

CLARK HAS HORN CLUB

W. H. Clark is now in sole control of the Horn club. He took the place over Monday. Jack Roth, who has a large acquaintance in the district, is in charge of the bar. The pool tables will be in operation within a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. M. Hauser, of the Bonneville drug store, entertained six Portlanders over the week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pieckert, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rogers, Mrs. Theresa Stoll and Mrs. Mary Bradshaw. The Henry Edlund's also dropped in Saturday night for a visit.

NEW BRIDGE STARTED

With the first of the 11 1-2-ton steel girders safely placed by nightfall Friday, McRae Brothers of Seattle, contractors on the government's new $55,249 swing bridge across the sea locks, were well under way on the new railroad structure.

The four concrete foundation pillars across the canal have been set, and the work of placing the girders will take approximately another week. The contractors have two weeks in which to complete the railroad line to the powerhouse.

BONNEVILLE BRIDGERS TO PLAY ALDERWOOD

Twelve members of the Bonneville Men's Bridge club will journey to Portland Thursday night to meet a team from the Alderwood Country club. A return match will be played two weeks later in the guest house. Those making the trip are:

Leo Miller, Howard Rigler, Ben Torpen, Horace Skinner, William Laxton, Harold Richen, George Goff, Frank Linton, Jack Miles, Albert Bauer, Captain J. S. Gorkinski and Arnold Henry.

2167 SEE DAM PROJECT

The largest number of people to view the Bonneville dam project since the day President Roosevelt spoke on Bradford Island, filled the view point to capacity all day Sunday. Figures released by Captain John J. Torkelson, of the government guards, show that 2167 were present. This number does not include the hundreds who examined the project from the highway or who had passes to enter the reservation.

Odd Fellows expect to start building this week.

Work on the new garage under construction by P. E. Brockway and J. E. Nelson, Greenham business men, on the highway below Bonny Villa, was stopped Sunday when state highway engineers informed the pair that their building plans would bring the structure directly in the path of the super-highway, to be built in July.

Edward Auld, of the Lodi, and his mother, Mrs. Emie Auld, of Akron, Colorado, motored to Mount Hood Sunday, but were halted by snow ten miles above Parkdale. Mrs. Auld is spending a month here with her son.
