FOREST SERVICE NEWS

Hikers planning a trip to Wah-tum lake via Eagle Creek trail will no longer have to ford Eagle creek at the 4 1/2 mile post.

The long log bridge and part of the trail which was destroyed last winter by flood waters have been replaced by a crew of E.R.A. workers.

Betterment work on the entire trail between the Eagle Creek camp grounds and Wah-tum lake is now under way with a crew of 15 C.C.C. workers widening the trail, cutting down snags that may fall across the trail, providing safety railings along steep rock bluffs and constructing rustic rest benches at intervals along the trail. A new camp site for overnight camping is also being developed at the 4 mile post.

It is estimated that more than 2,160 hikers made the trail trip to Wah-tum lake this past season.

Borah will not be able to land the G.O.P. nomination unless the Old Guard, which never dies, surrenders.

Police Chiefs Target; Has 48 of Them Removed

Belgrade.—A strange "record" is claimed by Svetozar Preljitch, who now lives in the village of Jezevites. In the last 67 years he has made 22 charges against the local authorities and caused 48 chiefs of police to be removed from their posts by presenting proof of violations or neglect of regulations against them. "When I have got 50 police chiefs changed," he told an interviewer, "I can die happy."
