

EAGLE CREEK

Rance Ramey has sold his new jack-saw and has now taken over the position as assistant engineer in the new Roosevelt inn at Bonneville. It is asserted that Frank Moran now has a jack-saw and is handling all contracts at 30c per foot, but even though his wife is running the inn in order to let Frank devote all his time to the new position is not producing profits.

Bud Bates has returned from a Portland hospital, where he was treated for pulled tendons in his leg, and resumed his duties on the dam.

Ed Carpenter has now decided to build a new dog house for his bothersome police dog and to purchase an especially strong chain instead of building four-foot shelves on all his neighbor's back porches.

Art Schaff, ex-proprietor of the Eagle Creek shoe store, has now opened a department in the Bonneville Merchandise company's business house.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Waring were Portland visitors last week, as was Mrs. Bellanger.

Glenn Keller, "The Oklahoma Kid," reports that his home will be finished at least within two months after the dam is completed. The residence was started early last summer.

Jack Cummings is ill with pleurisy, but is expected to return to work this week. George Burgess completed a business trip to Hood River over the week-end.

A sure sign of spring. Included among those seen daily hiking on Eagle Creek hill Monday morning were Mrs. Carl Wilson and Mrs. Ervin Hall.

Bill Paul is passing out the cigars to residents of the Eagle Creek government homesight, celebrating the birth of a baby daughter, born last week in the Odell hospital. Mother and child are reported to be doing well.

Fred Kent lost a finger Saturday night while working on a caterpillar track with a sledge hammer. He was taken to a Portland hospital for medical attention.

Two more signs of spring and love in the air, in the Eagle Creek district. Gene Cahill is making numerous trips to Portland, while local misses are eyeing the young bachelor with new interest. It was reported. J. C. Johnson has built an addition to his house on the hill.

Ed Klasinger's experiments with a new oil stove have led residents to believe that the new heating plant will soon appear on the local market, though patents have not yet been applied for.

John Ingerland's new car, it is expected, will soon be in operation again, as the snow is nearly gone, and again will be seen running up and down the hill, either backwards or forwards.

Eagle Creek's newest resident purchased a load of wood last week, but upon returning home found it all thrown in for him. A check-up disclosed that his feminine neighbor had helped him out.

Denny Immerly, co-bunk partner of Rance Ramey, returned home from a Hood River hospital last week, where he was confined with a bad case of the flu, in time to take in Merrill's dance at Cascade Locks. However, upon his way home, the invalid ran out of gas and was until three o'clock reaching Eagle Creek. No serious effects have yet been reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lacy have moved from the Eagle Creek lodge to an apartment in Cascade Locks.

Mrs. Lyle Hickcock visited with her mother in Hood River over the week-end.

Arthur Scharf has returned to work after a week's enforced lay-off, resulting from an attack of intestinal flu.

BONNEVILLE SCHOOL NEWS

Nominations for the Bonneville grade school student body officers were made at a recent assembly. The election will take place at the first of next term. Those elected were: president, Rosie Clendenen; Millicent Doyle, Bobby Sherman; Marjorie Stevens and John Teerink; secretary, Ione Goodrich; Rita Corron; Ruth Faubion and Dolores Lloyd; fire chief, Billy Noble; Dan Avery, Norman Sherman and Bobby Lloyd.

The school, though it lost four members, increased in size. The return of David Noah and Barbara Teck, out for a long time with illness, preceded the arrival of eight newcomers, Jaunita Hicks, Albert Johnson, Russell and Gene Kelsey, Pearl and Norman Mann, and Jesse and Vito Masso. Those departing were Herbert and Douglas Aue, to Stevenson, Washington, and Edwin and Donald DeVoll.

The dramatic classes began work on two presentations, "Three Pills in a Bottle" and "Rescued by Radio," to be given by the lower and upper divisions, respectively, sometime next month.

Though handicapped by the lack of a piano, the girl's glee club is reported to be progressing rapidly with its work on two-part songs.

Both the boy's and girl's basketball teams will travel to Fairview tomorrow night for a game with the Fairview squads. Last week's games were postponed because of the weather. Principal Robertson announced.

Albert Weisendanger, Eagle Creek forest ranger, spoke on Forest Preservation before the student body last week, illustrating his talk with colored slides and motion pictures.

Maroon and gold were chosen as the school colors by vote of the students recently. The first grade class now lists 25 pupils. Committees were appointed by the third and fourth grade room to launch a project in support of the Portland Sunshine division.

Virgil Anderson has donated a phonograph to the fifth-sixth grade room for its music period. As one is already on hand and another promised, it is believed that before February there will be a machine for each room in the school.

Two rooms have elected their class officers, the fifth-sixth and seventh-eighth grades. In the former room Clark Slattery was chosen president, Billy Noble secretary and Norman Waggoner council representative. In the latter class John Teerink is president, Bobby Sherman vice-president and Dolores Loyd is secretary.

A visit of Mr. and Mrs. Lee J. Ducette to Portland over Saturday and Sunday resulted in the latter spending an additional week there.

"Will you be good if I kiss you?"

"What do you think I am, a miracle man?"

He: "You look like a million dollars."

She: "Yes, and I'm just as hard to make."

"Darling," he murmured, happily, "you are the only girl I ever kissed."

"I believe you," sighed the girl. He kissed her again.

"And you are the only girl who believed what I say," went on the foolish fellow, absent-mindedly.
