CASCADE LOCKS

By FAYE DOUVILLE

Miss Gretchen Granstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Granstrom, has returned to Alsea, Oregon, to resume her duties in the public school. She has taught in the schools there for the past six years. This year she will have the third and fourth grades. While home this summer she had the pleasure of helping her parents get settled in their attractive new home, which stands on Fifth street, up the hill above R. E. Andrews & company. This home, with full basement, four bedrooms and fireplace, is now the finest home in town.

George Lyons, the Hood River plumber, who has been doing considerable work in Cascade Locks, tells the best fish story of the week and hopes to qualify for Ripley's "Believe it or not" column. His story: Seven years ago while fishing in the Little Sioux river in Iowa he caught a catfish with two mouths, one of which was below the other.

W. J. Carlson dropped into The Chronicle office Tuesday to remind us that he carries hunting licenses. Last week we told our readers that sportsmen would be compelled to go to Hood River to obtain their licenses—all of which explains how easy it is to be wrong.

Mrs. P. E. Thomason, of Turner, is visiting her son, O. V. Thomason, and Mrs. Thomason, who live just above the new Granstrom home. Mr. Thomason is employed in the office of the Guy F. Atkinson company.

Erick Erickson, Dr. Fred Folsom, Roy Folsom, of Marshfield, Fred Garrett, of Aurora, and "Dick" Morris left Wednesday for Ukiah, over in Eastern Oregon, where they will put in several days hunting deer.

State police took a traffic survey for twenty-four hours Friday checking on drivers licenses and vehicle licenses. Several arrests were made for overloaded trucks.

Jean Anderson, Ida, Elma and Franklin Glazier, and Nick Harrison enjoyed a lovely trip up to High Bridge on the Eagle Creek trail Sunday.

Mrs. Burchett, Myrtle Gibson, Hester Burchett and Claude Gilberts of Kelso visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wade Sunday.

Mrs. H. L. Morgan, Mrs. A. Heck and Mrs. E. Johnson of Portland spent Thursday in Cascade Locks visiting old friends.

Marie Nelson who has been spending the last two weeks visiting relatives in Washougal returned home Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lillygard, old time residents of Cascade Locks, visited Mr. and Mrs. August Peterson Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warren and Dr. Fred Folsom drove up to Pendleton last week to take in the Round Up.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Henderson have moved into their new home in Hyde Park.

Mrs. Erland Rosenback spent the week end in Portland.
