

BONNEVILLE

By Aino Ferrington

makes it necessary for the phone company to keep an operator on duty all of the time.

V. E. Daugherty, the barber in Community Center, on the highway, has purchased the house in Bonny Villa recently vacated by Richard Joslyn, who has returned to Portland. He and Mrs. Daugherty and small daughter are occupying the home.

L. E. French, who is developing the community center, on the highway, into quite a popular resort, is attracting large numbers of people to his rendezvous this week with a free showing of the unusual in reptiles. Chief point of interest is the horned rattlesnake. It is like is seen only once in the proverbial blue moon.

Chris Mrg, a resident of Cascade Locks more than 30 years ago, but who now makes his home in Portland, is back in his old haunts and drawing long ones and short one these days.

The bridge club met last week at the home of Capt. and Mrs. J. S. Gorlinski. While the men were playing at the Gorlinski home, the ladies met at the Leo J. Miller home and enjoyed their own game of bridge.

L. E. French has just completed a new cottage in the rear of the Community Center and is now enjoying all the comforts of home, inasmuch as he owns a restaurant he is more fortunate than some of his neighbors, for he does not have to cook breakfast.

The engineers now boast a basketball team, which they insist is about the fastest aggregation in several counties, and in proof of their assertions have announced to the world that the ball tossers are prepared to meet any and all comers. The team is made up of Lieut. Colby Meyer, West Point graduate; James Reimer, of the Multnomah club; D. G. (Red) Jarman and A. D. Elkins, who got their training in Honolulu; "Shorty" Ferguson, former Reed college star; and "Bill" Brink, of Cascade Locks.
