

PIERCE TO VISIT LOCKS WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Notice has been received by Cascade Locks democratic leaders that Congressman Watler E. Pierce of the First District and candidate for reelection, will be in Hood River county, Wednesday, October 31. Mr Pierce will be in Cascade Locks at two o'clock in the afternoon on that day, and arrangements are being made for him to have a chance to meet with the local electorate, either at Merrill's Pavilion or the high school auditorium.

Congressman Pierce has always been a heavy favorite in this section of the county, and polled a heavy vote here when a candidate for governor and again when a candidate for congress the first time.

COOK GETTING CROWDS

AT TYRRELL'S TAVERN

"Archie" Cook has just about completed the task of making the famous Tyrrell's Tavern over. He has opened the restaurant on the second floor, and is now getting his card room under way. The card room will be in charge of Jack Bowen, who formerly presided over the card room at the Labor Temple in Portland.

Until a month ago, Bonneville was a dark, wide spot on the highway, but Cook has lighted up the tavern and is keeping it open 24 hours a day. He has been doing a tremendous business, and of late weeks neither he nor Mrs. Cook have hardly found time to sleep. But he is betting the crowds.

DOC PAINTS ANYTHING

"I sign anything" is the boast of E. A. "Doc" Salzman of Cascade Locks. "Doc" has opened up a sign shop in the building occupied by the new Service Garage on the main highway. Any type of painting is the specialty of Salzman. Already he has completed sign for the Eagles, Andrew's Market, Dugout Bar, Eimer's New Variety and Electric Store, and Merrill's Barbecue.

WEATHER CONTINUES

IDEAL OPEN WINTER

Weather conditions remain ideal in the Gorge, giving rise to the hope that the district may enjoy another open winter. Belief that a mild winter is ahead is strengthened by two facts, often quoted by old timers:

1. Few geese are seen headed south.
2. The trees are retaining their leaves, which to date have hardly commenced to turn their color.

The autumn to date has been almost free of frost and not enough rain has fallen to dampen the spirits of the most ardent Californian.

Cock-Crower's Job Ended

From 1041 to 1840, the kings of England maintained an official "Cock-crower," a man who appeared in the king's apartment at midnight on Ash Wednesday and crowed, to remind the monarch of Christ's betrayal. On this night in 1840, the new Prince Consort, who had never heard of the crower, was quietly reading when his door flew open and a voice cried, "Cock-a-doodle-doo." The shock was terrible. Thus ended the 799-year-old job.—Collier's Weekly.

Spanish Language Came With Columbus' Outfit

The New world began to speak Spanish when Columbus colonized Hispaniola (the island of Haiti). Long before the time of Jamestown and Plymouth, Spaniards were not only exploring and adventuring in this hemisphere, but diffusing their language and culture by planting permanent settlements, setting up printing presses, and founding universities. Spanish was a dominant language for our own Southwest less than a hundred years ago, asserts a writer in the Chicago Tribune.

Today in many Texas, New Mexico and Arizona communities near the Mexican border, Spanish is almost as necessary as English. Almost as many people of Mexican blood live in the states of the American side of our southern border as live in the Mexican states on the other side of it. Los Angeles is one of the largest Mexican populated cities in the world, with a Spanish speaking element larger than the entire population of Schenectady.

Indian words with first a Spanish, then an English twist in spelling also are part of our speech heritage from Spain. Potato and tomato, tobacco, mesquite, chocolate, quinine, henequin, maize, cannibal, canoe—these and other native terms the Spaniards took from Mexico, Peru, the Caribbean Islands and elsewhere. They passed them on to us.

Hungarian Shepherd Dog Has Wavy, Silken Coat

The same inherent reasoning power that endows the herding dog with a superior type of canine intelligence also expresses itself in the Kuvasz, or White Hungarian Shepherd.

Through centuries and centuries of herding, writes an authority in the Los Angeles Times, his ancestors have imparted to offspring that highly developed mental process that has produced qualities now considered instinct.

By virtue of his heritage, the Kuvasz should prove worthy of the performance of duty required of any dog. Behind him is the ancestry of over a thousand years, according to research.

Like the closely related but more massive Great Pyrenees, with which he is often confused, he is cloaked with a deep ivory-white wavy silken coat. His splendid head is flanked with ivory or cream-tinged drop ears. But the Kuvasz is seldom over 28 inches in height, and his weight averages 70 pounds.

His black eyes are more oblique and set closer together than those of the Pyrenees . . . his ears are rounder and more elevated and he is longer in the couplings. His black eyes, nose and lips form a pleasing contrast against his white background, making him one of the most beautiful of all dogs.

Homesickness

Homesickness sometimes becomes so intense that the sufferer not only loses all desire to eat and sleep but develops a melancholia which leads to insanity and death. In fact, army medical officers recognize it. In extreme cases, as a disability which warrants a furlough, or even a discharge, in order to save a soldier's life.—Collier's Weekly.

St. Peter's and the Vatican

St. Peter's was erected on the traditional site of the martyrdom of St. Peter, approximately June 29, A. D. 67. The Emperor Constantine in 322 erected a small chapel with the altar immediately over the body, which had been exhumed and buried with much ceremony. In 323 he commenced the building of the great basilica in the form of a cross, which endured until the Fifteenth century. In 1450 Pope Nicholas V commenced the present building, and this has continued to the present time. The building was dedicated in 1626 after 44 popes had participated in its improvement. The Vatican is a palace originally the residence of Pope Symmachus, from 468 to 514 A. D.
