparent difficulty in determining the step to take to side-step or to step on the hybridizing scheme, or merger, in Portland. My good friend, Oswald West, is not thus handicapped. I see the hope of the white race, Gov. Al Smith, and Senator Gerald P. Nye, sometime republican senator from the good state of North Dakota, where the plumbing is said to be improving, are at deadlock. You know Al West, Gerald has something to do with the Tea Pot, chairman, or publicity agent, or something of the kind. Gerald said Al smelled like crude petroleum. Al counters by saying to all intents and purposes, that Gerald was all wet and was born in the dark of the moon. In the case of the first impact Gerald admitted it, but was given a long count, and came back with, "He's your old man." Al is now giving Gerald a free correspondence course in etiquette, and telling him that the proper thing to do is to apologize. Al is an anti-kilowattier.

HOOD RIVER GIRL WARNED FLOOD AREA

Mrs. George Wilson, formerly Miss Helene Orla, who spent her girlhood here, was highly commended by officials of the telephone company of Los Angeles for her presence of mind during the time of the big dam disaster near the southern metropolis recently. Mrs. Wilson, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Moe, was on duty at the switchboard when the dam broke about 1 a. m. All of the lights in the telephone exchange building were extinguished. Mrs. Wilson had candles but could find no matches. She finally lighted a candle with paper, lighting the paper at a gas jet. Mrs. Wilson said that almost immediately following the break of the dam the switchboard became filled with the numerous calls coming in. As soon as she learned what had happened, she got in touch with officials of the telephone company and began immediately telephoning the warnings to people known to be living in the area below the dam. Residents as far down as Ventura were notified of the danger. A check-up, however, revealed that a great many of those warned failed to respond. They went out from their houses, looked around and seeing no flood approaching returned to bed. If the warnings had been heeded, a great many of those drowned would have saved themselves.

HOOD RIVER GIRL WARNED FLOOD AREA

Mr. and Mrs. Moe, who returned Monday afternoon from spending the winter in San Diego, passed over the flooded area at Satus. The party was allowed along the highway, however for two miles. Indeed, motorists, except they had permits from the Los Angeles county sheriff were not permitted to stop. The country was covered with debris, and the railway and highway bridges had been destroyed.

Fox Farm Contracts Barred An order to discontinue the sale of contracts for the purchase of silver foxes were entered on March 18 by the California State Corporation Department against the Oregon-California Silver Fox and Fur Farms of Millrose, Assistant Commissioner Ellis stating in his letter to the proprietor that the scheme of operation followed was contrary to the corporate securities act, according to the San Francisco Chronicle. Investigation by the department disclosed that the farm was selling foxes at $1250 per pair, for each or in installments, and in the latter case a promissory note was taken back at 8 per cent interest. A ranch fee for keeping animals was also charged. The company claims to operate two other establishments, one at Newburg, and the other at Hood River, Oregon, the San Francisco paper said.

Country Club Dance in April The second of a series of social entertainments to be given each month by the Hood River country club will be a favor dance, set for April 28 at the K. P. hall. The committee, the members of which made so pleasant an event of the recent dance, are already outlining plans for the coming dance.

FINAL BASEBALL BENEFIT DANCE NEAR

The third and last Hood River baseball club benefit will be given Saturday evening, March 31, at the K. of P. hall. This last dance is called the April Fool's dance. Everyone in the valley should be there, and everyone who is there is assured of a glorious evening. The baseball club in putting on their benefit dances have given the dancing populace of the mid-Columbia a higher standard of dance recreation to look forward to. Members of the club have given their time, their energy and talent freely in making these dances worth the public's attendance. The Jamboree, first of the series given by the club, surprised all who attended by the unique decorations and lighting effects that were presented. Next came the St. Patrick's day dance, which was the absolute zenith of any dance that Hood River dancing folks have witnessed here. Many of the townspeople came to the dance merely to enjoy the decorations and lighting effects. Now comes the last dance, the April Fool's dance, and it is alleged that this dance will surpass even the St. Patrick's dance in uniqueness and surprise. Mr. Hall, manager of the dances, has been working steadily on lighting effects for this dance, and plans for decorations promise a pleasant surprise for everyone. A new feature will be introduced at the April Fool's dance when indoor fireworks will be displayed. Mr. Hall has obtained several pieces of indoor fireworks display from Racine, Wisconsin especially for display at this dance. They are guaranteed as harmless and so fire hazard, but their display will be surprising to the persons who attend the dance. Merle Miller and his Night Hawks orchestra will furnish the music for this dance, and it is expected that Helen Shortler, Night Hawks' dance entertainer will present a number during the evening.

Christian Bible School Notes The Workers' conference held at the church Monday evening was small in attendance but large in interest and importance. Among other things settled was the appointment of Alice Merrill as assistant superintendent of the primary department. Mrs. Garrett is acting superintendent during the illness of Mrs. A. Samuel.

The conference also went on record as endorsing the Boy Ranger movement now being considered as a city organization by Rev. Schuyler Pratt, and voted to aid and cooperate in the work in any way possible.

The Easter program will be given in the morning, April 8. The classes will assemble as usual and at 10:15 all departments will assemble in the main room. After the program the pastor will take charge and the service will be in his hands from then on. There will be no Junior church on that day. The usual offering will go to school expense and a special offering will be taken at the assembly to go to missions.

There will be no assembly on April 1, the Easter program taking the place of the usual assembly. The next conference will be held at the home of Mrs. F. C. Simpson on Serpentine road May 30. Plans are under way to observe Mother's Day in a fitting way. The committee will be announced soon.
