DELEGATES HOME FROM EAGLES' CONVENTION

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Trimble and Perry Kitzmiller, delegates of the local aerie, returned Sunday from Grants Pass, Oregon, where they attended the Oregon state convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles. They report a most enjoyable time socially and a very successful business session.

The accomplishments and achievements of Eagledome in Oregon have been the greatest of any state in the union during the past year and on a percentage basis Oregon backs the entire jurisdiction of the United States.

Ten new aeries have been instituted in Oregon in the past year and more than 3000 new members have been added to the rolls, resolutions adopted at the convention will undoubtedly help the conditions throughout the state physically and financially.

A great many resolutions were adopted pertaining to the humanitarian side of life and as the Eagles are known for their humanitarian interests, those subjects were not dealt with lightly and will be carried to the state legislature to become laws.

CONGREGATION GETS DEED TO PROPERTY

Years ago the Methodist Community church was built on property owned by the Union Pacific railroad back of the high school in Cascade Locks. The years passed and the church paid ground rental. In time the property passed into the hands of J. B. Laber, who offered to deed the ground to the congregation under certain conditions. No agreement was reached and Laber continued to hold title.

Last month, after the people of the community voted to incorporate the town over Laber's protests he became more mellow in his attitude, concluded to give the church a gift deed. And so he did. Now the congregation owns the ground.

"This kind and generous act is deeply appreciated by the trustees and all those who use the church as a place of public worship," said Victor Wigren yesterday in a communication to The Chronicle, "and we hereby express our sincere thanks to Mr. Laber for an act which we feel is a benefit to the entire community."

CHAMBER CLUB SEEKS MONEY FOR BIG VALVE

A series of socials, dances and other entertainments are being planned jointly by the chamber of commerce and the Civic club for the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase a reducer, to be used in stepping down the pressure after the city hooks onto the government's 10-inch pipeline. The reducing valve is necessary, due to the tremendous pressure in the water line. It is expected to cost about $350. The government proposes to let the city tie into the line, and when the dam is completed and the locks are abandoned the line will be turned over to the municipality.

If funds are not raised for the purchase of the valve through popular efforts it will be necessary for the newly incorporated town to buy one out of tax funds.
