BONNEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Boeckman of Wilsonville, Ore., visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Scoffern, at the Roosevelt inn several days last week.

Wiring on the old administration switchboard was overhauled last week to make a more complete job of it and to get ready for extending phones to field offices to be built in the next few months.

Paul Flegel is spending most of the week in Portland opening up a new service station at the corner of Northeast 7th avenue and Russell street for the firm of Flegel and Rich. His brother, Joe Flegel, will manage the new station after it is well under way. D. H. Duyck of Dodson is assistant to Jim Rich while his partner is away.

Capt. John Torkelson of the U. S. guards is the author of an article on the progress of Bonneville dam appearing in the summer edition of The Tomahawk of Alpha Sigma Phi, quarterly magazine of the national fraternity. Captain Torkelson is an Alpha Sig from the University of Washington, where he starred on the football teams of 1916 and 1917.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rigler and son have returned from their several-week vacation trip to San Francisco and other parts of California. Mr. Rigler is the U. S. engineer in charge of the powerhouse construction.

New U. S. guards are Privates Carl Ehlen and F. O. Marvin, who replace Privates O. W. Russell and H. W. Atkinson. Both are former internal revenue service men. Ehlen's last assignment being at Longview, Wash., and Marvin's at Laredo, Tex.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Gahr are planning to move to the dam area from their home in Portland. They spent the weekend in Spokane. Mr. Gahr is watchman for Columbia Construction company.

Doctor and Mrs. S. E. Wells left Monday for a month's vacation. "Doc" said they weren't quite sure where they would go, but it is understood that he is looking for some good fishing lakes and streams. He is finished with his research work in Portland on meningitis cases. Dr. Russell L. Baker will continue to carry on the work of the reservation first aid station in his absence.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thomas and Mr. Thomas' mother, Mrs. Margaret Thomas arrived last week from Chehalis, Wash., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Eddie McVeagh at their home in Cook's addition for several weeks.

Marvin Lambert, who runs the stand at the View point for the Bonneville Operating company, was host last week to Harold Eby and mother of Kohler, Wis., Reynold Ruppel of Sheboygan, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Campbell of Chicago. The visitors didn't know that Lambert, a high school mate of theirs at Kohler, was running the stand, recognized him immediately on going to the View point to see the dam.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mears are building a new house in Cook's addition to replace their tent-house.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ewen have leased a lot in Cook's addition, are reported to be planning a new house. Ewen is a carpenter for General-Shea. He and his wife are living at Bonny Villa now.

A long, lean cougar was seen prowling among the trees back of U. S. Guard Charles Bellarts' home at Tanner creek.

Mrs. J. Efteland and son, Robert, visited Mr. Efteland at Herman's department store Saturday, returned the same night to Portland.

G. E. Chapman and C. Ray Chapman of Portland picnicked at

Tanner creek park Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sawyer.

Dave Johnson, formerly U. S. engineer on railroad inspection work, is now superintendent for Orino, Birkemeyer and Saremal on its relocation of the Union Pacific.

Lee Summerville, U. S. engineer on steel inspection, is expected back this week from a month's vacation. He started out for California, was in Kansas City last week sweltering in typical middle-west heat.

Flowers for the funeral of Andy Miller's mother, who died last week in Portland, were sent by engineers and dam employees the end of the week. Collection was taken by Lem Sanders, dispatcher at the garage. Miller is fire extinguisher man in the administration building.

Perry McVey has leased a lot in Cook's addition and is reported to be planning building a home.

Miss Arline Sawyer is home from University of Oregon summer extension school in Portland. Friday her mother, Mrs. Jack Sawyer, drove to Odell, near Hood River, for luncheon with her sister, Mrs. E. S. Lacombe.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. George were hosts last week to Mrs. George's sister, Miss Elma Schilling, on her way from Wallace, Idaho, to California. Miss Schilling expects to drop in on George's on her return home.

Residents around the Bonneville dam reservation this week are mourning the loss of "Pongee," a fox terrier owned by N. C. Pearson, U. S. engineer in charge of railroad and highway work. "Pongee" was struck by a car at Bonny Villa, ran a hundred feet into Dave Johnson's yard to die. The terrier was well-known and liked all over the reservation for his friendliness.

Jack Bowen is now back in Bonneville tending bar for L. M. French's recreation center. Bowen, no mean hand at sailing schooners across the bar, was formerly with the Community center on the dam reservation.

L. M. French's son, Leslie, is here from Portland, where he is a Lincoln high school junior, learning his father's business from the ground up. He straightens up things, looks after Eddie McVeagh's cigar counter when Eddie is out. Young French will stay in Bonneville for several weeks.

Mrs. Albert Bauer is expected to return to her home on the reservation the end of the week, following the birth of a son in a Portland hospital. The baby is the first child to be born to parents living in the permanent quarters.
