

Simple Home Treatment For Swollen Veins

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins or bunches, the best advice for home treatment that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription known as Moone's Emerald Oil.

Simply ask the Bonneville Drug Store or your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you should notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are no longer troublesome. Emerald Oil is a powerful, yet harmless, inhibitory antiseptic — refund guaranteed if dissatisfied.

American Legion Elects Officers

Fred L. Abbott, of the U. S. Engineers, was chosen commander of Bonneville post No. 88 at the annual election of officers last week. He will succeed Dave Marvin, chief clerk of the U. S. Engineers.

Other officers elected were: Senior vice commander, Ed Turrish; junior vice commander, Tom Waring; adjutant, Jeff Olsen; finance officer, Reed Walworth; chaplain, Ed Clark; historian, Lee Summerville; sergeant-at-arms, Tom Jones; members of executive committee, Ed Soglstrom, Charles Shinn, O. S. M. Hauser, James Fabian, "Bob" White and Dave Marvin.

The new commander has not yet announced the appointment of his chairmen for permanent standing committees.

Commander-elect Abbott has been active in the legion, both locally and in the state, and has a wide acquaintance. He was among the first engineers to come onto the job after work started on the dam.

Commander Marvin, who is retiring after a year's service as head of the post, has devoted much effort to building up the organization and has been a tireless worker.

At the Theatre

Continuing their fall season of ace-high films, the Roosevelt theatre this week presents three outstanding pictures.

Friday and Saturday is scheduled Nancy Carroll and Lloyd Nolan in "Atlantic Adventure", a drama of villainy on the high seas.

The story deals with an ex-reporter who, because his fiancée has jilted him, stows away on a ship, only to find his friend, a photographer, and his fiancée also aboard as stowaways. When a duo of jewel thieves, gangsters and an escaping murderer turn up in quick succession, the reporter gets into one dangerous scrape after another in an effort to break up the crime machine and get back his job and find his lovely fiancée.

Most of the action takes place aboard the "Gigantic," which, they say, is patterned after the new "Normandie." In any event, it is an extremely interesting background—and, all in all, the finish of the film comes all too soon.

Albert S. Rogell's direction is excellent. "Atlantic Adventure" rates 100 per cent from this department.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday brings Mae West and Paul Cavanaugh in "Goin' To Town".

In "Goin' to Town" Paul Cavanaugh plays the man Mae West loves. He loves her, too, but he's afraid to admit it and runs off to Buenos Aires. Mae West, who has inherited the money of a cattle king, follows him to Buenos Aires taking her racing stable as an excuse. But she can't win him, she learns, until she has acquired some of the society airs he so admires. Without hedging she marries an impoverished young socialite because he will give her an entrée to the elite. How Cavanaugh is brought to a realization of his love and how he rescues Mae West from the fortune hunters and snobs who surround her, is shown in the climax of "Goin' to Town".

Wednesday and Thursday Katherine Hepburn brings to the screen a striking characterization in "Alice Adams".

The story revolves about a young girl and her family in a small town in the Middle West. Greatly embarrassed by her shabby home, lack of money and the resulting social oblivion, she strives to cover her hurt pride with a mask of pretense. When she stops trying to deceive herself and the man she loves, she wins the things which she desires.

Just before marriage a man's coat lapel acquires that grayish look which comes from the constant contact with face powder, but it's wonderful how soon it brightens up and gets back its natural color after the wedding.

Only one man when in love tells the truth, and that was Adam when he said: "Eve, you are only one in the world for me!"

Many an honest word has come from between false teeth.
