

Special warning in regard to exposed water pipes was given at the Chamber of Commerce meeting by President Myers. "All pipes fully covered should be taken care of at once," said Mr. Myers. "The longer we will have a cold snap and there will be lots of grief if this matter is not attended to." If they cannot be covered with dirt they should be wrapped with building paper and boxed in with sawdust. Our local plumbers will be glad to advise in this matter.

SCHOOL NEWS

Freshmen Initiation as Told by a Freshman—The seniors ast me to dish the dirt about the initiation party toter night, and seein' as how I was one of the victims, here goes: The party commenced 'bout 'bout 8 o'clock and when all the student body 'rived and assembled in the gymnasium the party started and we were given the works! Sides from having eaten a couple dozen raw oysters and being skidded clear across the gymnasium floor on my stomach, I had a pretty good time, but I do say "them thar sophomores are no gentle lambs."

Boys' Athletics—With the enrollment of several new students this week the prospects for the basketball season are more encouraging. Supt. Henderson of the high school will coach the guards, while Principal Autruth of the grade school will handle the forwards. Mr. Autruth will also coach the spee ball team.

Arrangements have been made and team letters as well as those members of the first team. Except for being smaller the letters will be the same for both teams.

Ping pong is another game of interest among both boys and girls and plans are being made to have a tournament.

The freshman initiation was attended last Friday evening by the student body, the faculty, the alumnae and a few out of town visitors.

County Superintendent Gibson was a visitor at the schools Friday.

The 7th and 8th grades have formed a student body and have elected the following officers; Kenneth Piper, president; Ruth Faulstich, vice-president; Nathelia Standish, secretary; Clayton Kyle, treasurer.

GERMAN BARON IS GIVEN 20 YEARS AS MASTER SPY

Night Life Figure Found Guilty of Stealing Army Secrets.

Prague, Czechoslovakia. — Baron George von Sosnowski, familiar figure in German aristocracy and one of the gayest figures in the mad whirl of postwar Berlin night life, is in a German jail under sentence of 20 years' penal servitude as a spy, according to reports here.

With him, according to these same reports, is the beautiful blond Baroness Bonita von Berg, divorced wife of Richard von Falkenhayn, son of the late Gen. Erich von Falkenhayn of World war fame, and now the wife of Baron Joseph von Berg, prominent aviation engineer. Although, as usual, a strict secrecy surrounds the entire affair, there is every reason to believe, according to one member of the Berlin diplomatic corps, that the beautiful baroness is under the same heavy sentence for her alleged part in the spy plot.

The Master Spy.

Sosnowski, who is known to his friends as Yurek, is the perfect cinema conception of a master spy. Suave, of Austrian aristocracy, he has always been the perfect gentleman. His friends say he has never been known to make a rude remark, he knows every one, and is handsome.

Suspicious government agents decided that such a man bears watching. The "Geheime Staats Polizei," and German Cheka, kept an eye on him for five years. They tapped his telephone wires and kept records of his conversations.

Shocked by wild reveals and scandalized by pictures they found in his apartment after wild parties, the secret agents, nevertheless, hung on grimly.

Finally the break for which the agents were waiting came. Baroness von Berg introduced Sosnowski to two women who were employed in the war ministry, Renate von Natzmer and Fraulein von Iena. They recalled that Baron von Berg was director of the air motor department of the huge Siemens plant.

The agents decided that the baroness and Sosnowski's many friends in official positions were passing on army secrets to him. Then, early last March, wholesale arrests were made.

Sosnowski and the baroness were jailed on charges of espionage and high treason. Her husband and ex-husband, Berg, and Falkenhayn, were seized. Renate von Natzmer and Fraulein von Iena were imprisoned, charged with stealing army documents and surrendering them to Sosnowski.

Fifty Arrests Made.

Many other friends of the unlucky Yurek were seized. Altogether about fifty arrests were made, but 30 persons were released after a severe grilling. The seizures included members of society as well as others of lesser rank. Among those released were Falkenhayn and Berg. Friends of the former said his hair turned gray during his week in prison.

Meanwhile Sosnowski was reported near the breaking point in his confinement. Friends of the imprisoned man have been told that a new medicine had been discovered which, if administered with food, completely breaks down the resistance of the prisoner. Whether this is true or not, political hostages shudder when the prison doors clang behind them.

Although a strict military censorship has been clamped on the entire affair, it is whispered that the alleged secrets involved in the affair deal with a steam powered airplane capable of making a nonstop flight from Berlin to San Francisco; a device that enables airplanes to fight in fog, and a new and more deadly poison gas.

It Paid to Be Thin

Wapping, Conn.—There are times when it is convenient to be "skinny." At a supper given by workers of the Federated church, the charge was a penny for each inch of waist measurement.
