PROGRESS NO. 11

It has been truthfully said that you can't keep a good man down. You can't, either. Take Jack Eimer, for instance. And that goes for Mrs. Eimer. They are moving into a larger building to take care of a growing business. We are glad to see their business force this change, and hope they have to move again soon.

QUALITY MEATS AT PORTLAND PRICES
 Next Door to Cascade Food Store

You get quality in meats and prompt service when you shop in our market—and what is more to the point, you are not paying premium prices. Our shop has been established for many years. The public long ago came to know that our prices are no higher than prices paid in Portland for the same quality of meats. Our delivery service extends down the highway to Dodson. The delivery car goes through the district every morning. Orders placed the night before go out shortly after 9 a. m.

EIMERS FORCED TO FIND LARGER QUARTERS WITH OPENING VARIETY STORE

As the result of a tremendous increase in business, Eimer's Electric and Novelty store has found it necessary to move into larger quarters and add a greater variety of stock. The new location, to which they will move this week, is just west of the stage depot.

The store will be open for business as usual Monday and Tuesday. The grand opening is set for Wednesday. Beginning on that date tickets will be offered with every purchase of one dollar or over. On Saturday, October 27, at the new store at 7 p. m. there will be a public drawing for the five prizes to be awarded. These prizes will include an electric heater, automatic iron, electric toaster, electric coffee maker and a buss lamp.

AMERICAN LEGION TO SPONSOR MASK BALL

Bonneville Post No. 88, American Legion, is preparing to put on a Halloween masquerade ball the night of October 26 that will give the entire district something to think of beside the approaching winter rains.

The post expects to give two prizes: One for the best dress costume and one for the best depression costume.

The dance, to be held at the Craigmont hotel, will be open to the public. Plans are under way to use plenty of colored lights and decorations and, weather permitting, the lights may be extended out of doors to create an atmosphere new to the community.

For the convenience of the employees at the dam the National Commissary company is constructing a new laundry depot, directly across from the old commissary on the reservation.

A complete laundry and dry cleaning service is to be inaugurated this week. One of the features of this service is a special bundle rate, the bundle to include a complete change for the workmen each week.

The new Tricolene dry cleaning service is another feature. In this service the article to be cleaned passes through three distinct washes without being touched by hand.

F. J. McDonald of the National Commissary, Inc., flew to Seattle and return last Wednesday.

Tom Creacy, of Pacific Coast Steel company, has turned into a landscape gardner. Nice going, Tom; hope you can grow a board walk some time.
